A DREAM IN A DREAM.

Pharaoh dreamt that seven lean cows swallowed seven fat cows; but there is no dream that Lady Jersey has arrived, as everybody knows.

I hope the ladies of Sydney will show their great respect for her during her stay in the Sunny South. We are quite sure she will take a great interest in the colonies.

There is no dream about M. Goulston, as everybody knows him, having carried on business for 36 years in Sydney. He conducts his business in a thorough business manner.

M. G. has just received a new supply of seasonable goods of the latest designs specially made for him, and sent direct from London per s.s. Valetta and Orizaba.

All goods are marked in plain figures, from which no abatement is ever made.

M. G. has also received from London a splendid selection of large coloured Fashion Plates, and his place of business is fitted up after the style of a large Art Gallery.

M. G. wishes the public to call and inspect his premises.

IRREFUTABLE TESTIMONY to the MERITS of MARSHALL'S
TONIC NERVINE.

Dr. Ewington, of Balmain, writes:—"I have very great pleasure in recommending Marshall's Tonic Nervine for its great efficacy in the treatment of nervous debility.
"(Signed) WM. EWINGTON, M.R.C.S.E."

Another Physician's Verdict.—Dr. Knight, late of Sydney and Leichhardt, wrote:—"After carefully noting the therapeutical action of Marshall's Tonic Nervine, I unhesitatingly aver that it is an invaluable remedy for the many nervous affections which both sexes suffer from, and especially for that large section of delicate women which suffer so from excessive weakness. I cannot recommend it too highly.
"(Signed) J. H. KNIGHT, L.S.A., Lond."

JAMES MAYNE, Esq., F.R.M.S., late Examiner in Chemistry to the Pharmacy Board of N.S.W., writes:—
"I, the undersigned Analytical Chemist, have much pleasure in recommending MARSHALL'S TONIC NERVINE. After an exhaustive analysis of the same, I consider its prominent ingredients form a very valuable Nerve Tonic.

MASTER and MAN.

The exceptional popularity of MASTER AND MAN has been fully exemplified by the substantial support nightly accorded to the drama during the past week. The intense interest with which the pathos and humour of the various situations have been received by crowded audiences, comprising all classes of the community, proves without a doubt that the admirable acting and the magnificent staging of MASTER AND MAN have achieved a veritable success for all concerned in the production. If enormous attendances, complimentary criticisms, enthusiastic applause, hearty laughter, and friendly congratulations be seismometers by which success can be gauged, MASTER and MAN is the success of successes, and the great triumph of BLAND HOLT'S many prosperous seasons in Sydney.

TO THE MEMBERS AUSTRALIAN MUTUAL PROVIDENT SOCIETY.

THOMAS PRATT is a Candidate for the position of AUDITOR, and respectfully solicits the favour of your VOTES AND INTEREST.

TO THE MEMBERS of the AUSTRALIAN MUTUAL PROVIDENT SOCIETY.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

According to the provisions of the bylaws, two directors retire in May. The retiring directors this year are Mr. Robert J. King and me. Mr. King has courteously informed me of his intention not to stand for a seat at the Board on this occasion, and I have, therefore, being eligible for re-election, the honour to announce to you that I offer myself as a candidate for one of the vacant seats.

I have occupied a seat at the Board since May, 1887, and have become acquainted with some of the duties laid upon your directors, and also a little of what devolves upon the chairman, which position I have filled, probably unworthily, during the past two years. But if you do me the honour to re-elect me I shall continue to give my best efforts in the discharge of my duty as a director of your noble society.

I remain,
Your most obedient servant,
THOS. LITTLEJOHN.

Sydney, 3rd March, 1891.

AUSTRALIAN MUTUAL PROVIDENT SOCIETY.—Mr. ROBERT GILFILLAN is a Candidate for the office of Director at the next election.

TO THE SHAREHOLDERS COMMERCIAL BANKING COMPANY OF SYDNEY.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I beg to give you notice that I am a CANDIDATE for the seat at the Board which has become vacant by the resignation of the Hon. Edward Knox, M.L.C.

Yours respectfully,
EDW. W. KNOX.

MÖLLER'S COD LIVER OIL.
For thirty years the public have shown their just appreciation by an ever-increasing demand.

MÖLLER'S COD LIVER OIL.
R. B. ANDERSEN, Esq., U.S., Consul-General reports:—"I consulted Mr. F. P. Möller, whose father, Peter Möller, was the first to produce Steam Refined Cod Liver Oil, about thirty years ago."

MÖLLER'S COD LIVER OIL.
The CONSUL-GENERAL in his "Report," pp. 79 and 81 January, 1888, to the U.S. Government says:—"I took pains to ascertain the process by which it is prepared, and for this purpose I visited the celebrated factory at Stamsund, established by Peter Möller."
"His own success, he claimed was chiefly due to a careful selection of the livers, and scrupulous cleanliness at every stage and point of treatment."

MÖLLER'S COD LIVER OIL.
Another visitor was M. PAUL DU CHAILLU the distinguished traveller. He writes in The Land of the Midnight Sun, "I was surprised to see the number of diseased and lean livers; the men were very particular in selecting the choicest kinds. I noticed that extreme care was taken in all stages of the preparation of the oil."

MÖLLER'S COD LIVER OIL.
Drs. HARWICKE, ABBOTTS, BARTLETT, TRIPE, SAYRE, MARION SIMS, RUDDOCK, EASTER, DRYSDALE, and others too numerous to mention, have given their highest testimony in its favour.

MÖLLER'S COD LIVER OIL.
Mothers have found its value. One of them—a perfect stranger—wrote the other day from Manchester:—Mrs. F. has used Mr. P. M.'s oil for her children for several years, and finds it the best she can procure and more palatable than most oils."

MÖLLER'S COD LIVER OIL.
At eighteen Exhibitions has been awarded a SCORE of PRIZES.

MÖLLER'S COD LIVER OIL
Can be obtained from any good Chemist or Store all the world over. All bottles recently sent from the warehouse have the date perforated at the bottom of the label. See that it is so.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE.—Vice Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated publicly in court that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, and he regretted to say it had been sworn to.—Times, July 13, 1864.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—The Right Hon. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians, and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in cholera was Chlorodyne.—See Lancet, December 31, 1864.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne "is prescribed by scores of orthodox practitioners. Of course it would not be thus singularly popular did it not 'supply a want and fill a place.'"—Medical Times, January 13, 1886.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is the best and most certain remedy in coughs, colds, Asthma, consumption, neuralgia, rheumatism, &c.

Dr. J. Collis Brown's Chlorodyne is a certain cure for cholera, dysentery, diarrhœa, colic, &c.

Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.—Caution: None genuine without the words, "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle. THE FEDERATION CONVENTION.

FIFTH DAY.

One of the most satisfactory indications of the public interest in the Convention has been the large attendance of strangers. Every morning, long before 11 o'clock, a considerable crowd may be seen gathered around the entrance to the strangers' gallery, and those who are not fortunate enough to obtain seats still linger about and watch with marked attention the arrival of the delegates. It is rare to see a vacant seat in either of the two public galleries, and the space allotted to members of Parliament is generally well occupied. His Excellency the Governor has shown considerable interest in the Convention, and is a daily attendant, whilst Lady Jersey may sometimes be seen sitting by his side in the vice-regal box. Under the press gallery there is nearly always a group of ladies, the gaiety of whose costumes lightens up the sombre old chamber, where brilliant costumes are rarely seen, and where quiet black or grey is the order of the day. When the President took his seat yesterday the gauntlet thrown down by Mr. Deakin was taken up by Mr. Barton, who ably championed the cause of the Senate, or Upper House, against the resolute attack made on the previous day by the Victorian legislator. Mr. Barton, who had had the advantage of the adjournment to think over and prepare his speech, was calm and dignified, speaking with extreme slowness, as if he wished to give the delegates ample time to weigh over and comprehend his utterances. Before coming to Mr. Deakin and the power of the Senate, Mr. Barton touched lightly upon the tariff question, suggesting that the diverse tariffs of the various colonies should be amalgamated gradually by means of some form of compromise. It was only when he came to the great question of State rights that Mr. Barton, as a constitutional lawyer, appeared to take much interest in his argument. The keynote of his speech was the thesis that no scheme of federation could be successful unless founded on the goodwill of the parties interested. And the colonies could not be expected to look well upon the plan unless the rights of the several States were adequately conserved. Ergo, it was necessary to the success of federation that the Senate, the chosen guardian of State rights, should have full power—even to the extent of veto on money and taxation bills—and should be established on a representative basis. Mr. Barton favoured an Upper House after the fashion of the United States Senate, and looked upon it as an absolute necessity that the second Chambers in the individual States, as well as in the Federation, should be elective. The vexed question of the site of the Federal capital has hitherto been carefully avoided by all the speakers, but Mr. Barton was daring enough to touch upon it for the purpose of gaining an illustration of the possible dangers which might result from the limitation of the powers of the Senate. A bill establishing the capital must necessarily be a money bill, but the probability that the two Houses would be in accord over it may be looked on as very remote. Hence, unless the Upper House is entrusted with the power of veto in detail, it will practically be helpless in a matter of such paramount importance. This imaginary case and others of the same kind were quoted by Mr. Barton in support of his assertion that the power of veto in detail would tend rather to diminish than increase the friction of the two Houses, and, indeed, was absolutely essential to the proper working of the Federal Government.

Naturally, Mr. Barton was at home upon the subject of the judiciary, and, dwelling on the question at some length, he strongly urged that the Australian Supreme Court should be something more than an academical Court of Appeal. It should have full power to enforce its decrees in every part of the federal colonies. Mr. Barton also favours the transfer of appeals from the Privy Council to an Australian Supreme Court. It is doubtful, though, as the speaker hinted, whether the Imperial Parliament will consent to abandon this power. It refused in the case of Canada, and, if guided by precedent, will certainly refuse again in the case of Australia. But Mr. Barton is brave, and urges that the power is one which we should ask, even if we never expect to get it. In the matter of the Executive, Mr. Barton spent some time in showing grounds for his belief that it should be made dependent on the favour of the Lower House only, and not, as had been suggested, on both Houses. Between this course and the American plan of disassociating the Ministry entirely from the Legislature Mr. Barton saw no middle way.

The speech, admirably thought out, clear cut and logical, produced a marked impression on the Convention, and Sir John Downer, who followed, paid Mr. Barton a high compliment in his opening remarks. Sir John, like Mr. Barton, spoke slowly, in carefully-framed well-balanced sentences, with the air of a man who stands on solid ground and is accustomed to be listened to with attention. This concession was granted to Sir John by the ever-polite Convention, though it can hardly be said that his remarks added to the already large stock of ideas which that body is accumulating. Sir John followed Mr. Barton's lead very closely, and advocated the establishment of a Senate on the United States lines. He controverted Mr. Deakin's statement that the people of the United States were dissatisfied with the Constitution of the Senate. On one essential point the South Australian delegate differed from Mr. Barton, and that was as to the Executive being made responsible only to the House of Representatives. The result of this, he feared, would be the gradual eating away of the rights and privileges of the House representing the States. The two most populous colonies would probably have a majority in the House of Representatives, and the Government would therefore largely represent these colonies, while the minor colonies would be put on one side. These dangers are sufficiently obvious, but Sir John did not find it so easy to suggest a means of avoiding them, although he thought that perhaps the Swiss system, by which the two Houses meet and elect the Ministry, might be found workable.

No one seemed inclined to follow Sir John. It was getting near luncheon, and at this time of day a disinclination to speak is always noticeable among the delegates. It is not pleasant, nor does it conduce to the maintenance of a connected thread of argument, to have to deliver a speech in halves, with lunch in between. Thus, at half-past 12, everyone was waiting for someone else to get up and speak. None rose, and an impatient delegate cried "Question." If the President had been a little quicker, the debate on the resolutions might have been at once cut short. But Sir Henry Parkes took no notice of the cry, and then Mr. Thynne, of Queensland, rose and whiled away the time until lunch, with a pleasantly-spoken address on general principles. Before the adjournment the President informed the Convention that he had received a letter from the Wesleyan Conference requesting leave to present an address which that body had drawn up. It was pointed out that, inasmuch as the Convention was being conducted under the rules of the House of Commons, the proper course would be for the address to be presented through a delegate. This plan was adopted, and then the Convention was treated to several telegrams of congratulation from the A. N. A. and other public bodies.

As the author of a brochure which has given a great deal of information and assistance to delegates, Mr. Baker, who rose immediately after lunch, was received with complimentary cheers. Mr. Baker's first point was an emphatic warning against the danger of mixing up the Federal with the States' finances. The two should be kept entirely separate, with the exception of such matters as were of common interest—for instance, defence works. The Dominion of Canada was held up as a frightful example for delegates to study. In that colony jealousy and contention are caused between the Dominion Government and the different States by disputes as to whether one State has or has not received more of the Federal money than another. In fact, as Professor Goldwin Smith has said, the Dominion is only held together by what is known as "better terms." Each province endeavours to obtain more than its neighbours, the net result being a state of affairs which, Mr. Baker fears, will eventually lead to a dissolution of that union. Mr. Baker's speech was studded with frightful examples. He warned the Council as to the things which it ought not to do, rather than instructed it as to the steps which it ought to take for the formation of a perfect Constitution. The Federal Government, for instance, should not allow the control of any of the armed forces to pass out of its hands. The system of State militia had led to endless trouble in the U. S., and the mistake should be avoided here. The Upper House should not be called the Senate, but rather, as in Switzerland, the Council of the States. On this matter of the Upper House, Mr. Baker met Mr. Deakin fairly face to face, and contended with some force that in the United States, the Senate, far from being disliked, was really the most popular portion of the Legislature. Therefore he argued strongly in favour of giving the Senate equal and co-ordinate powers with the House of Representatives, and pointed out many pitfalls which yawned in the path of the Federation if this precaution were neglected.

A Tasmanian legislator, Mr. Bird, kept the debate going languidly. As a representative of a small colony, he insisted on the State rights being fully secured against attack from the larger and more populous colonies. Another strange block in the proceedings happened at the end of Mr. Bird's speech. It was nearly 4 o'clock, but notwithstanding the strong expression of opinion given yesterday that the adjournment should not take place at such an early hour, no one seemed ready to go on. Each delegate looked curiously at his neighbour and wondered why nobody rose to speak. The scene was a curious satire on the strong desire expressed by some of the delegates to get through the business as quickly as possible. At last Colonel Smith moved the adjournment and a division was about to be taken, when Sir Patrick Jennings, with his customary good nature, offered himself up as a sacrifice. In doing so he expressed the hope that there would be no undue delay over the proceedings, and that delegates who had been all the week shivering on the brink, would make the rhetorical plunge as soon as possible. In fitting language Sir Patrick urged delegates to work together at this great task, in a spirit of unity and conciliation, and to take for their motto the one framed by the great German Chancellor, "We give that you may give us back again." Glancing hastily through the resolutions, Sir Patrick on the whole expressed approval of them, urging only that there should be a strong Upper House on a representative basis, having full power to deal with taxation proposals. Sir Patrick having finished, Colonel Smith again moved the adjournment, this time successfully, and the Convention brought its first week's labour to an end.

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS.

FRIDAY, MARCH 6.

The PRESIDENT took the chair at 11 o'clock.

THE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION.—RESUMPTION OF DEBATE.

The debate was resumed upon Sir Henry Parkes's motions,—"That, in order to establish and secure an enduring foundation for the structure of a Federal Government, the principles embodied in the resolutions following be agreed to:—1. That the powers and privileges and territorial rights of the several existing colonies shall remain intact, except in respect to such surrenders as may be agreed upon as necessary and incidental to the power and authority of the National Federal Government. 2. That the trade and intercourse between the Federated Colonies, whether by means of land carriage or coastal navigation, shall be absolutely free. 3. That the power and authority to impose customs duties shall be exclusively lodged in the Federal Government and Parliament, subject to such disposal of the revenues thence derived as shall be agreed upon. 4. That the military and naval defence of Australia shall be entrusted to Federal forces, under one command. Subject to these and other necessary provisions, this Convention approves of the framing of a Federal Constitution, which shall establish:—1. A Parliament, to consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives, the former consisting of an equal number of members from each province, to be elected by a system which shall provide for the retirement of one-third of the members every —— years, so securing to the body itself a perpetual existence combined with the definite responsibility to the electors, the latter to be elected by districts formed on a population basis, and to possess the sole power of originating and amending all bills appropriating revenue or imposing taxation. 2. A Judiciary, consisting of a Federal Supreme Court, which shall constitute a High Court of Appeal for Australia, under the direct authority of the Sovereign, whose decisions as such shall be final. 3. An Executive, consisting of a Governor-General, and such persons as may from time to time be appointed as his advisers, such persons sitting in Parliament, and whose term of office shall depend upon their possessing the confidence of the House of Representatives expressed by the support of the majority."

Mr. BARTON said that having moved the adjournment of the debate yesterday on that momentous question he had ever since been wondering at his own audacity in doing so. He trusted that he would not be too long in addressing the Convention and not wander away from the object of federation. It did seem to him that the President deserved the commendation of the Convention for having introduced the resolutions which he had introduced in the form in which they took. It would not have been at that stage of their proceedings a wise thing to endeavour, for instance, to enumerate completely the powers which should be limited to the general Government and the provinces respectively. It would not have been wise to do that nor have gone into details of any kind, because there were certain matters which precede details, and which must be dealt with by them before they came to the conclusion that it would be within their power to draft or bring up a scheme that would be acceptable to the various provinces, and he concurred strongly with Mr. Deakin in thinking that the form in which the first batch of resolutions was introduced was also one that should commend itself to them. What was endeavoured to be put forward by the resolutions was that certain principles should be agreed to and not to make anything like hard-and-fast limitations on any lines. The first of the resolutions he would deal with in a minute or two in connection with the question of the Parliament; but dealing now with Nos. 2 and 3, he would not find it, at that stage, necessary to debate them at any length. He could not fail to agree both with the second and third resolutions, of course presupposing "that the power and authority to impose customs duties," given by the third resolution, also conveyed power to impose duties of excise. It was suggested that before this resolution could be implanted in any constitution it should be accompanied by certain guarantees. It brought up a difficult question, but he was not quite sure that on that point also he was not in agreement with his hon. friend Mr. Deakin. The vested interests which had sprung up were not likely to be dealt with, and the securities given were not likely to be removed. So that he could not agree with the method proposed by his friend, not at any rate until he heard further argument about it. Mr. Deakin said that it must be for the Federal Government to impose a gradual reduction of higher tariffs until some point was reached, and it could be said the interests that had sprung up must be let down lightly. Means might be provided under which all he asked for might be secured, and that the price which at any rate they were worth would have been given by the colonies for their federation. If, for instance—and he only mentioned it as an instance—that the individual States would maintain to themselves the right to the imposition of Customs and excise duties, perhaps under a certain specified period after the institution of the federation, that would be a more effective method of doing what the hon. delegate required; and, speaking humbly for himself, he could not see it likely that the spirit of compromise entered into by the Convention by the colonies, generally, that one which had not yet attached itself to protection would to paid any unreasonable price for the benefits of federation. He took it as a matter of course that at some period—an early period of the federation of the colonies—trade and intercourse would be allowed nearly free, and it was clearly open to any that for a certain time they might be able, and must be able to put up with a union somewhat unequal. It did appear to him, when one endeavoured to look at the matter from his own point of view, that some compromise of this kind was probable. This Convention would be incomplete if something of that kind did not come from their labours. Passing away from that question, which would be vastly more fully debated in committee, he wished to deal with the resolution No. 1:—"That the powers and privileges and territorial rights of the several existing colonies shall remain intact, except in respect to such surrenders as may be agreed upon as necessary and incidental to the power and authority of the National Federal Government;" and he would like to see added to this—probably it was intended to be included in it—that the actual territory of any existing province should not be subject to any kind of diminution or absorption for the purpose of making new provinces without the consent of the province so affected. That might be intended in the resolution; if it was stated so he was satisfied. He was not likely to suppose that the good will of the colonies would be secured unless a guarantee of that kind was inserted. With reference to this question of the "powers and privileges and territorial rights," he would endeavour to consider it in connection with the question of the Parliament. He took it that this first resolution must be essential if there was to be any just union of the colonies. Unless, indeed, these territorial rights and privileges were conceded, federation would appear to be well nigh impossible. He might be pardoned for saying the obvious construction was that territorial rights were State rights. Mr. Deakin asked the question what were State rights? State rights, it seemed to him, meant State interests which had to be dealt with. Unless they considered they had the goodwill of the province it would not be worth anything. If that was so all of those State rights which were not to be specifically preserved in the Constitution, which were not to be specially sent to the general authority, must be preserved to the various States. The Constitution would provide for a legislative body which, in addition to the legislative functions of the second Chamber, would also be the guardian of these individualities and State rights. When he heard his friend Mr. Deakin in his very brilliant speech talking about the representative principle as being the only safeguard of federation, it struck him that he did to some extent ignore the fact that it was possible for the representative principle to exist in two Chambers as well as one. It was not because the representative principle had not been well preserved in those Chambers commonly called Upper Houses, that they were to come to the conclusion that the representation of the people was not to be found in the second Chambers. He took it that a Senate, founded on some such basis as the Senate of the United States, did conserve the representation of the people, and by which the will of the people was expressed. It was not necessarily the House of Representatives alone, because when it was called a House of Representatives it did not follow that they might not make another House of Representatives. A Senate could not represent the States without representing the people. Was it because they were accustomed to have all legislative power conserved in one body that that should constitute and form the Union of States, in which they could not have thorough representation unless they had two bodies? It did seem to be almost an obvious proposition unless they were going to maintain the principle of representation in a second Chamber, and unless they did that they would not be forming a constitution at all. In a Federal Parliament they could not keep the principle of representation out of the second Chamber. They should not during any time deprive the second Chamber of veto, even in detail, of things that affect the rights of citizens. If they were to have the premier Chamber, the House of Representatives, resting, as he hoped it would, on universal suffrage and local representation, there was no doubt that being based on population it would give the preponderance of power in that Chamber to the most populous States. All of them were accustomed to legislative propositions in which bills affecting local and State interests were inextricably interwoven with money, and to deny the right of veto in that case was to prohibit the exercise of State right at all. They could no more deny the right of veto than deny anything else, and it was entirely on reasoning of that kind that the framers of the Constitution of the United States saw the necessity of giving them the power of amendment. He was not there to make a speech, as it had been said in another place, in favour of the Upper House, although his views in that respect had undergone some change in respect of the nominee principle. If they had any reflex of the Constitution of the United States Senate applied to our Constitution, they would find that all second Chambers should be elective. A further illustration of this matter of the custody of State rights would be found in the case of the capital. He wished to handle this subject as delicately as possible. If they considered the very large preponderance of voting power gained by the principle of representation according to population in the House of Representatives, they could conceive this state of things. They could conceive the introduction of a bill fixing some place or city as the capital of the federated dominion. They could conceive it being surrounded by all the necessary provisions to bring into effect this desire to constitute a federal capital, and then they would see that it was impossible that a bill of that kind could be anything but a money bill. If the principle of veto in detail were to be withheld from the Federal Senate what was to be done with that bill? Were all the Senate except one State which might possess the capital to reject the bill, and continue to reject it until they found something to their liking—was that the way the thing would be done? If so it would be the cause of friction and deadlock. Was it not better that such a matter should be dealt with separately from the money provisions? If it was not, then they could conceive a very heavy majority in the House of Representatives taking this means of enforcing their will—and it could not be called tacking in any sense—of introducing an Appropriation Act, and having the required provision in it; and under such circumstances it was impossible to foresee the trouble and friction that would ensue. That was one instance of the harm that would result if the Federal Senate was not entrusted with some veto as to details. Was it not desirable that, in order that there might be none of the deadlocks which his hon. friend seemed to anticipate, the second Chamber should not have a veto in globo, so to speak? What was likely, for instance, to be the result of vetoing a measure altogether? Surely what it had been in other places. And now he was not going to enter into any discussion of the justice of the position taken up by second Chambers or Upper Houses when dealing with a proposition coming from the representative Chamber. But when they came to examine the force of these things, they found that where the right of amendment or veto in detail had not been secured great friction had occurred. He did not say that it had not have been necessary, he did not say it might not have been wise, to limit the powers of the second House, many of which were only nominal. What he meant was that experience taught them that in cases where the right of amendment or the right of veto in detail had been exercised, it was possible to excise an obnoxious provision and pass the rest of the measure, subject, of course, to future action; and, on the other hand, where they found that the whole custody of State rights with respect to national measures was in the Federal Senate as a last resort, one of two things must occur: either they must get rid of a whole measure of public policy, or surrender their function of safeguarding those interests in order that the measure might not be lost. When they came to examine this question more fully they would find, if they could get rid of the confusion arising from the previous experience of bodies which did not embody the federal principle, they would be obliged, on the ground of thorough representation, to give this veto in detail to a body which did embody the federal principle, and which was not within their experience. (Hear, hear.) There was an insinuation out of doors that the settlement of the principles of the federal constitution was likely to result in some sort of conflict between those who represented large and populous States and those who represented the people. He trusted there would be no conflict of that kind. (Hear, hear.) It was his opinion that the course of the veto in detail tended rather to lessen than to increase friction, and he asked hon. gentlemen to remember that the danger of friction did not rest in the legislatures alone. The friction that would be dangerous would be the irritation of the States in their political capacity. (Hear, hear.) It must not be forgotten that there was a double citizenship conferred by the constitution upon every citizen, and unless there was, in all essentials, a due representation of that double citizenship in questions of money, then friction must arise. Under the first resolution they were conserving to the States all their powers, and privileges, and territorial rights, and unless they did this they would find men who would regret the compact; and if it was a compact found to be indissoluble, then so much the worse for the union. So he took it if they wished to preserve the good will of the States and their agreement to the general constitution, not as a matter of compulsion, but of good faith, they would do all they could to secure, and not to reduce for them their powers against all encroachment. To reduce the great representative body, founded on the relegation of State individuality, because of some experience derived in a totally different direction, to the position of a merely nominee Chamber, that indeed would be dangerous. (Hear, hear.) Let them not run into this danger. It was incumbent upon those who represented the larger States to take care to see that no form of government was established which might place the weaker States at the mercy of the stronger States. Let them recollect that ours were changeful communities; they were in various stages of development, and places with small populations to-day might in 50 years be large and important centres. They were not legislating for themselves alone. (Hear, hear.) Let those who were anxious to bring about a reform in the constitution, which might result in an encroachment upon those rights, recollect that any one of these States might one day be the victim of that encroachment. (Hear, hear). They must legislate for the future, and they must take care to introduce such provisions as would protect themselves as citizens of the federated States in all their relations. The way to do that, he thought, was to recognise the fact that while the ordinary will of the people was concerned in the House of Representatives, still the Senate would be a necessary part, and would also express the people's will, because if it did not they would forget that the citizens had a double citizenship. (Hear, hear.) The Senate of the United States was enacted upon some such system as, subject to further argument, he should hope to see existing in this federation. They knew what the result of the system was. The election was based upon universal suffrage, and the senators were elected by the representatives of the States; and the result was a legislative body the gentlemen in the capacity of which sought the ideal or standard laid down by the President in his opening speech. If they took the means of providing a representation such as existed in the United States, and which would command the respect of the citizens, and at the same time withheld from those they believed capable of guarding the interests of the State that power, they would, if they did not become rebellious, at any rate become dissatisfied. It was to be hoped that the result of their labours would not be the framing of a Constitution the possible result of which in the far future would be a resort to violence. It was upon harmony and goodwill that the Constitution must be based, and the only way to secure that Constitution was to protect individual State rights in such a manner that there would be no suspicion or distrust at any time exercised in the general work of legislation by those who represented in one body or the other States which were most numerous. Especially was that necessary in the conditions under which we lived; and considering that this State was as large or almost as large in itself as the 13 States which formed the original American United States. Having shown, as he hoped he had, that unless there was something more than the power of rejection of money matters in the Federal Senate, and that there was at any time the possibility of a gourmandising process being indulged in by the representatives of the States having the greatest numerical superiority, he would like to express, what they would all express, approval of the remainder of the first proposal. Now, with regard to the judiciary, any Federal Supreme Court must have something more than merely academical functions. It must have power to enforce its decrees and processes throughout the length and breadth of the land. (Hear, hear.) It must have power to enforce its decrees against any individual just in the same way that the Supreme Court now did in any colony. Otherwise, unless the three arms of the State, the legislative and the judiciary, rested upon and reached each citizen, then so far as one of them fell short the constitution would be imperfect and one-sided. Munro, in his work on the constitution of Canada, had the following passage:—"In England the House of Lords has the power of consulting the Judges; a similar power has been conferred on the Canadian Privy Council. The Governor-General in Council may refer to the Supreme Court for hearing or consideration any matter which he thinks fit to refer, and the Court is required to certify its opinion to the Governor-in-Council. The Senate and the House of Commons are empowered to refer to the Court, or to any two Judges thereof, any private bill or petition for a private bill, and the Court is to examine and report upon the same. In the case of those provinces that passed a law to such effect, provision was made for conferring a special jurisdiction on the Supreme and Exchequer Courts in controversies between the dominion and a province, or between provinces, or relating to the validity of provincial laws. When the Legislature of any province forming part of Canada shall have passed an Act agreeing and providing that the Supreme Court and the Exchequer Court or the Supreme Court alone shall have jurisdiction in any of the following cases:—(1) Controversies between the Dominion of Canada and such province; (2) controversies between such province and any other province or provinces which may have passed a like Act; (3) suits, actions, or proceedings in which the parties thereto by their pleadings shall have raised the question of the validity of an Act of the Parliament of Canada, when in the opinion of the Judge of the Court in which the same are pending such question is material; (4) suits, actions, or proceedings in which the parties thereto by their pleadings shall have raised the question of the validity of an Act of the Legislature of such province, when, in the opinion of the Judge of the Court in which the same are pending, such question is material,—then this section of the Act is to be in force in the class of cases in respect of which such Act may have been passed. In (1) and (2) the proceedings are to be in the Court of Exchequer with an appeal to the Supreme Court. In (3) and (4), the Judge who decides that the question is material is to order the case to be removed into the Supreme Court for the decision of such question." He took it that the decision of a question by a high tribunal such as was indicated in Munro's work, was best calculated to promote peace and goodwill amongst the citizens of the federation. It was proposed to establish a Supreme Court as a court of appeal for Australia. The mover of the resolutions before the Convention pointed out that in the endeavour by the Dominion of Canada to get rid of the jurisdiction of the Privy Council, a difficulty was set up by refusal of the Imperial Government to assent to the transfer of power. Whether the Imperial Government would assent to the request of the Australian federation for a transfer of certain powers of the Privy Council to the Australian Court of Appeal he could not say; but he trusted that the request would be made all the same, for he was strongly of opinion that it would be a very proper one, and that the Imperial Government should not withhold its assent. (Cheers.) The establishment in Australia of a Court of Appeal would be attended with the most beneficial results. Those who had watched the proceedings of the Privy Council were well aware that amongst the men who constituted it were Judges who, whether as regards their past judicial career or their present capacity, were not one whit superior, or perhaps were not even the equals, of Judges who could be found on the Australian continent. (Cheers.) He felt no doubt at all that in the ranks of the many eminent members of the Bar, and the other branch of the legal profession in these colonies, there was ample material to be found for the constitution of a Supreme Court of Appeal to which no citizen of Australia need fear to entrust the final adjudication of his claims, and he felt sure the institution of such a court as this would be hailed with loud acclaim as one of the most beneficial, if not valuable, things in the Federal Constitution. He wished to thank hon. delegates for having listened to him so kindly, but before sitting down he wished to read a short passage which was full of meaning and instruction. Story, in his Commentaries on the Constitution of the United States, had the following passage:—"If there were but one consolidated national Government, to which the people might look up for protection and support, they might in time relax in that vigilance and jealousy which seem so necessary to the wholesome growth of Republican institutions. If, on the other hand, the State Governments could engross all the affections of the people, to the exclusion of the National Government, by their familiar and domestic regulations, there would be danger that the union, constantly weakened by the distance and discouragement of its functionaries, might at last become, as it was under the confederation, a mere show, if not a mockery of sovereignty. So that this very division of the empire may in the end, by the blessings of Providence, be the means of perpetuating our rights and liberties, by keeping alive at once in every State a sincere love of its own government and a love of the union, and by cherishing in different minds a jealousy of each, which shall check, as well as enlighten public opinion." As to the remaining clauses of the resolutions, he must say that the question raised by Sir Samuel Griffith had caused him considerable perturbation. He knew it was very easy to pooh-pooh the whole matter and say, "You must look to the Representative Chamber alone as the seat of Ministerial responsibility." He freely admitted that the difficulty was one very hard to solve. British communities had been in the habit of solving difficulties sometimes by anomalous means, and sometimes principle suffered. But let them attempt a solution of the difficulty which beset them by asking, "Is it certain that the question of legislative powers and the question of Ministerial responsibility rest on the same lines?" Was it quite clear that where it might be necessary to embody the representative principles in the two Chambers for the exercise of legislative powers that it was unfair or unjust to entrust the working of the representative principle of constitutional responsibility to one Chamber alone. He was afraid they would have to solve this difficulty by making the Executive of the dominion responsible to the Chamber called the Representative Chamber. And one reason why he was led to conclude that this would not be a dangerous proceeding was the remark which fell from Mr. Playford, who said they would not find it possible to graft on the American system the system of responsible Government, and make it work. He confessed he was not in love with the idea of a proportion of the Ministry of the day retiring on the vote of one House, or even of both, and the other proportion remaining in office. He admitted there was a great deal of force in the suggestion that there were certain phases of constitutional development which to a great extent must be left to the working which that express provision would lead to. But he failed to see how the working of any such constitution would result in a limited responsibility. He took it that if they were confined to a choice between the American system and an adherence to that system which they had hitherto found to work as well as anything could work in the present stage of political development they should adhere to the ordinary principle of constitutional government. Irrespective of any question as to a referendum, they would find themselves safer in relying upon the ordinary principle of retaining Constitutional responsibility in the hands of one Chamber, although it might not include the whole representative principle, rather than attempt to weld the two Chambers together for national purposes or to dissociate the executive government from the House of Representatives. He thought they must give up the idea that notwithstanding the embodiment of the federal principle in the second Chamber they must give up the idea that because of that they were to dissociate the executive from Parliament. They would be safer under their present system than under one which placed the executive outside Parliament. He again thanked hon. delegates for the kindness with which they had listened to him, and he trusted that he had not caused any loss of time, by wandering from the real questions at issue. He had addressed himself to the subject because he believed it was but right that each should add his ideas to the common stock of reasons. He trusted he had acted in the spirit which should prompt them in their labours. They all desired, he felt sure, to give effect to high aims working by the eternal principles of justice, and to set up an example of freedom and political morality, and just treatment to the individual states of the future nation.

Sir JOHN DOWNER (South Australia) said that whilst the man who had just sat down, who had apologised they all appreciated the modesty of the hon. gentleman for his presumption in breaking into the debate the previous day for continuing it to-day, yet it would be the feeling of everyone present, whether the views of an hon. gentleman happened or not to be precisely consistent with his own, that he had made a speech which would be of great service to them. It was most admirably conceived, logical in its construction, and as it happened to a large extent to fall in with his own views, it, to his mind, not unnaturally carried the greatest conviction. The hon. gentleman had devoted himself to a discussion of the question raised in the resolutions, and developed greatly in that most able speech by Mr. Deakin, as to the power of veto to be lodged in the Senate. It occurred to him at the time Mr. Deakin was speaking that in order to carry out his wishes some qualification would be necessary in the resolutions, because it appeared to him that the powers, privileges, and territorial rights could not remain intact if the people's will, as defined by that hon. gentleman, was to be supreme, and if the colonies as a whole were to be coerced by the individual votes of the inhabitants as a whole. They were directed to endeavour to frame a constitution which would bring about union between the Australian colonies and they were also directed at the same time to take care that the constitution was based on terms just to the several colonies. That was the text which would run through the intention, although it might fail in explanation, of every hon. gentleman. They were not altogether without experience. They had that of the great Republic of America before them. That Constitution was framed by some of the most eminent men living at that time; not in hot impetuosity, but after much deliberation. They had not only that Constitution before them, but they had seen the working of it for upwards of 100 years and, whatever doubts there may have been as to the working of some portions of it, the general verdict as to the American Articles had been entirely in their favour. And they knew two of the difficulties which met the able gentleman who drafted those Articles, in their very inception, and they knew that the same question which Mr. Barton felt so strongly about was discussed amongst the representatives at that Convention, and discussed from the standpoint from which it must be discussed now. They knew that the States insisted on unity, but objected to be united; they wished the federation of the independent States but not amalgamation into an empire. The representatives were equally divided in vote, and it was only by resorting to commit ee that the difficulty was got over. And it was got over in the manner which Sir Samuel Griffith urged should be resorted to here, by recognising in one branch the State, and in another individuals, and by giving both Houses jurisdiction which was perfectly co-ordinate. In one particular—only of jurisdiction—it was not so; that was in the right to introduce money bills. But that Convention agreed to go further than Sir Samuel Griffith would go now, and not only gave the Senate power to veto, either wholly or in part, but gave them the general power of amending any bills so sent. Without this agreement the United States would not have been constituted at that time, but under that agreement they had progressed to the excellence we now saw, and although in every State there were difficulties, jars and discords, still the jars and discords had not been great and no objection had been seriously made, at all events by any large body of the people. There was a greater disproportion between the largest and the smallest of these States than there was between the largest and the smallest of the Australian States; and equal representation and co-ordinate representative authority was given to the smallest and to the largest States, with the result that it worked well and to the satisfaction of the States, one of which returned 40 representatives, whilst another State was represented by only one. The system had worked, in spite of that great disproportion, as satisfactorily to the large States as to the smaller ones. Whilst he thought—and he only said it argumentatively for the present—that it would be impossible to establish this federation at all, and certainly not satisfactorily, unless the point raised by Sir Samuel Griffith was conceded; still, when they had settled that question, of course they were not out of their troubles, because there was more to be looked to. If they agreed, as he thought they must, that this House had co-ordinate legislative authority, and that it be competent for the Senate to do at least what Sir Samuel Griffith suggested—to veto any bills sent up, whether money bills or not; still, they had the further difficulty to be settled, as to how the Executive was to be constituted; and he could not say that he quite agreed with some of the observations of the last speaker on this subject. All, although some of them were Australians by birth, had English traditions at heart and had a prejudice for the method of government of the nation from which they sprung. But they were now considering something which the mother country had never known anything about—something outside ordinary Imperial concerns, and it might be that they might find it impossible to work this new federation properly unless they struck out some new lines. The proposal in the resolutions before them was that the Executive body should be responsible to the House of Representatives, and liable to be removed on the vote of the majority. But, whilst Mr. Barton told them there were difficulties in carrying out that proposal, that gentleman concluded that that was the only method that would work satisfactorily; but he would ask the hon. gentleman was not the authority of the Senate at least as important to preserve as the authority of the House of the Representatives? Did he think that that authority could be preserved intact, and would not be dribbled away, if the Government was composed of a body selected exclusively from the other branch of the Legislature, and responsible only to them? What weakened responsible Government was that the upper branches of the Legislature—or the House of Lords, were not represented in the Government. This was no matter of written law but one of usage. Supposing they made the Government responsible only to the House of Representatives, could they doubt for a moment—judging by what had taken place in the past that they would see the authority of the Senate gradually dwindle until it became a body practically and absolutely subject to the House of Representatives? He knew that was the difficulty of the situation, and the difficulty as to the Executive was greater than the difficulty as to the constitution of the two Houses. In the colonies of New South Wales and Victoria the representation would be about eight to three of those from the other colonies, and the result would undoubtedly be that, supposing these great colonies settled their ancient feuds—and this they would do with the Customs barrier removed which alone kept them apart—and came into sweet accord once in a way, the Government would be selected exclusively from those colonies and the minor colonies would have very little voice in the Government of the Dominion. At the same time it was quite impossible to see how the privileges of one House could be retained if the Executive was to be entirely chosen from the other. Then, what was to be done? There came the difficulty. The method adopted in Switzerland might be resorted to. The two Houses might meet as one and appoint their Ministry, which might remain in office for three years or for any time to be determined upon. Then there would be a Government which had the confidence of the two Houses, not responsible in the ordinary sense it would infringe on our English notions to that extent—but still he thought a Government much more consistent with the federation which was to be brought about than a Government which could only properly exist under the Empire. He took it that they were there contending for the same end—not necessarily pledged to any particular view, but simply endeavouring to assist each other in arriving at a conclusion which would bring about the federation which they all desired to see attained. As to the Federal Judiciary, he entirely agreed with Mr. Barton's views on that matter. He thought that the Federal Constitution, to work well, should be such that there must be a strong Judiciary. That had been the experience of America. In fact, the union could not be worked there without the assistance which from time to time it had received from the Judicial Bench. The stronger and more powerful the Judiciary, the better would the union be. (Cheers.) So far as his experience as a professional man was concerned, it agreed with the experience of the professional men of the other colonies, and that was there was no necessity at all for the appeals to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council—(cheers)—not merely on the ground that was gently hinted at by Mr. Barton—that the constitution of that tribunal was not always as satisfactory as it might be, but because in the first place we thought that justice should be speedy—(loud cheers)—in the next place we were satisfied with our own tribunals, and in the last place where any appeal was required from a tribunal of such high eminence as a Federal Supreme Court, the question as to the right or wrong of the matter would have practically come to so fine a point that probably it would be a question of temperament as to which way the case was decided. And if we wished to make the continent self-sufficing, one of the first things we must insist upon having was our final Judiciary here; he did not say without any limitation. He agreed that there should be such a limitation that when Imperial questions came in Her Majesty must have some supervising authority. But so far as any important common law questions were concerned he thought that the Australasian Supreme Courts and Federal Judiciary would be quite competent to settle them. He was not aware of any reason which made it imperative that the decisions here and the decisions in the old country should always follow on precisely the same lines. He agreed with the resolutions generally. He agreed that the Customs Houses must be removed, but he also agreed with what was generally understood throughout the large majority of the Australian colonies—that whilst intercolonial freetrade must be permitted, for a time at all events—there should be protection against the outside world. (Cheers.) Without that limitation and understanding—whether the understanding was expressed or not was another question—the Australian colonies would certainly not be federated at the present time. (Hear, hear.) And he thought it would be a good thing to fix some day when intercolonial freetrade should begin, and allow each colony in the meanwhile to collect its duties in its own way. Of course time had to pass, and probably a good deal of time, before their consultations here could have any legislative effect. So far as the question of the Senate was concerned, they must follow the precedent of America, and whilst showing every respect to the advice of those who are represented in the House of Representatives take care that the views of the State shall be studied in an equal degree as they are represented in the Senate. (Cheers.)

Mr. A. J. THYNNE (Queensland) said that he thought he might be pardoned if he pointed out what appeared to him to be a misapprehension of the views of Sir Samuel Griffith in relation to the Executive. It seemed to him that the discussion had proceeded on the supposition that Sir Samuel Griffith had advocated a change, and an immediate change, from the present system of the responsibility of the Executive to the popular House. He understood that gentleman not to support that view, but to leave it open in future years for such development in the mode of constitutional Government of these colonies as the circumstances of the time might require. (Hear, hear.) He took it that it would be very unwise for the Convention to impose any fetter that was not absolutely necessary on the full development of the Constitution, as it might in future be in force in these colonies. The function for which they had met was the creation of a Federal Constitution—the determining of the best mode of initiating a Federal Government in these colonies. He thought that under the terms of the resolutions which had been sent to all the colonies any arguments in general in favour of Federation would be quite out of place. He thought they could assume that it was their duty to avoid considering that question, as it was a question which had been settled by the authorities who sent them there, and devote themselves seriously to the work of framing a Constitution which they hoped would be found acceptable to the different colonies, because it would be "just to the several colonies." (Hear, hear.) They were called upon to assist by framing that Constitution in putting the highest stone upon the political development of these colonies. He contended that the colonies at present possessed but limited powers of self-government, and remained dependencies upon the British Parliament and the British people. Professor Hearn's definition of "Responsible Government" was "Where a Legislature is established and a promise is made by the Crown of the exercise of the prerogative exclusively by the advice of Ministers having responsibility to the Parliament." No one could be under the impression that in Australia up to the present we had been able to claim that full measure of responsible Government embraced in that definition. The Crown, in the exercise of its prerogative in connection with many matters of internal interest and of social interest to Australia, had exercised its prerogative, not by the advice of Ministers responsible to the people of Australia, but of Ministers representing the people of Great Britain and Ireland, and responsible to the Parliament who represented that people. He thought that the work they were engaged in, in framing the Federal Constitution, involved directly the assumption in these colonies of that complete measure of responsible Government. The Crown in all matters relating to Australian interests would exercise its prerogative exclusively by the advice of Australian Ministers. The union of these colonies must take place in one or two ways—either by a unification under one powerful Parliament, or by a Federation which gave the central Parliament certain limited powers and reserved to other Parliaments all the other powers. Dicey laid it down that the characteristics of federation were such that "The law of the Constitution must be either legally immutable or else capable of being changed only by some authority above and beyond the ordinary legislative bodies, whether federal or State Legislatures existing under the Constitution." "Every Legislative Assembly existing under a Federal Constitution," as Mr. Dicey again says, "is merely a subordinate law-making body, whose laws are valid whilst within the authority conferred upon it by the Constitution, but invalid or unconstitutional if they go beyond the limits of such authority." These were two necessary characteristic sequences of every form of Federal Government, and that Convention should address itself seriously for providing these two principles in full operation. He thought a few of the powers of the people which were involved by the considerations he had mentioned, were such as would put aside all those sentiments and ideas which notably Mr. Deakin's speech was charged with, the amount of popular power in new States. It seemed to him that the democracy which he would like to see would be a democracy fearing, insecure, unsteady. The democracy he wished to see, and all wished to see, would be calm, secure, and without the fear of sudden revolution, and without the fear of the invasion of the rights and privileges by any course. It was for that reason he was anxious to see that these State rights, and the rights of minorities were guarded by the new Constitution against either hasty or corrupt, or dishonest action on the part of any section. Unless this Senate was charged with sufficient power to protect the people of the States against hasty or ill-considered action, the union that was proposed, if carried out, would make a vacillating one and not inspire confidence in its own subjects, nor amongst the people of the world. There should be some continuity, some security that fickleness or petulant changes would not be made in the policy or legislation. For those reasons, he thought it was essential that the Senate should be invested with a large amount of power, almost co-ordinate power with the House of Representatives. In no State of the world where they had a Federal Constitution would it be found that the democracy—the strongest democracy in the world—if it dispensed with these necessary safeguards of State rights, individual rights could properly conserve its policy. For these reasons he thought the resolutions proposed by the President in the direction of the limitations of the Senate were not going in the right direction, and in committee he hoped they would see it necessary to make amendments in that direction. He had perhaps offered his argument needlessly on the subject, because, with the exception of Mr. Deakin, he did not think that the position that had been taken up by Sir Samuel Griffith had been seriously challenged by any member of the Convention. The arguments that had been offered in response to this gentleman's views had been strong, but they were not an answer to those pungent words of Professor Hearn, and the application of them in the present might be brought before the Convention. One other subject which he did not think had yet been alluded to, and one he thought which would add very much indeed to the information given, he would bring forward. He thought it would have much embellished and improved the resolutions if it had been contained in them. They should establish the right of the people of the colonies to have not only a proper constitution, but to future amendment of it, subject to their direct vote or approval. That was a thoroughly democratic system, by which the people had guarded against hasty or ill-considered changes of the constitution. He submitted that idea for consideration. It had been suggested already by the introduction of the referendum. He was not prepared to discuss that system now, but he did think that in the future time the referendum might be introduced in general application, as in Switzerland. They might adopt that part of the referendum which dealt with constitutional changes. The people, before the Crown was asked to give assent to any change of the constitution—the people were asked to give their sanction to it. There was one other subject in connection with the resolution. It seemed to him that the executive proposed was liable to become the creature of the populous colonies. Unless they desired to postpone federation indefinitely, they should consider the institutions they had to deal with, and the different Legislatures. If they compelled these to deal finally with the matter, all the colonies, whether large in population or not, would be ready to complain as the smaller ones. There was one other matter that had been suggested to him by the fourth resolution, dealing with naval and military defence. He thought they might do a useful work and a good thing by making it a part of the constitution of Australia that in time of war every man would be liable for military service. That was a step that would secure the active interest and spirit of the people of the colonies. They could not afford to disown or disregard any of the sources of influence. He had to thank them for the patient hearing given to him. He had taken the opportunity of giving his ideas, and he hoped he had contributed some slight help in the debate, and he hoped in the larger discussion that must take place in committee that each of the different principles would be threshed out.

ADDRESS FROM THE WESLEYAN CONFERENCE.

The PRESIDENT said he had received from the Wesleyan Conference a letter, which ran as follows:—"Wesleyan Conference, Sydney, March 5, 1891. To the Secretary to the Federation Convention. The Conference has prepared an address to the Convention, and the Revs. A. J. Webb and John Gardiner have been appointed to present it. Will you please be so good as to obtain some information as to when we shall present it?" He proposed instructing the secretary to inform the gentlemen that the Convention would receive their address at 11 o'clock on Monday, unless the Convention disapproved of it.

Sir JOHN BRAY said that it had been decided, where no provision was made, that they should come under the Standing Orders of the House of Commons. He understood that an address should be presented through a member of the Convention. As that was the first address that had come before them, they ought to settle the matter.

The PRESIDENT said that he would instruct the secretary to that effect.

TELEGRAMS OF CONGRATULATION.

The Secretary read the following telegrams which had been received:—

"The Australian Natives Association of Victoria sends greeting to the Federation Convention, and trusts that its labours will result in a real and permanent step being taken towards an early establishment of Australian federation.—D. J. WHEAL, President."

"The president and members of the council of the Victorian Chamber of Manufactures congratulate the President and delegates of the Australian colonies upon having to-day assembled in conference at Sydney for the purpose of drafting an Australian Constitution, and fervently pray that their labours may be guided by wisdom and patriotism and result in the adoption of a Federal Constitution which will prove acceptable to the whole of the people of Australia; and may God save the Queen.—FREDERICK POOLMAN, President Victorian Chamber of Manufactures."

"The Victorian manufacturers recommend freetrade throughout Australasia; also freetrade with Great Britain for all goods not produced or made in Australasia except alcoholic liquors.—J. H. KNIPE, Collins-street."

"The Federated Builders and Contractors Association of Australasia congratulates the Federation Convention on having laid the foundation of Australian national unity, and trusts that the structure built on it during the remaining days of the Convention will be of a solid and enduring character, and satisfactory to the whole of the Australian people.—R. C. BROWN, President, Builders' Exchange."

The PRESIDENT then left the chair for luncheon.

On resuming at 2.30,

Mr. R. C. BAKER (South Australia) said he intended to follow the example of those delegates who had been as brief as possible in their remarks, and had not wandered away from the resolutions before them. It would be sufficient to discuss matters which were not included in the resolutions when they were submitted, for they would undoubtedly have to discuss a great many other questions than those involved in the resolutions of the President. The first resolution contained two words which had been alluded to only once during the debate, and they were "territorial rights." The resolution laid down "that the powers and privileges and territorial rights of the several existing colonies shall remain intact." Those two words appeared to him to be more pregnant with meaning than at first sight appeared. He had heard it stated outside that it was intended that one of the objects of this Federation was to take away from some of the States which had large unsold territories some of those territories in order that the proceeds of them might be placed into a common fund. He was glad they gave a direct negative to that at the outset of the discussion. (Hear, hear.) Those words "territorial rights" appeared to carry with them a fundamental privilege. If all the States which at present existed were to retain their territory it would be laying down a principle which, he hoped, would be rigidly adhered to, of separating by distinct lines federal finance from provincial finance. All the States had borrowed various amounts, and it seemed to him if all the unsold lands were to continue to belong to the States it would be unfair for the Federal Government to assume the separate liabilities of these States. If they were going to make a common fund they must do so in everything and if each State retained its unsold lands it seemed to him to follow that they must do what had been done by the United States when they first framed their Constitution, namely, not to mix up federal finance with provincial finances. Perhaps they could not altogether refrain from taking over some public works of the colony, and paying for them. If, as Mr. Playford remarked, the Dominion took charge of the States' defences, the States' arsenals, and the States' post-offices, the Dominion would have to pay for those works, either in cash or its equivalent. Further than that he hoped they would not go. History taught that there was no question so pregnant with quarrels and jealousies as that of finance, and if they once commenced as a Federal Government to mix federal finance with provincial finance the inevitable result would be just what had befallen Canada. Professor Goldwin Smith remarked that the Dominion of Canada was held together by what was euphemistically defined as "better terms," which meant that each province was constantly trying to get the better of its neighbour, and trying to get more for the Federal Government. The second question which was involved in resolutions 2 and 3 seemed to be generally conceded; and therefore he would only say a few words in reference to the remarks of Mr Deakin. That hon. gentleman, as representing the great colony of Victoria, did not wish to postpone the power of the Federal Government to alter the several tariffs of the different States, but he wished to curtail the power by enacting in the Federal Constitution that, although the tariffs might be increased in any particular colony, they could not be diminished except in pursuance of limitations fixed and defined in the Federal Constitution. Another aspect of the case was put by a subsequent speaker, who wished them to consider the question as to whether it would not be advisable to fix a definite date up to which the present tariffs should continue, and afterwards be collected either by the Federal Government or the States Government and handed over. Both those proposals were advocated with the same object,—namely, to give some security to those people who had invested large sums of money in establishing manufactories, trades, and industries which would be seriously crippled and imperilled if the tariff was suddenly lowered or done away with. He admitted there was great force in the argument. But he was astonished to hear it come from Mr. Deakin, one of the delegates from Victoria. It was generally considered that that colony was eager for larger markets, and other and smaller colonies looked upon it that one price which they were to pay for this great boon of federation, was to allow Victoria to get those large markets. The next question was as to whether the military and naval defences of Australia should be entrusted to federal forces, under one command. He hoped, whatever was done, that they would not follow the example of the United States in this matter, where a divided authority was exercised. Great difficulties had arisen in America in the past because of some words in the Constitution Act which provided that the militia in the States were to be officered and trained by the States themselves, that the President was to be Commander-in-Chief, and that when they were to be called out the States themselves could only do it. He maintained that everything should be conducted by the Federal Government. Now he came to the point which was one of their great difficulties, and which had been so ably spoken upon by Mr. Deakin on the one side and by Mr. Barton on the other. It was proposed that we should have a Parliament consisting of a Senate and a House of Representatives, and that the Senate should have an equal number of members from each province. The first part of the resolution gave an equal power in the Senate to each constituent State of the union, but that power was curtailed in the second part, and it was that point to which their attention had been directed. What was federation? Did it simply consist in delegating to a central authority certain powers and functions, and in delegating to the States authorities certain other powers and functions? He thought not. It consisted of a great deal more than that. (Hear, hear.) It consisted, as it appeared to him in the fact that the compact which was made between the constituent States who wished to enter into that federation provided that not only should those different States have certain powers, but they should also have a voice in the powers delegated to the Federal Government. It was, perhaps, somewhat unfortunate that the name Senate had been given to the Upper House. If they had called it the Council of the States—(hear, hear)—the name given to it in Switzerland, not so much confusion would have arisen. That term clearly defined the functions of the chamber. It was in no sense or shape analogous to the Upper House. The Upper House represented and was elected by a portion of the people, but the Council of the States was elected by and represented the whole of the people. He did not care personally whether the representatives were elected directly by the people as one constituency, or whether they were indirectly elected by the Legislature. In either case the Council of the States represented the States, and he thought Mr. Deakin was somewhat illogical in complaining that the resolutions did not define how the Senate or Council was to be elected. The mode in which the members for the States were elected was not a matter which primarily affected the Federal Government. It was a matter which primarily affected the States. That was the case in Switzerland, and up to 1886 it was, to a certain extent, the case in America, because although the American constitution provided that the American States should elect the Senate, it did not provide any special form of election. It did not appear to him to be at all essential that they should define in these preliminary resolutions how the Council of the States should be elected. The proposed federation had been defined as a compound one. The members of the Council of the States, acting on behalf of those States, had as much right to consider themselves representatives of the people, and the popular Chamber as the other branch of the Legislature. If they went to America to see for themselves, or if they studied the writings and the opinions of the American people, they would find that the Senate was the popular Chamber. (Cheers.) The American people revered the Senate more than the House of Representatives. And therefore Mr. Deakin's assumption that the House of Representatives was the people's—the popular House—was an assumption unwarranted by facts, and contradicted by the experience of America. Again, Mr. Deakin had raised a question about State rights, which led him to ask what he meant by State rights. There were three aspects of this question. First, there was the aspect of the rights of the States as entities to express a free and untrammelled opinion in all matters which had been exclusively delegated to the Federal Government. That was one aspect. It was an aspect in which the contention of Mr. Deakin was shown to be clearly wrong, because if the Senate were to be such a body as he suggested—a body with crippled and impaired powers—how could they exercise those State rights in the free and untrammelled manner in which they ought to exercise them? How could they give a free opinion as representatives of their States on all matters that came before them? He understood that, although the people of those colonies desired to be one nation so far as the House of Representatives was concerned, they wished, so far as the States Council was concerned, to preserve their individuality. Then, another aspect had been alluded to. No matter how they framed the Constitution friction would arise in some form or another, and the States, by their representatives, the States' Council ought to have free and untrammelled power of saying whether certain questions concerning legislation should be legislated upon by the Federal Government or the States Government. Take, for instance, the Bankruptcy laws. Without expressing any opinion at all as to whether it was wise or not to establish a uniform system of Bankruptcy laws, he would draw attention to the fact that they had not done it in America.

Mr. CLARK (Tasmania): Yes, they have.

Mr. BAKER: Well, it could only have been done recently. There was another aspect of State rights included in which was the term State interests. It was quite clear that many cases might arise in which, if the Council of the States was not allowed to alter Money Bills, the larger States, represented by their numerical majority, might seriously imperil the interests of the smaller. Take the question of coastal matters. Suppose that one or two large States with a large majority in the House of Representatives were trading manufacturing States. And suppose they wished to concentrate all the trade and commerce to their own advantage, they would have only to put a line in the Estimates to enable them to carry out any contract, and ensure there being the sole and only terminus of the ocean going steamers. That could be done and it need not appear in any bill at all, but in a line or two on the Estimates. The Federal Senate would either have to suffer the injustice or to dislocate the financial system of the country. Or say it was proposed to pay members, and suppose the proposal were adopted, and the members of the House of Representatives for some of the larger States thought it would be a good thing to double the pay, it was only necessary to add a line to the Estimates. How would the smaller States give effect to their opinion against such a proceeding unless the Senate had the power to alter the bill. As matters stood the Senate could only give effect to the wishes of the smaller States by taking upon itself the responsibility of dislocating the whole financial system of the country. Or, suppose that some of the smaller States had their chief wealth in land, and that in the other and larger States, which had a numerical majority in the House of Representatives, the principal wealth consisted of trade and commerce and manufacture. Now, notwithstanding the fact that all taxation was to be uniform, a land tax would operate unfairly. The smaller colony would bear the burden of taxation, and the larger colony would go comparatively scot-free. Was not that a case in which the Council of the States ought to be free and untrammelled in expressing an opinion. No doubt Mr. Deakin would answer that the Senate could throw out any such bill, but Mr. Deakin had proposed to so cripple and curtail the powers of the Senate as to raise a doubt whether the Senate would be strong enough to cope with the House of Representatives. They had been told by several delegates that they ought to adopt the British Constitution, and not try experiments. He concurred in these remarks to a very considerable extent, but he was afraid that they must try experiments. (Cheers.) If the Imperial federation so much talked of at present were brought about, it would be impossible to work the British constitution as the federal constitution. Would Mr. Deakin consent to delegate to a Federated Imperial Parliament those powers of fiscal taxation now possessed by the colony of Victoria, especially when all the power was concentrated in the lower branch, and where each colony was only numerically represented? He felt sure that would be one of the last things Mr. Deakin would consent to. (Cheers.) Would he consent to hand over the power of regulating the fiscal policy of Victoria to the Imperial Parliament, even if the House of Lords were done away with, and a Senate provided in lieu thereof, to which the members were elected in equal numbers and with powers so reduced and limited as Mr. Deakin sought to reduce and limit them? They had not only got to frame a constitution which would work for the present, but they had to frame a constitution which would secure the love and respect of the people of Australasia, and to which they would adhere in the years to come, not coerced to do so, but because they felt it to their interest to do so, and because something in the Federal Parliament represented that feeling which was older than all politics—the local feeling. As the Swiss had it, "A man's shirt was dearer to him than his coat." In all federations they found that the States looked to their representatives in the States Council, and it was a continual bond of union that they did so. And although they looked upon the House of Representatives with affection and respect, still the chief affection and respect was for the Senate. He did not propose to continue that branch of the subject further, but he wished to say a few words with respect to what had fallen from Sir Samuel Griffith. In his able and thoughtful speech he gave the delegates much to think about. He confessed that much in Sir Samuel's speech had perturbed his mind exceedingly. There was no doubt that the Senate was so different in its nature to the Legislative Councils that the experiment of trying to work two Houses with co-ordinate powers might, or might not, succeed. Sir Samuel had informed them of the theory on which responsible government was founded, or rather the theory of responsible government. But he preferred to take the facts as they stood, and the facts were that responsible government had been framed and developed here with the result that one branch of the Legislature had usurped all the power. Responsible government was a committee chosen from one branch of the Legislature, and the question was whether they could work that system with two co-ordinate and co-equal branches of the Legislature. It was a difficult problem, and one which all present must be prepared to answer. But we were not without some experience. He referred to the two Houses of Tasmania and New Zealand, which were co-ordinate and co-equal in power excepting so far as the initiation of money bills was concerned. They had got on, not without friction; but not with more friction than the Houses in the other colonies. He was glad they were approaching the subject in a spirit of amity and compromise, and hoped they would be able to frame some constitution which would initiate the Dominion of Australasia.

Mr. BOLTON STAFFORD BIRD (Tasmania) regretted that, owing to having been detained at the Postal Conference, he had missed hearing the speech of Mr. Barton. The resolutions which the President had submitted were wisely limited to laying down those fundamental principles on which the union should be based. But they were to formulate a scheme which should be just to all the colonies. He must express a fear that if the resolutions were agreed to in their present form, and a scheme formulated on such a basis, it would not be thoroughly just. As Sir John Downer had pointed out, there was an inconsistency between the first resolution of the first series and the first resolution of the second series. Taking the first resolutions in their general terms and as the embodiment of certain principles, it appeared to him that they would be generally agreed to; but if the system of government as proposed in the second series were to be adopted, he hardly thought it would be in accordance with the idea that the "powers and privileges and territorial rights of the several existing colonies shall remain intact, except in respect to such surrenders as may be agreed upon as necessary and incidental to the power and authority of the National Federal Government." If they formulated any scheme which would invade the rights of their colonies, it would be work in vain, when they asked them to accept the scheme to join the union. The discussion had revealed wide divergence already. Victoria seemed prepared to give up more than some of the smaller States would be prepared to do. Perhaps that was because she knew that with New South Wales she would be in the majority and would be able to get her own way.

Mr. MUNRO: We are not willing to surrender a single right more than you are willing to surrender.

Mr. BIRD said that it was provided that trade and intercourse between the federated colonies should be absolutely free. If he could judge by what had fallen from Mr. Deakin there seemed to be a disposition to regret that surrender if it took place immediately on the federation of the colonies. He could not help thinking that this showed a weakness on the part of the protectionists, more particularly in a case like that of Victoria, where after so many years operation one would have supposed they would have been prepared to "lick creation," and not require two, three, four, or five years to allow things to "drop down." No doubt this would be desirable from a manufacturer's point of view, and he might be prepared to agree to such a proposal if the time were fixed when there should be a uniform tariff throughout the colonies; but he thought that the time that must elapse before the Federal Parliament could meet and draw up such a tariff would be enough to enable the manufacturers to become prepared for the change. That there should be freetrade between the colonies was beyond doubt. The most rigid protectionist appeared to be ready to admit that, whatever the conditions might be as regarded the outside world, the trade should be absolutely free as between the colonies themselves. He agreed with the fourth resolution, which provided that the military and naval defence of Australia should be entrusted to federal forces under one command; but he would suggest for consideration the question whether such control should not extend to the ships of war sent here by the Imperial Government, to the maintenance of which all but one of the colonies—Queensland—contributed. That was a question which it appeared to him had been overlooked in the discussion. He did not approve of the proposal to give the Senate no power to deal with money bills, taxation, and expenditure except so far as consisted in swallowing the bills as they came from the House of Representatives, or rejecting them in their entirety. If the House of Representatives alone was to have the power to tax and the power to appropriate money, what protection would the smaller States of the group have in such a legislature as that? He took it that justice to the smaller States as well as to the larger ones would necessitate the vesting in the second Chamber of the power of veto in detail in regard to bills for raising or appropriating money. He did not believe that the smaller colonies would consent in the proposed union to surrender the power of controlling the moneys to be raised by taxation or expended. Was it conceivable that the colonies would be content to group themselves together in a federal union which would be such that the States would have no more power than they had under the present Federal Council Act? What would be the advantage of having a second House if that second House, representing the States, had not far more power than it was proposed to give it by the resolutions, or more power than was now possessed by the Federal Council of Australasia? He did not see why they should refuse to give the Senate power to deal with money bills. Why should they hesitate to place in the hands of the majority of the States the same power in regard to money bills as that rested in them in relation to other important matters of legislation? The Senate should be perfectly in touch with the people. He disapproved of the members of the Senate being nominees or the representatives of nominees. Then they might require an Executive which was responsible to both Houses, so that it should not hold office by the will of one House. Possibly the question might arise of the dissolution of the Senate as well as the dissolution of the House of Representatives in the event of anything like a deadlock between the two Houses. Should the Senate be representative of the people to the extent he had indicated, there would be a propriety in requiring that the Senate should be dissolved after it had twice refused to pass any measure which had been sent up to it by the House of Representatives. In that way they would get an expression of the will of the people. He was not in sympathy with the resolution, which provided for the perpetuity of the Senate. Not being of a legal turn of mind, he would leave the consideration of legal questions to the legal gentlemen present. He would not add more to the remarks he had made. He expressed his gratification at the manner in which his remarks had been received, and concluded by expressing a hope that their deliberations, however long continued or briefly last, would result in the formation of such a scheme of federation as would be acceptable to their several colonies when they went back again, and bring about before long a united Australasia, which would be—as was put by one of the speakers the other evening—one of the brightest jewels in her Majesty's Crown.

Sir PATRICK JENNINGS said he had not come there that day prepared to make a speech, but he was prepared to deliver the opinions he held on the great question presented to the Convention, opinions deliberately formed, which would guide him in his action on that most important occasion in endeavouring to come to a right, fair, and just conclusion all round. And before he proceeded to speak to the resolutions he might say that he had stood up there because he thought it was important that they should proceed as expeditiously as possible with the great work they had in hand. He could appreciate the great inconvenience the delegates from Victoria, Queensland, South Australia, and Tasmania were put to by being delayed unnecessarily, and he hoped, in order to carry on the deliberations of this Convention as quickly as possible, that, having stood nearly all this week shivering on the brink, all members there would each take his plunge with all rapidity—(laughter)—to quote a word from Sir Samuel Griffith when speaking at the Melbourne Conference. He had not come there to take part in a mere contest of declamation, but to assist with all the poor help he could give to work and arrive at the great goal, the object which they all had in view. They had all come there with prepared opinions, he believed with a sincere desire to accomplish this great work, and he held that it would be calamitous to the whole of Australia if by any procrastination of their proceedings or undue delay that they so dallied over the work as to prevent them from bringing it to a consummation as soon as they reasonably could. He had heard from the President's opening speech one admirable remark—that they all desired to give and take. He did not for one moment say that those who came there required to take and not to give; but he hoped there would be reasonable compromise on both sides. He preferred to use, instead of give and take, the motto of the great German Chancellor—"Wir geben das sie uns auch kaun geben" ("We give that you may give us back again." That was the true spirit of compromise, and he believed, unless they felt deeply the obligation cast upon them to throw aside all prejudices, and as far as possible to throw aside causes of difference, they would not accomplish the result which they all had in view. The eyes of the whole continent of Australia were upon them, and the people expected great things from them. The prayers and hopes of a great majority of the people went up for the success of that Convention, and he knew and felt that if they did their best their deliberations would result in the successful issue which they all wanted to attain, and that was the making of one great Australian nation. He would refer to the resolution not in detail now, because he was speaking without hardly any preparation. He found that the resolutions, which were put before the Convention in the first place said the "powers and privileges and territorial rights of the several existing colonies shall remain intact" with regard to the powers which they possessed. In entering into a discussion of a union of these colonies as States he held it would be a most necessary and important thing that no attempt should be made to destroy old landmarks or existing points without the consent of the inhabitants. It would be most undesirable and a most unwise thing to attempt to do. There were thousands of reasons he could adduce why it should not be done. They in the colony of New South Wales had within their territorial limits well-defined boundaries, which had been brought about by curtailment. He was not quite sure as to the meaning of the words "such surrenders as may be agreed upon." If that implied that there should be no readjustment of boundaries on account of any fancy differences, then they were perfectly willing not to ask more than that article of the resolution says, and that part should be agreed to. He might add in that connection that the circumstances of this colony were different to the great unoccupied territory of Western Australia, which meant one-third of the whole continent. This colony was quite different from South Australia, with a territory, including Northern Australia, nearly another third of Australia, and this colony was different from Queensland, in which colony even now an agitation was going on for a division of the colony. He had no doubt that when the time came for this question of the landmarks to be dealt with by the Federal Government all that he wished to see established would be dealt with in a satisfactory manner, perhaps more so than if remitted to the powers which for many years dealt with questions of that sort. In regard to the first article of the resolution, understanding it in the sense he had now spoken, he had no objection to it. With regard to the second portion of the resolution, he had always maintained that one of the festering sores that rankled in the minds of the different colonies was the arbitrary customs duties which intercept the free passage of goods passing from one colony to another. A sore feeling was produced by this colony having to pay border customs to the adjoining colonies. A true union could not be brought about without a customs union. He did not pretend to prophesy on what lines of political economy—whether freetrade or protection—the Federal Parliament would decide upon. What was of greater moment to him than any fiscal question was the union of the people of the colonies. The fourth clause of the resolution, which provided that the military and naval defences should be entrusted to federal forces under one command, he would pass over, because any expression of opinion given at this stage was merely a prelude to what would be said hereafter. The crux of the debate was raised by Sir Samuel Griffith when he discussed the powers of the Senate, or whatever the chamber might be called. He supposed they were all agreed that there must be two Chambers—(hear, hear)—based very much on the principles laid down in the resolution. He was opposed to any Chamber which would be analogous to that raised under the Canadian constitution, by the nominee system. No doubt there were good reasons at the time which induced Canada to adopt such a form, but we were not bound to follow strictly her example, or the example of America. They certainly ought to have a knowledge of all systems to assist them in their deliberations, but there was no need for them to slavishly follow those examples. They were met under circumstances altogether different to those under which either Canada or America met to federate. They were met under much happier conditions. They were undertaking voluntarily and deliberately, without external pressure, a task, feeling that if it was not soon performed, and they did not come together, they must gradually fall asunder. It was because he felt this that he deemed it expedient to prepare the basis for federation. If he might be allowed to express the opinion, he thought they would do better to have a strong Upper House, or Council, or Senate—a chamber which would command the respect and reverence of the people; and personally he would prefer to see it modelled after the Senate of the United States, rather than the Nominee Chamber of Canada. As Sir Samuel Griffith suggested, it should have as much power of taxation as the House of Representatives. With regard to the constitution of the judiciary, he believed that in 99 cases out of every hundred, if we had a high court of appeal, legal questions would be more speedily and more accurately decided than if they were sent to the Privy Council in England. He hoped in all their deliberations they would remember that they were labouring for one common purpose. They had assembled with a desire to bring about a union of the Australias, and at as early a date as possible.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE DEBATE.

Colonel SMITH moved the adjournment of the debate.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. M'MILLAN moved that the Convention do now adjourn.

The motion was agreed to.

The Convention adjourned at 4.20 until 11 o'clock on Monday morning.

MUNICIPAL GAS WORKS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As an alderman and ratepayer of the borough of North Sydney, permit me to inform your correspondent "Centre Valve," that I have carefully considered the published report of the Bathurst Council balance-sheet, page 8078 Government Gazette, and find, that whatever may be the case in the six unknown random corporations of England with cheap wages and long hours, the Bathurst municipality is enabled to make and supply gas at 5s 6d per 1000, after paying nearly 20 per cent. of its receipts for trainage and cartage of coal, &c., and could, if necessary, light the streets of the borough free of cost. It would be interesting to the public, with this Gazette notice before them if on the figures there published, your correspondent could show otherwise. It would be also equally interesting if he will give the names of the six corporations in England making and supplying an equal quality of gas to the Bathurst works at a similar price.

I am, &c.,

March 5. EDWARD M. CLARK.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately-flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency of disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold only in ½lb. packets by grocers, labelled thus—James Epps and Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London.—[ADVT.]

A NATURAL APERIENT, without hazarding force.—An unsolicited testimony from the late C. S. Hall, F.R.A., who wrote the following when above 80 years of age:—"I have for a long time used Eno's Fruit Salt. I have found it an effective yet genuine aperient, very beneficial to persons of sedentary habits, especially such as exercise not the limbs but the brain and frequently require to assist nature without hazardous force. It acts according to the quantity taken—either as a relieving medicine or as a cooling and refreshing drink, and I am convinced that it does not weaken when it stimulates." Sold by all chemists. Prepared only at Eno's Fruit Salt Works, Pomeroy-street, New Cross-road, London, Eng., by J. C. Eno's patent.—[ADVT.]

INTERCOLONIAL POSTAL CONFERENCE.

Business was resumed by the delegates to the Intercolonial Postal Conference in the Council-chamber of the Colonial Secretary's Office yesterday morning. The chairman of the Conference (the Hon. D. O'Connor) presided, and the other delegates present were :—Mr. J. Gavan Duffy, Postmaster-General of Victoria ; Sir John Bray, K.C.M.G., Colonial Secretary of South Australia ; Mr. Theodore Unmack, Postmaster-General of Queensland ; Mr. B. S. Bird, Treasurer and Postmaster-General of Tasmania ; Mr. J. G. Ward, Postmaster-General of New Zealand ; Mr. James Smibert, Deputy Postmaster-General of Victoria ; Mr. C. Todd, C.M.G., Postmaster-General of South Australia ; Mr. John M'Donnell, Under-Secretary to the Queensland Post Office ; Mr. William Gray, Secretary to the New Zealand Post Office ; Mr. S. H. Lambton, Secretary to the Post Office of New South Wales ; Mr. E. C. Cracknell, of the Electric Telegraph Department of New South Wales ; and Mr. Robert Henry, Superintendent of Telegraphs, Tasmania.

The first subject discussed was that concerning the proposed agreement with the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company, on which debate was resumed.

Mr. B. STAFFORD BIRD said he believed that the only profitable agreement they could make would be to obtain a reduction in the cable rates without giving a guarantee against probable loss. He considered that some of the colonies had now become so educated up to expect the 4s rate, that they would not like to entertain a change, especially so with Tasmania. The Tasmanian Government desired to maintain their position with regard to their contribution which South Australia had taken up. He considered that South Australia was entitled to great consideration after bearing alone the great expense she had done during the past two years. He thought that South Australia should not be called upon to join in the guarantee unless the Government of that colony was secured against loss. The desire of the Tasmanian Government was that they should not bind themselves to any contract that would prove a barrier to the Pacific cable being laid ; and he could not see any harm in entering into the proposed agreement, as it could be terminated on a year's notice. He could not see how the agreement in question would delay the establishment of the Pacific cable, for under the terms of the agreement the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company would not have the sole monopoly of the cable business. He suggested that an offer of 6s per word should be made to the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company, the company to accept the responsibility of any loss.

Mr. J. GAVAN DUFFY said that he regretted that Queensland and New Zealand hesitated to make a small sacrifice for the general good of all the colonies. He thought that they would have been prepared to make a small sacrifice to prove their earnestness in the cause of federation. Victoria and South Australia were prepared to take the risk for the public benefit, and he believed those two colonies were showing far more interest in the matter than some of their neighbouring colonies. As Queensland and New Zealand were inclined to stand out, it would be advisable to appoint a sub-committee, consisting of the Ministers of the colonies that were in favour of the agreement. (Hear, hear.) He would move that the agreement be referred to a sub-committee consisting of the representatives of New South Wales, Victoria, South Australia, and Tasmania.

Sir JOHN BRAY said that he was satisfied that if they effected the proposed reduction in the cable rates, business would increase to such an extent that the amount of the guarantee would but mean a nominal sum. He hoped that Queensland and New Zealand would conclude that they ought to assist the other colonies for the benefit of the whole group. He would ask leave to withdraw his motion in favour of Mr. Duffy's proposal.

The CHAIRMAN said there were two solid reasons why the proposal to do away with the guarantee should not stand a moment's consideration. He was quite certain that the company would not accept 6s per word and take the responsibility of any loss, and such a proposal would also, he felt sure, be unacceptable to the colonies. He felt certain that Queensland and New Zealand would yet join the other colonies in the general interest of the whole group. He sincerely hoped that all the colonies would join in the proposal.

Mr. THEODORE UNMACK said he believed they had all made up their minds as to what they were going to do. With regard to the federation of the colonies, he considered that this matter had nothing to do with the question at all. No matter what his desire might be to listen to reasons why he should change his views on the subject, his opposition had been strengthened a hundredfold. He felt that there would be strong opposition to the proposed guarantee in the various Australasian Legislatures, and he felt convinced that it would be useless to introduce such a proposal to the Queensland Parliament, so it would be useless for him to make any promises at the Conference. On behalf of Queensland, he could not agree to the proposed agreement.

Mr. J. G. J. WARD said that the New Zealand authorities had decided not to join the other colonies in the proposed agreement. He would like to point out that, so far as New Zealand was concerned, calculation showed that they would be handicapped to the extent of 10d per word. The time might come when New Zealand would find it to her interest to change her opinion, but in the meantime he must, on behalf of that colony, decline to join in the agreement. New Zealand, at the same time, entertained a most friendly feeling towards the other colonies.

Leave was ultimately given to Sir John Bray to withdraw his motion in favour of Mr. Duffy's proposal.

Mr. S. H. Lambton submitted reports from the heads of departments on several matters affecting postal and telegraphic business referred to them on the 27th ultimo. The reports were received, and it was decided to deal with them at the next meeting.

REDUCTION OF POSTAGE.

Mr. JOHN GAVAN DUFFY introduced his proposal to reduce the postage throughout Australia to 1d per half-ounce. He said that something had been said lately about "one people, one destiny." He would like to see in Australia, "one people, one postage-stamp one penny." It seemed to him that the time had arrived when they might put the whole postal system on one basis, and adopt a charge of 1d per half-ounce for the whole of the colonies. He considered that whatever loss they might experience at first by the establishment of such a system, it would not be permanent. In Victoria they had reduced their postage to 1d, and at the time they did so they anticipated that the loss would amount to £100,000, instead of which they only lost £79,000 for the first year. They looked hopefully forward to the time when the loss would be wiped out. He would move,—"That in the opinion of this conference the time has arrived when a uniform rate of postage for letters of 1d for half an ounce should be adopted through the whole of Australasia."

Sir JOHN BRAY said that it would mean a great loss to South Australia if Mr. Duffy's proposal was adopted. Before the various colonies could agree to a uniform rate of 1d per ½oz., they must have opportunity to more fully consider what the effect would be, and he would ask Mr. Duffy to withdraw his motion, and bring it forward again at some future time.

Mr. J. G. WARD said that Mr. Duffy's proposal had his entire sympathy, and he would second the motion, so that it might be discussed. On calculation they had found that it would mean a loss of £57,000 to adopt a universal postage as proposed. However, as the matter had not been considered by the New Zealand Legislature, he could not support Mr. Duffy's proposal at present.

Mr. BIRD said that personally he was in favour of the proposal ; but, in view of the federation of the colonies, he thought the question should be deferred.

Mr. UNMACK said he was in favour of cheap postage, but Queensland was not in a position to suffer loss on postage rates at present. It would cost Queensland £32,500 per annum to adopt Mr. Duffy's proposal. At a future conference of postal authorities, which he trusted would be held in the near future, they would be better able to consider the proposal. He hoped that Mr. Duffy would withdraw his motion on the present occasion.

The CHAIRMAN fully sympathised with the proposal, but was of opinion that it was a matter that required the consideration of the various Cabinets. He thought that the proposal was well-timed. It seemed absurd that they could send letters thousands of miles away for 2d and could not send them a few hundred miles in Australia for less than 2d. He considered that Mr. Duffy had broached a subject that would meet with the approval of the people of Australia.

Mr. DUFFY consented to withdraw his motion, saying that he hoped it would receive the consideration due to it at some future conference.

SWEEP LETTERS.

Mr. DUFFY moved,—"That in the opinion of this conference it is advisable that the system of dealing with letters relating to sweeps should be uniform throughout Australasia."

Mr. UNMACK trusted that the motion would be carried. He was quite in favour of the proposal.

Mr. J. G. WARD considered that each colony should legislate for itself in this matter.

Mr. O'CONNOR said : To promote morality among mankind is a very noble object, and I believe it would tend largely to that if we could altogether prevent gambling in these colonies, and if it were unknown elsewhere humanity would be the better for it. But what about carrying that out ? And will the resolution proposed by my hon. friend Mr. Duffy, and which seems to receive the approval of my honourable colleague, in any way tend to attain that noble object ? I unhesitatingly say no ! And Mr. Duffy's own resolution is in sad contrast to the great efforts made by Victoria in absolutely promoting gambling. It is a matter of fact that on one day every year at least there is proclaimed a public holiday to celebrate in that colony a carnival that does not belong to Victoria alone, but to Australasia, when tens of thousands of people are induced—and great inducements are offered them by the Government of that colony—to come to Melbourne to attend the great races and spend their money, a very large portion of it at Flemington. Let us look at things straight in the face and call things by their right names ; and if there is any sham or hypocrisy, then there is a case to ask this conference to discourage gambling. In Melbourne it is a very rare thing to find any less than 100,000 people at their November meeting every year, and there are four days out of every seven in the same week given over to the great meeting, besides the numerous other meetings that take place at other times of the year. For instance, last week, at the autumn meeting there were the Australian Cup and the Newmarket Handicap. Now, this is in the colony of Victoria, and that colony—the Government of it—may be said to have entered into partnership with the men connected with the racecourse, with the men who are called blacklegs, but whom I call commercial speculators in a business. It is a transparent hypocrisy. I will give my honourable friend some facts. First of all, supposing to-morrow you restrict the sweeps ; would that restrict gambling ? Why, in 1883 they passed an Act in Victoria that gave the Postmaster-General almost unlimited power, and gave men in an inferior position in the Post Office the right to overhaul letters and find out the transactions of other people. But has that lessened gambling ? At the present moment there is more gambling and more gamblers in Victoria than in the whole of Australasia put together. Why, they are known here as Silver Kings ! To-morrow, I undertake to say, if the Victorian Government found itself in financial difficulties, and had to raise a loan, and appeal to the Thompson family and others that surround them to help them out of debt, these prosperous speculators could do it. Whilst they have taken out from the newspapers columns of advertisements regarding sweeps and consultations, yet we still find in the leading papers of Australasia—the Argus, Age, Sydney Morning Herald, Daily Telegraph, News, &c.—advertisements under the hand and seal of some of the great officers of Victoria, offering all kinds of facilities to people to take them to Flemington. Let us look these things honestly in the face. Has gambling decreased in Victoria since you passed that Act ? Unquestionably not. Look how unjust it is for a democratic community to propose to do this. Wealthy men can go to Flemington and Randwick, as they do, where you will find represented the merchant princes of the colony, Judges of the Supreme Court, leaders of the Bar, and leaders of many honourable occupations, including even my honourable friend Mr. Duffy, who likes to put down his pound in the hope of seeing it bring 100 back to him. Wealthy men can go to the racecourse openly, and take their 100 to 5, or 1000 to 50, according to their means ; there is no attempt on the part of the Parliament of Victoria to restrict them from doing that ; and why should a man, because an accident of fortune compels his residence to be on the Murray, or the Tweed, or the backwoods of Gippsland or New Zealand, who cannot avail himself of the opportunity to enjoy the luxury of going out in a magnificent train to Flemington, not have the same privilege ? Why are these people not to be permitted to bet their £1 because they cannot go to Flemington or Randwick ? Why, they have more claim, for they contribute something to the State. They post a letter, and have to get one in return, which has to be stamped ; whereas the wealthy gambler gives nothing to the State. The metallicians do their betting at Flemington and Randwick without returning any revenue to the State. The thousands of the populace are the large contributors. It is not the wealthy swells who live at St. Kilda or Potts Point that maintain the public revenue, but the large mass of the people. Why should they be prevented from betting a pound in the only way they can ? The only way they can do so is by utilising the post, and to say that to stop them doing so would reform morals and prevent crime, by discouraging gambling, is a shoddy argument, and will not stand a moment's investigation. If you want to show your sincerity, move a resolution for an Act to make it illegal to gamble. (Mr. Duffy : "It is now.") Well, what effect has it ? Does any policeman in Victoria walk out and interfere with you when you gamble ? Does he say "Your name, sir ?" because you are a gambler ? Don't they see people taking the odds every day. (On paper only, I admit.) Would it not be taking away the only means we have of getting a large revenue, and making people pay something for the luxury ? I go to the races myself, and can afford to bet a pound or a couple of pounds, and like to do it, and I do it openly. On the racecourse you meet barristers, members of the various learned professions, merchants, judges, and other members of the community ; one of the most enterprising men we have had on the turf here was a judge, who kept racehorses. It is one of the qualifications of the Governors of the colonies that they are to be men fond of horseracing ; for a man not fond of it to aspire to the Governorship of Victoria, would send a thrill of horror through the colony. The essential qualification for a Governor is that he shall be a man who shall have independent means, and who has a partiality for seeing a race. What is the good of us initiating here to-day a thing that can have no practical effect, and that absolutely involves an injustice, inasmuch as, if you could stop it, you would prevent the poor man from betting his 10s ; whereas there is no hindrance to the rich man openly betting his thousands or tens of thousands. I am not speaking theoretically. If you want to stop this, let there be a penal enactment passed that any man who gambles or who attempts to gamble shall be punished, and what a thrill of horror that would send among the commercial community engaged in mining, share-broking, land-buying, forming companies—for that is gambling. Men spend their means in seeking for minerals in the bowels of the earth, in developing mines ; that is speculating, that is gambling. I have been myself six and a half years contributing to a mine in Victoria, at Tarnagulla, and have contributed £1000. I have never got back a farthing. (Mr. Duffy : "And never will.") They want to introduce a bill in Victoria to prevent money going over from New South Wales to develop your mineral resources. As regards sweeps, where is the difference between them and open gambling ? Wealthy men go to Randwick or Flemington to bet ; even in the pious colony of South Australia, I believe, money is shelled out freely. I don't believe they know anything about gambling in New Zealand, or horse-racing either. (Mr. Ward : "We provide you the best horses.") As a matter of fact, New Zealand has been tempting the whole of the colonies for years by breeding the best horses. Queensland has contributed also. Not one of the colonies but has by breeding, paying large sums to buy the best blood stock, tried to produce the fastest horses—for what ? To run on the turf for our edification ? No, to get the most money they could out of them ; and this can only be done by entering into a partnership between themselves and the public. If this causes demoralisation, as hinted by my friend Mr. Duffy, but which I doubt exists, it cannot be stopped by preventing letters about sweeps going through the post-office. If there is one colony that gambles largely it is Victoria. You can see whole terraces of houses there owned by bookmakers. The finest I saw there a year ago, when I was at Melbourne, belonged to bookmakers. Let me tell you what took place in our own city. One of our loveliest suburbs is Randwick, and within the last five years it has been almost rebuilt, and every house put up is owned by a professional bookmaker. What is the good of bringing in a bill to stop poor men from speculating a pound while you encourage the wealthy to bet largely. Let us be logical. We cannot have one law for the rich and another for the poor. I could not assent to this—it is opposed to justice and fair play ; but if a bill is brought in for the purpose of making gambling in all the colonies illegal I will support it, but I will not support any measure that will not produce any good effect, but only set up an injustice. I repeat again that because an accident of fortune, by geographical position or want of means, prevents men from witnessing horseraces, they should not be deprived of the opportunity to bet a trifle on a race. I cannot support the motion of my honourable friend, Mr. Duffy.

The motion was eventually carried.

THE CABLE AGREEMENT.

The delegates then went into committee on the draft agreement with the Eastern Extension Telegraph Company.

Several amendments were made, including one providing that those colonies declining to enter into the agreement shall be charged at the same rate as at present.

The amendments were submitted to the representative of the Eastern Extension Company, who decided to communicate by cable with the head office. On receipt of a reply, the question will again be brought before the Conference.

During the afternoon the reports of the heads of department, which were received earlier in the day, were brought forward for consideration, but the chairman, suggesting that the delegates should have time to look over them with care, it was decided to defer further consideration until next day.

The Conference then adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

THE NEW RAILWAY INSTITUTE.

INSPECTION OF THE BUILDING.

At the invitation of the committee of the Railway Institute a number of gentlemen inspected the new institute building last evening, prior to its formal opening, which takes place a week hence. The building is situated at the corner of Devonshire and Castlereagh streets, the north side being parallel with the former street, the external dimensions being about 113ft. by 49ft. The design is in the Queen Anne style, and has been executed in double-pressed facing bricks, with cornices, sills, &c., in moulded bricks. The roof is covered with French tiles. The principal entrance is at the west end, and is under an arched porch giving access to the hall and staircase. The staircase leads to a large lecture-hall on the first floor by two flights, right and left. The space underneath the stairs is utilised for lavatories. From the entrance-hall a corridor extends longitudinally through the building, giving access to the reading-room, library, classroom, smoking-room, and refreshment-room, all of which are very commodious. The library has been fitted up with cedar shelves and bookcases and counter, which will conveniently hold about 5000 volumes. At the end of the corridor is situated the kitchen and caretaker's room ; also a second staircase and entrance. The lecture-hall will give sitting accommodation for about 550 people. It contains a very nice stage, with an exit door leading to the second staircase, and thence to the ground floor. The walls of the lecture-hall are furnished with a dado of kauri pine ; the roof is partially open. There are three bay windows on either side. The porch and entrance-hall of this handsome building have been laid with tessellated tiles in an ornamental manner, and altogether the Railway Institute is a building of which the railway employees may be justly proud. The building has been built by the Railway Commissioners at the Government expense. The design was competitive, and the total cost, including the furniture and fittings, was about £5000. The library already consists of 2060 volumes, embracing the latest scientific works, also the best works of fiction. This library will be a circulating one, and will prove a great boon to railway employees whose duty keeps them away from central libraries. It may be mentioned that several of the great British railway companies have established, with the happiest results, reading-rooms and circulating libraries for their employees ; and at Derby, Crewe, Wolverton, and other large towns in the United Kingdom the mutual improvement and technical classes formed in connection with these institutions have proved extremely useful. In New South Wales the majority of railway employees, in consequence of the conditions of their labour and the manner in which they are scattered and confined to isolated points, do not enjoy the advantages possessed by other members of the industrial classes, who have at their command the various Schools of Art established throughout the country, hence the value of the circulating library of the new Railway Institute. The subscription is to be 10s per annum for all within the Sydney suburban area ; 5s for country members ; and 5s for juniors and apprentices whose pay is less than £60 per annum. The institute will be formally opened on Saturday next, the 14th instant, and the event will be celebrated by a conversazione to be held on the evening of that date and on two following evenings. Last evening the building was inspected by Mr. Hugh M'Lachlan (Secretary for Railways and chairman of the committee of the Railway Institute), Mr. E. B. Taylor (hon. secretary of the Railway Institute), and numerous members of the committee of the new institution. After the building had been inspected all were invited to quite a nice little supper by the caretaker of the building (Mr. A. E. Dykes), who had provided the same in the apartment to be henceforth known as the refreshment-room. After refreshment, convivial speeches were made, and success to the Railway Institute was well toasted by Mr. M'Lachlan and Mr. Taylor. One way and another a very enjoyable evening was spent by all present.

THE CONVENTION.—Members and visitors from the other colonies, where the tariff is high, should, before they return, get a suit of clothes from the largest Tailors in Australia. Only branch in Sydney, cor. Syd. Arc. and Geo.-st.—[ADVT.]

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY, MARCH 6.

In Banco.—(Before their Honors the CHIEF JUSTICE and Mr. Justice STEPHEN.)

ADMISSION TO THE BAR.

On the motion of Mr. A. H. Simpson, Mr. James Gordon Legg, M.A., LL.D., of the Sydney University, was admitted to the bar of New South Wales, and on the application of Mr. O'Connor, Mr. Wilfred Haythorne Edgar, M.A., of Balliol College, Oxford (Associate to Mr. Justice Stephen), was also admitted.

EX PARTE JAMES E. H. HADDOCK, RE JOHN HANLON AND JAMES CRANE.

Mr. Gordon, instructed by Messrs. Fergusson and Broad, appeared for the applicant Haddock, and moved under section 99 of the Municipalities Act for a rule nisi calling upon John Hanlon and James Crane to show cause why a writ of quo warranto should not be issued to oust them from the office of aldermen of the Municipal Council of Raymond Terrace. The grounds of the application were that a man named Andrew L. Adam remained in the polling-room all day during the voting, not being authorised to do so by the returning officer ; and that, as applicant was informed and believed, the same person was allowed to count the voting papers and perform other duties in connection therewith.

The Court did not think any rule should go in the case. It appeared that Adam had been allowed into the polling-room, but he did not understand from the affidavits that he was allowed into the voting-room while the electors were recording their votes. If there had been an allegation that this person went into the voting-room, the case might be different, but this was not alleged. As to the other ground, that Adam was permitted to count the voting papers, the applicant only expressed his belief that this was so, and that was not sufficient.

Application refused.

EX PARTE WILLIAM CHARLES FORSTER, RE JAMES COWARD.

Mr. Wise, instructed by Messrs. Williams and Saunders, appeared for appellant, Forster, and moved for a rule nisi calling upon James Coward to show cause why a writ of quo warranto should not be issued to oust him from the position of alderman of North Botany, on the grounds that certain persons were allowed to vote who were not on the municipal roll, and that others who had the right were wrongly precluded from voting, and further that James Coward had himself voted in respect of rates which had been paid by Soon Fat.

Rule granted, returnable next term.

EX PARTE PRISCILLA AGATHA HARDWICKE, RE G. H. J. HARDWICKE.

Mr. O'Connor, instructed by Mr. G. C. Murdoch, appeared for the applicant, and moved for a rule nisi calling upon George Henry James Hardwicke to show cause why a writ of habeas corpus should not be issued to enable applicant Priscilla Agatha Hardwicke to obtain the custody of her two children, Frederick George Hardwicke, aged 4½ years, and Harold H. Hardwicke, aged 2 years 2 months. Counsel stated that the application was made on the ground set out in Mrs. Hardwicke's affidavit, that respondent was leading such an immoral life that he was unfit to have the custody of the children. The respondent deserted his wife, and an order for payment of maintenance was made against him. Since then he had taken the children away.

The rule was granted, returnable before a Judge in Chambers next Wednesday.

EX PARTE JOHN THOMAS HELY, RE H. B. FITZHARDINGE.

John Thomas Hely, hotelkeeper, of Wagga Wagga, appeared in person, and moved for a rule nisi calling upon Henry Berkley Fitzhardinge, solicitor, of Wagga Wagga, to answer certain matters referred to in the applicant's affidavit. He stated that he was the successful plaintiff in the equity suit Hely v. Hack ; defendant appealed, and the Full Court reversed the decision of the Court below ; applicant was then advised by Mr. Fitzhardinge, his solicitor, to appeal to the Privy Council, and he acquiesced ; since then respondent had on several occasions informed him in reply to his inquiries that the appeal had gone home, but applicant had recently discovered that this was not the fact.

The Court thought that applicant had disclosed sufficient in his affidavit to justify them in calling upon respondent to answer the statements contained in the affidavit, which he must do next term.

RE JAMES BROWNING (THEODORE POWELL, CAVEATOR).

Mr. Wise appeared for the applicant Browning, who seeks to bring certain land at Cambramatta under the provisions of the Real Property Act, and moved to settle issues. Dr. Sly appeared for the caveator. The issues settled were as follows :—Has applicant any documentary title to the land ? if so, has it been destroyed by previous possession by caveator up to November 5, 1888, or has it been destroyed by possession up to November 18, 1890 ?

(Before their Honors the CHIEF JUSTICE, Mr. Justice STEPHEN, and Mr. Justice FOSTER.)

RE P. H. SULLIVAN, A GENT ONE, &C.

Mr. C. B. Stephen appeared for Mr. Philip Hurley Sullivan, solicitor, who had been called upon by the Court to answer certain matters referred to by the Prothonotary, in a report in respect of Mr. Sullivan's bill of costs against the Oakey Park Coal-mining Company, who had referred it to the officer named for taxation. The Prothonotary, in his report, stated that upon taxation of the bill, in the presence of Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Marshall, the solicitor of the company, he disallowed in toto the following items in the bill :—"June 19, 1889 : Attending Mr. Smith, when he informed me that he had made all arrangements as to the presentation of bill, and that it would not come on before 28th instant, and on his requesting cheque for his expenses, 6s 8d ; letter to manager informing and for instructions, 2s 2d. June 20 : Attending Mr. Smith again as to expenses, and letter to manager suggesting £25 being paid him, 2s 2d. June 22 : Letter to manager for cheque for Mr. Smith, 2s 2d ; June 23, attendance on manager on his handing me cheque for Mr. Smith, 6s 8d ; letter to Mr. Smith enclosing same, 5s 1d. October 18, attending members, paying their expenses for loss of time, letters, messages, telegrams, wires, &c., £100 ; paid Mr. Smith's expenses to Lithgow, £10 10s." After he had completed the taxation, Mr. Sullivan, at his suggestion, on the 19th November last made an affidavit explaining, as he stated, the items in the bill. The Mr. Smith mentioned is Mr. Frank James Smith, one of the members for Balmain in the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales. With reference to the £100 charged as having been paid to "members," Mr. Sullivan stated on the taxation that it had not been actually paid, but had only been promised to them, and the names of the members he (the Prothonotary) could not elicit. On the 21st November Mr. Smith saw the Prothonotary at his office, Supreme Court, and made a verbal statement in reference to the £25 which had been paid to him, but he referred Mr. Smith to Mr. Sullivan, and requested him to put such statement in writing which he had not done. On the 10th February an affidavit of Mr. Sullivan's, sworn on that day, was delivered to the Prothonotary, the more material portions of which were as follow :—"I was the attorney for the above company, and, as instructed by the directors, handed their proposed railway bill over to Mr. Frank James Smith, M.P., for introduction to the Assembly. As the bill on previous occasions had been opposed, he informed me that it was advisable he should go to Lithgow and make himself acquainted with the locality and get the opinion of experts as to the necessity of such a railway and as to the bona fides of the whole affair. I am informed by the managing director, that he went to Lithgow accordingly, accompanied by other members of Parliament, and inspected the route of the proposed railway and the whole surroundings, and was accompanied also by experts. Neither Mr. Smith nor any other member of Parliament has received any sum of money either directly or indirectly from me for assisting in the passing of the aforesaid bill. I have asked the said Frank James Smith to swear an affidavit of the foregoing facts, and he promised to do so, but a company for whom I am solicitor [are proceeding against him at common law for the recovery of certain moneys, and an Equity suit is pending between the same parties, and in consequence thereof he (Smith) will not come near me or answer my letters." In his affidavit before the Court Mr. Sullivan stated that the £25 was paid to Mr. Smith to enable him, and such other persons as thought it advisable, to go to Oakey Park, near Lithgow, and visit the proposed railway, and to defray their expenses for so doing, and for no other purpose. In reference to the sum of £100 charged in the bill of costs, the facts were that it was supposed by the managing director, Mr. Fryer, and Mr. Vincent, another director, and himself (Mr. Sullivan) that further claims for expenses of other members who might deem it necessary to visit the site of the proposed railway (a number of whom having been requested to do so), might arise, and he was verbally instructed by the directors to charge that sum in his costs to provide for any just claim that might be made after the passing of the bill for such expenses in reference thereto, and it was arranged that he should account to the company for any balance which might ultimately remain over in his hands. No promises of payment were made by him to members of Parliament in respect of their expenses ; but he was informed by Mr. Fryer and Mr. Vincent that they had spoken to a number of members whose names he (Mr. Sullivan) did not know, inviting them to visit the locus in quo, promising them to defray any necessary expenses which they might incur ; and it was those expenses which they meant him to pay. He was aware that it was not an uncommon thing for necessary expenses incurred for members out of pocket in making themselves acquainted with the merits of a private bill to be defrayed by the promoters, and in the present case the payments to Mr. Smith and the other payments contemplated were strictly of this character. If he had erred in the matter he was wholly unconscious of any impropriety. Mr. Richard Fryer, in his affidavit, corroborated Mr. Sullivan as to the purpose for which the £25 had been paid, and he added : "I verily believe that it was in consequence of Mr. Smith making himself so thoroughly acquainted with the merits of the proposed route that the bill was passed through Parliament. It was not suggested nor ever contemplated by any person that the aforesaid sums of £100 and £25, or any part thereof, or in fact any sum of money should be given to any members of Parliament, or any other persons for their services save such fair out of pocket expenses as they might have incurred in connection with the said bill."

Mr. Stephen said it was the wish of Mr. Sullivan that he should also have the affidavits of Mr. Vincent and Mr. Smith, but he had been unable to get them, and he desired that the matter should be dealt with without delay. He thought the practice disclosed in the case was open to very great objection, and he did not defend it, but if members of Parliament gave up their time they expected to be reimbursed.

The CHIEF JUSTICE : Members of Parliament travel free.

Mr. Stephen said that they had to go by coach three miles from Lithgow to get to Oakey Park, and they stopped there several days inspecting the locality ; and very likely Mr. Smith expected to be remunerated for leaving his business.

The CHIEF JUSTICE. We have nothing at all to say as to what members choose to demand for expenses or remuneration for loss of time ; but we have to deal with a solicitor who brings in items of the sort described.

Mr. Stephen said that no doubt Mr. Sullivan was guilty of impropriety in being mixed up with payments to members of Parliament ; but, under the circumstances of the case, he thought a warning would be sufficient.

The CHIEF JUSTICE said : I may mention that I have consulted Mr. Justice Stephen, and the judgment which I am about to give is the judgment of his Honor as well as that of myself and Mr. Justice Foster. The affidavits which have been filed in this case fully justify the course which the Prothonotary thought fit to take in bringing this matter before the attention of the Court. There is no doubt that as far as Mr. Sullivan is concerned he has been guilty—to say the least of it—of very great impropriety. We have nothing to say in this court at present respecting the course which a member of Parliament seems to have pursued. He is not before the Court, and therefore we have nothing to say to him, but the Court has to deal with one of its own officers—a solicitor of this court—in bringing forward in a bill of costs items which beyond all question point to bribery, and bribery of a dangerous character. There are no degrees of misdemeanour. Those who offer a bribe are equally guilty with those who accept it. Whether Mr. Smith be amenable before any other tribunal for accepting a bribe we do not now inquire. We do not, however, think that the Court ought to visit punishment upon Mr. Sullivan beyond the expression of its opinion, or punish him for what has occurred either by suspension, fine, or in any other manner. In fact he is not called upon to show cause why he should not be suspended, but to answer upon affidavit, setting forth the facts of the case, and this, I think, he has done truly. The facts, as they appear upon the papers before us, are these :—It seems that Mr. Sullivan was retained by the Oakey Creek Coal-mining Company to get a bill passed through Parliament enabling them to form a line of railway from their mine to join in with the Western line of railway, and this bill, as with every other private measure of that nature, was referred to a select committee of the Assembly to deal with. Upon that select committee Mr. Smith was appointed. Now, when once a member is appointed to a select committee he is bound to act upon it, and is guilty of a breach of the privileges of the House if he refuses so to act. There is one case mentioned in the books in which a well-known gentleman, Mr. William Smith O'Brien, upon being selected as a member of a select committee, refused to act, and he was found guilty of a breach of the privileges of Parliament, and was given into the custody of the Sergeant-at-Arms ; it being held to be the duty of a member of Parliament to act without fee or reward upon any select committee upon which he may be appointed. Judging from the letter of the 24th June, 1890, written by Mr. Sullivan to his principal, it is quite clear that there had been some demand by Mr. Smith, or that there had been some promise made to Mr. Smith, of a sum of money ; a sum of money which, at any rate at that time, was not in payment of any expenses this gentleman had incurred, or in consequence of anything he had previously done, but a sum of money to meet certain alleged expenses to be incurred in the future. That letter is in these terms :—"24th June, 1890. Dear Fryer,—Re bill. In Saturday's Herald I saw an advertisement for Doyle to send his address to J. B. T. ; it may be to try and block the bill, and I think it advisable to give Smith the money. It seems to me money well spent ; send cheque and I will sign it. Yours truly, P. H. SULLIVAN. R. Fryer, Lithgow." Mr Sullivan does not in this letter say how much money. That appears to have been settled beforehand. Mr. Smith was said to be the member of Parliament who at this time had charge of the bill in the House, and he was also a member of the select committee on the bill. It would appear that Mr. Fryer sent the cheque, because on the 25th June, 1890, there is this letter :—"Re bill : Enclosed please find cheque for £25, account of expenses of the above. Kindly acknowledge receipt. Yours truly, PHILIP H. SULLIVAN. F. J. Smith, Esq., M.P., Balmain." There is also in the bill of costs under date October 18, 1889, the entry "Paid Mr. Smith's expenses to Lithgow, £10 10s." So that Mr. Smith had £10 10s expenses for going to Lithgow in 1889, and on the 24th June, 1890, he is paid this further sum of £25. Now I repeat, we have nothing to say to Mr. Smith here. As to whether he was right or wrong in receiving this money, we are not now concerned as to that, but that it was a sum of money paid by Mr. Sullivan to secure Mr. Smith's services, and therefore in the nature of a bribe, we have no hesitation in saying. Mr. Sullivan was the party who gave that money to Mr. Smith, and in doing this he has been guilty, on his own admission appearing upon the bill of costs, of a distinct misdemeanour at common law. It may be laid down as a general principle that any money paid to a member of Parliament for services rendered in Parliament as such member, whether these be rendered in the House itself or while acting upon a select committee of the House, is a bribe, or is money paid in the nature of a bribe ; and the excuse that it is paid for expenses incurred, or as remuneration for loss of time, will not hold good or avail the person who pays the money. The law of Parliament is very clear in this, and it will be found laid down in May's Parliamentary Practice, at page 93, 6th edition. On the 2nd May, 1695, it was resolved "That the offer of any money or other advantage to any member of Parliament, for the promoting of any matter whatsoever, depending or to be transacted in Parliament, is a high crime and misdemeanour, and tends to the subversion of the English Constitution," and in the spirit of this resolution, the offer of a bribe, in order to influence a member in the proceedings of the House, has been treated as a breach of privilege, being an insult not only to the member himself, but to the House. On the 18th March, 1694-5, Mr. Hird was reprimanded for offering a bribe to Mr. Musgrave, a member and a gentleman of the long robe, in the form of a guinea fee for preparing a petition to the House. So also the acceptance of a bribe by a member has ever by the law of Parliament been a grave offence, which has been visited by the severest punishments. In 1677 Mr. John Ashburnham was expelled for receiving £500 from the French merchants for business done in the House. In 1694 Sir John Trevor was declared guilty of a high crime and misdemeanour in having, while Speaker of the House, received a gratuity of a thousand guineas from the City of London after passing the Orphans Bill, and was expelled. In 1695 Mr. Guy, Secretary to the Treasury, was committed to the Tower for taking a bribe of 200 guineas, and in the same year Mr. Hungerford was expelled, as guilty of a high crime and misdemeanour, in receiving 20 guineas for his pains and service as chairman of the committee on the Orphans Bill. That is exactly this case. Nor has the law of Parliament been confined to the repression of direct pecuniary corruption. To guard against indirect influence, it has further restrained the acceptance of fees by its members for professional services connected with the proceedings in Parliament. And on the 22nd June, 1858, the House of Commons resolved,—"That it is contrary to the usage and derogatory to the dignity of this House that any of its members should bring forward, promote, or advocate in this House any proceeding or measure in which he may have acted or been concerned for, or in consideration of any pecuniary fee or reward." Now, it was said in this case in excuse for Mr. Sullivan that this sum of money was only paid to reimburse this gentleman for expenses and loss of time. Mr. Sullivan ought to be aware that when a member of Parliament is placed on a select committee, it is no part of his duty when inquiring into the merits of a bill to run over the colony to see this, that, and the other thing. It is his duty to decide upon the evidence placed before him in committee. If, indeed, it be necessary for the information of the committee that they should visit a particular place or see a particular thing, then, I apprehend, their expenses would be paid by Parliament ; but Mr. Sullivan ought to know perfectly well that it is no part of the duty of members of a select committee to go to see this place or that. It is the duty of the attorney to bring the evidence before them. This sum of £25 appears to have been paid to this gentleman before he had again visited the place in 1890, and was paid in accordance with the terms of this letter of the 24th June, 1890. At this time no one could tell what his expenses might be. If the expenses turned out to be £5, what became of the £20 ? and if they were £20, what became of the £5 ? I regret very much that it is necessary to animadvert on the conduct of a young practitioner of this Court. I feel confident that the error he has committed has been caused by inadvertence. I need not point out the danger to the constitution of this colony if, in the guise of payment of expenses or remuneration for loss of time, sums of money are paid to members of Parliament for the discharge of those duties which they have taken upon themselves to discharge. We have, however, nothing to say to that ; but we have unfortunately to deal with a gentleman who has rendered himself particeps criminis in the matter. Viewing the matter as we do with displeasure, but being convinced that as far as Mr. Sullivan is concerned the course he has pursued has arisen from want of judgment, from inadvertence, and possibly from want of knowledge, the Court is not prepared to do more than express its displeasure, and also the hope that no similar case on the part of an attorney may again come before it.

In Equity.—(Before the Chief Judge, Mr. Justice OWEN.)

MOTIONS.

Re the will of Owen Caraher, deceased, and Settled Estates Act. This was a petition for leave for the trustees to sell certain lands of the estate. The petition was allowed to stand over for the production of a proper affidavit verifying the petition.

Re the will of John Slater, deceased, and Settled Estates Act. This was a petition for leave to lease. All the parties were petitioners. The petition was allowed to stand over for further evidence as to the value of the land.

Re will of Samuel Clift, deceased. This was a petition for power to lease certain mineral lands of the estate to the Greta Coal Company, Limited. The petition set out that the lands had been worked for a number of years by the company, and the trustees asked for power to accept a surrender of the present lease and grant a new one. Affidavits were read in support of the petition. His Honor granted the petition, and the matter of the form of the lease was referred to the Master. Costs to come out of the estate.

Re the will of Michael Menary, deceased. This was an application for the payment out of a balance in court to the credit of the estate for the liquidation of debts due at the time of the testator's decease, and for debts contracted subsequently. The petition was allowed to stand over generally for the production of fuller accounts.

Re Mooney v. Gallagher. His Honor authorised the receiver to apply £1200 (ordered to be paid into court) in reduction of the partnership debt of £3000.

Re Blaxland v. Norton. This was a matter for further directions. In this suit the question of election had arisen. The parties had agreed to a compromise, and the terms were submitted to be embodied in the decree. His Honor endorsed the minutes of the agreement.

Re Tyson v. Parker, motion for a decree. This was an application for a final decree of foreclosure in this suit. On May 16 last a decree was made for the payment in of £96,129 9s 10d by November 17 last. This was not complied with. His Honor made the decree absolute.

Re Munro v. Goodsell and others. This was a motion for the payment out to Louisa Catherine Munro of £85, for the support of the infants of the testator of the estate. His Honor ordered the payment out of the amount.

Re Dowe and another v. Underwood and others. Petition for payment out. This petition was allowed to stand over till Wednesday.

Re the Commissioners of Railways and the claim of J. Brodie. The petition set out that a piece of land, of which J. Brodie was the life tenant, had been resumed for railway purposes, and £182 0s 3d had been awarded as compensation. That amount was paid into the Equity Court, and the petitioner now asked that the interest on £182 0s 3d should paid to him. The petition was allowed to stand over for a fuller affidavit.

In Divorce.—(Before his Honor Mr. Justice WINDEYER.)

NAPIER V. NAPIER (PART HEARD).

Mr. Noble, instructed by Mr. Parkinson, appeared for the petitioner, Caroline Napier, in the suit for divorce from her husband, and applied for a special order that the decree nisi granted on the 25th February last should be made absolute on the 20th March, and also that an interim order should be granted for the custody of the two children. Petitioner's affidavit stated that respondent was now undergoing five years' penal servitude at St. Helena, Queensland, for bigamy.

His HONOR thought the application a reasonable one, as there was no ground for supposing that respondent would put in any appearance.

Order as asked.

In Bankruptcy.—(Before the Registrar, Mr. ARTHUR HENRY.)

Jasper Fittock, Clarencetown, sawyer. Mr. Morris, official assignee.

Thomas Penfold, Hamilton Junction, near Newcastle, out of business. Mr. Stephen, official assignee.

David Henderson Armour, No. 111 Glebe Point-road, Glebe, brewer of hop beer. Mr. A. Morris, official assignee.

CREDITOR'S PETITION.

Henry Joseph Spinks v. George Martin, of M'Donald Creek, near Blackville. Date of hearing, March 19.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT COURT.

FRIDAY.

(Before his Honor Mr. Acting District Court Judge GIBSON.)

BOROUGH OF ENFIELD V. WILLIAMS.

His HONOR gave judgment in this case as follows :—It is admitted in this case that the property in question, situated at Enfield, consists of a house and about 30 acres of land ; that the land has been cleared and was bought as a whole by the defendant, and has since been leased as a whole with the house by the defendant to different people, amongst others to Mr. F. D. Hay, the present occupier. The whole of the land has been fenced round with a substantial post and rail fence, and about an acre and a half of the land surrounding the house is fenced in with an ornamental paling fence, such as is generally used for fencing gardens. Up to last year the plaintiff council assessed the whole property at nine-tenths of the fair average annual rental, but last year the valuers rated the house and the 1½ acre of land surrounding it at nine-tenths of the annual value, and took the capital value of the remainder of the land and rated it at 5 per cent. on £5000. The plaintiff borough is now suing to recover these rates. The following entries appear in the rate book of the plaintiff council :—"No. 36, occupier F. D. Hay, house and land, annual value £100, assessed value £90, general rate £4 1s ; No. 37, owner Creagh and Williams, no occupier or lessee, description of property land, capital value £5000, assessed value £250, general rate £12 10s." A lease, dated June 15, 1885, was put in, in which the whole of the land and house was leased by the owners to the present occupier. Mr. West, for the plaintiff borough, contends that the right of appeal to justices in petty sessions, under 175 of the Municipalities Act, precludes the defendant from objecting now to the manner in which assessment has been made. In view of the very unsatisfactory report of the Municipality of Hamilton v. Australian Agricultural Company (2 S.C., R.N.S., 167), and in the hope that this point may be decided on appeal to the Supreme Court, I now hold that the defendant is not excluded by the provisions of section 175 from objecting to the mode in which the assessment is made, as that section gives a remedy to any person who "shall think himself aggrieved by the value at which his property has been assessed," whereas the defendant in this case does not object to the value at which the property has been assessed, but rather to the principle upon which the valuers acted in dividing the property for the purpose of assessment. Supposing that I am right in the construction I have placed on the 175th section of the Act, I have now to say whether the plaintiff borough is right in severing the property by cutting off the house with a small portion of the land and rating that as one property by one principle of assessment, and rating the balance as a second property by another principle. This very question has been decided under section 103 of the Sydney Corporation Act Amendment of 1879 (43 Vic., 3), which may be called the corresponding section of section 164 of the Municipalities Act. Under that section, although the wording is not the same as section 164 of the Municipalities Act, I take it that the principle that is to guide valuers in rating property is exactly the same as that which must be followed by valuers making assessments under the provisions of the 164th section of the Municipalities Act. I am of opinion that the 28½ acres of land which has been cleared, and which surrounds the house, and has been leased with the house to the present occupier, is "cultivated land" within the meaning of the section of the Municipalities Act ; at all events, is not "unimproved land" within the meaning of the same section. That being so, I quote from the judgment by Faucett, J., in the Municipal Council of Sydney v. Macleay, N.S.W. L.R., p. 291 :—"It appears that Elizabeth Bay House, the property of Sir George Macleay, is surrounded by extensive grounds. The valuers in making their assessment in an arbitrary manner considered that four acres were to be taken as garden and grounds occupied in connection with the house, and that the residue, about nine acres, shall be considered as unoccupied land, and liable to be assessed accordingly. The District Court Judge was right in holding that such an arbitrary mode of assessment could not be sustained. . . . . The house and land in the present case should have been assessed as a whole, and by that rule that land so occupied with the house should not have been separately assessed." I therefore, following the principle laid down by Mr. Justice Faucett and the other Judges in the above case, and applying that principle to the mode of assessment provided for in section 164 of the Municipalities Act, hold that the plaintiff borough had no power to separately rate the different portions of this property, which has always been occupied as a whole, and direct a verdict to be entered for the defendant.

BESTON V. WOODS AND ANOTHER.

This was an action brought by James Beston, of Lane Cove, against Messrs. Woods and Sparks, hansom cab, buggy, and coach builders, of Ultimo, to recover £55, the amount alleged to have been paid by plaintiff to defendant on account of the purchase of a cab which defendants did not deliver. The defendants paid into court the sum of £20 for debt and £1 9s 2d for costs, and considered that this was sufficient to satisfy the claim of the plaintiff. As to the balance of plaintiff's claim, defendants pleaded never indebted as alleged. The defendants also pleaded a set off, by way of cross action, for money for work done. Verdict for defendants.

CRAWFORD V. CAULFIELD.

In this case John Crawford, Hugh Crawford, and James Mills, carrying on business as Crawford and Co., at Riley-street, produce merchants, sued defendant for £11 18s 8d, due for goods sold and delivered. Verdict was given for amount claimed.

METROPOLITAN QUARTER SESSIONS.

FRIDAY.

(Before his Honor Mr. Justice BACKHOUSE.)

Mr. W. L. Merewether prosecuted for the Crown.

PLEADED GUILTY.

Florrie Carpenter, a domestic, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging her with having, on February 6, at Redfern, stolen a watch and chain, trinket, and other articles from the dwelling-house of John Blanchfield, in whose employ she was at the time. His Honor remanded prisoner for sentence till Monday.

John Moore pleaded guilty to having, on January 13 of the present year, obstructed Constable John Roy whilst that officer was in the execution of his duty. His Honor inflicted a fine of £2, and ordered prisoner to be confined till the rising of the Court.

STEALING FROM THE PERSON.

William Jones was placed in the dock upon an indictment charging him with stealing from the person of Hugh Alfred Cox one watch and chain, sovereign case, and other articles, on February 20 of the present year. Accused pleaded not guilty, and was undefended.

The case for the Crown was that accused was seen by a witness named Mumford and a police constable in company with a man named Johnson, who is now awaiting sentence on the same charge as that preferred against accused, and that the latter had acted in concert with Johnson to steal the property from Cox, who was lying asleep in Hyde Park, near Market-street, on the afternoon of the date named in the indictment.

Accused denied his guilt, and made a statement to the jury that he had never seen Johnson before being arrested.

The jury found the prisoner guilty, with a recommendation to mercy.

His HONOR : Upon what grounds do you make the recommendation ?

The foreman : Well, your Honor, two of the jurymen are in favour of it.

His HONOR : I must say that my sympathy is with the ten in this matter. If juries are to be governed by evidence, it seems to me your verdict could be only one way. Of course, juries do sometimes make mistakes, and they are not to blame if they find afterwards that they are wrong, so long as they decide honestly. Unless a recommendation to mercy is on some ground I can give no attention to it.

Prisoner was remanded for sentence.

ALLEGED MALICIOUS WOUNDING.

Jacob Goodwin was arraigned on an indictment charging him with having on February 21, 1891, at Sydney, maliciously wounded one James Thomas Small. A second count charged him with common assault. Accused pleaded not guilty, and was undefended.

The evidence for the Crown was to the effect that James Thomas Small visited the house where his wife resided, together with accused, at No. 6 Railway-place, on the evening of the date mentioned in the indictment. He had some words with accused, when the latter stabbed him in the left side of the chest with a knife. Witness's wife deposed to seeing accused with a knife in his hand whilst her husband and he were struggling together upon a bed upstairs.

Dr. Davies deposed that the wound might easily have been caused in a struggle without any deliberate attempt being made to stab prosecutor.

The jury found accused not guilty and he was accordingly discharged, his Honor remarking that he entirely concurred with the verdict.

CHARGE OF STEALING.

William Bullow was placed in the dock upon an indictment charging him with having on April 11, 1890, stolen a rug, the property of Ernest Lyons.

Accused, who was undefended, pleaded not guilty.

Ernest Lyons, bank clerk, residing at Ashfield, deposed to leaving the rug in a stable at the rear of the Bank Hotel, Newtown, on April 11 of last year ; on the evening of the same day he found it had been stolen.

Mr. Hill, pawnbroker, identified accused as the person who had pledged the rug at his establishment.

The accused made a statement to the jury, who, after a short retirement, found him guilty.

His HONOR imposed a sentence of three months' imprisonment, with hard labour, in Darlinghurst Gaol.

CASES FOR MONDAY.

The following cases will be heard on Monday :—Martha Stephens, stealing in a dwelling, and Patrick James Egan, false pretences.

ALLEGED BANK FRAUDS.

ACCUSED COMMITTED.

Yesterday afternoon at the Water Police Court, before Captain A. M. Fisher, S.M., John M'Clintock, late ledger-keeper in the National Bank of Australasia, who was arrested, as will be remembered, on the 28th ultimo by Detectives Hoskisson and Cocking, was brought up on remand charged with forging a certain cheque on December 30 last purporting to be drawn by one George M. Slate on the National Bank of Australasia, for the sum of £30, payable to the said George M. Slate, and with intent to defraud. Accused, a most respectable-looking young man, was undefended, and Mr. Minter, of the firm Want, Johnson, and Co., conducted the case for the prosecution.

Mr. Turnbull, manager at Sydney of the National Bank of Australasia, deposed that accused, until recently, was employed by that bank as clerk ; witness had discovered other forgeries, he said, quite irrespective of that with which accused was now charged ; in all they amounted to the sum of £476 1s ; on being questioned, the accused admitted having forged Mr. Slate's signature, as also those of several other clients of the bank.

George Martin Slate, dentist, of Macquarie-street, was brought to prove that the signature to the cheque was not his, and that accused had no authority to sign for him ; the signature was a fair imitation of his own.

Robert Thomas White, clerk in the Government Savings Bank, stated that the cheque in question was paid into the Savings Bank by some person or other—he could not swear that it was accused—to the account of John L. M'Clintock ; it was sent to the Bank of New South Wales in the usual way for collection, paid by that bank, and the money subsequently drawn out by the depositor in two separate amounts ; he produced the depositor's declaration signed, "John L. M'Clintock."

Thomas Alfred Edmonds stated that the signature to the declaration was in accused's handwriting ; the cheque was also initialled by the accused prior to its being paid on presentation by the Bank of New South Wales.

On being interrogated, accused stated that he had nothing to say in answer to the charge, except that he pleaded guilty. He was consequently committed for trial to the next Quarter Sessions, to be held on the 2nd proximo.

Mr. Minter, for the prosecution, stated that a similar charge had been brought against the accused for forging another cheque in the same amount on February 6, but that he would not proceed further with it. Accused was therefore discharged on that count.

INQUESTS.

The City Coroner held an inquest yesterday on the body of the woman, Marie Choinier, who died the previous day under strange circumstances. Deceased was 45 years of age and lived with a man named August Souchers, Restaurant Français, 53 Pitt-street. On Wednesday night the two had a quarrel, but Souchers declared that he did not strike the woman, who at the time was very drunk. He went to sleep in the dining-room. Next morning as he was going out into the yard to see a man named Girandan he saw Choinier lying on the doorstep of her room in an unconscious condition ; she was carried into the room, and Dr. Laurie, who was sent for, attended her up to the time of her death, which took place about 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Dr. Eichler, who made a post-mortem examination of the body, found that both eyes were blackened, and there was ecchymosis of the left side of the neck. Extravasated blood was found between the brain and the skull, and the pressure of this blood on the brain had caused death. The conditions of all the organs of the body showed that she was of very intemperate habits. The clot of blood which caused death was the result either of a blow or a fall. From her intemperate habits the woman would be liable to get a blood clot on the brain from a slight blow or fall. An open verdict was recorded.

A FINE STOMACHIC.—Rose's Linetta Ginger Cordial.—[ADVT.]

Tyler, C. Young.

POLICE.

Mr. G. O'Malley Clarke, S.M., presided at the CENTRAL POLICE COURT yesterday. Henry Marshall, 43, a labourer, having stolen a waterproof coat, a strap, and an umbrella, valued at £1, the property of Daniel M'Coy, was sentenced to be imprisoned for six months, with hard labour. Maitland C. Morton was remanded to Melbourne on a charge of having stolen from the person of Louisa Morton a cheque on the Commercial Bank of Australia.

Captain A. M. Fisher, S.M., presided in the Charge Division of the WATER POLICE COURT. Frederick Morgan, 56, described as a seaman, was brought up in answer to two charges—being drunk and disorderly and using indecent language on Circular Quay—for which he was ordered to pay 20s, or seven days, on the first, and 40s, or seven days, on the second, sentences to be cumulative. Edward Smithers, 40, of no occupation, was ordered to pay 40s, with the alternative of seven days, for being drunk and creating a disturbance in Young-street. Albert Ed. Ball, seaman on board the s.s. Teko, was charged with disorderly conduct on that vessel and fined 40s, with the alternative of two days' gaol. The head and front of his offending consisted in calling the chief engineer "a liar," and behaving generally in an unbecoming manner. Mr. J. N. Brookes, police magistrate at Maitland, who has been appointed in the place of Mr. R. Lee, S.M., who recently was granted one month's leave of absence, sat in the Summons Division. In all 58 cases, principally offences against the Transit Commission bylaws, were dealt with, and fines varying between 2s 6d and £2 were imposed.

BETTING HOUSES SUPPRESSION ACT.

In the Summons Division of the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. W. Johnson, S.M., Inspector Alfred Potter proceeded against Phineas Thompson, of 93 King-street, for having accepted money on certain contingencies relating to the Moorefield Handicap. The case for the prosecution was that the police in plain clothes gave certain money to defendant in reference to a horse named Yowie. Defendant entered the box and stated that he had never accepted money before a race was run, and that Constable Duke came into his shop on the 21st February, placed 5s on the counter, wrote a ticket himself, and went out immediately. Defendant endeavoured to overtake him to return the money, but was unable to find him. Accused was fined £100 and costs. Notice of appeal was lodged, and bonds were fixed.

William Edwards, of 103 King-street, pleaded guilty to a similar charge, and was fined £30.

CARELESS DRIVING.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, James Blake of Waterloo, was charged with having driven a horse carelessly in Pitt-street, whereby the safety of Bridget Mitchell was endangered. The prosecutrix, who is 78 years of age, residing at Renwick-street, Leichhardt, deposed that on the 6th of last month, as she was in the act of getting into a Leichhardt tram at Christ Church, the horse and cart driven by the accused knocked her between the tram and the dray, and the wheel passed over her wrist, which necessitated her removal to the hospital, and the amputation of the hand. Accused was fined £10.

THE PROPOSED NEW COLLEGES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I observed in the report of the proceedings of the Public Works Committee that the Government have a proposal submitted to that body to erect two colleges for the purpose of giving pupil teachers a University education, to qualify them for positions as teachers in the superior State schools. It occurs to me that there is plenty of material amongst the graduates of the University, of whose educational qualifications there can be no doubt, to fill the positions of superior teachers ; but the question is whether they are possessed of teaching capacities. We, therefore, are left with a sort of conundrum to solve, which may be briefly put thus : Whether is it better to accept a recognised standard of educational ability in the first instance and to test capacity for teaching afterwards, or to test capacity for teaching in a primary way first and educate afterwards ? Much can be said, perhaps, on both sides, but it seems to me that, on the score of economy, the first has the better of it. According to the Government Architect, the present scheme will cost £47,500. Is the expenditure warranted ?

I am, &c., THOS. MOSER.

A Findlay (Ohio) correspondent confirms the report that the gasfields in that region are rapidly failing. As the investments in lands, leases, and wells since the discovery of natural gas were very heavy in that section of the country, the fact is regarded as serious. In Pennsylvania and Indiana the same indications are noticed, despite the search for new territory. Although Findlay will have gas for years to come, it is feared that the big gushers are now things of the past. The tendency of wells to change to oil suggests the probability that crude petroleum will eventually be manufactured into gas as a substitute. It is being introduced in iron manufacture with satisfactory results.—Iron.

WESLEYAN CONFERENCE.

MORNING SESSION—4TH DAY, MARCH 6.

The PRESIDENT took the chair at 10 a.m.

The customary devotional proceedings were observed.

The daily record of preceding sessions was read and after verbal alterations was signed as correct.

NOTICES OF MOTIONS.

The Rev. W. CLARKE gave notice of a motion to the effect that a small sub-committee be appointed to consider and report upon the drafted abridgement of the Liverpool Minutes, as suggested by a pamphlet printed for circulation by the sub-committee of the General Conference.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Secretary announced the receipt of the following cablegram from New Zealand : "President Dunsbury and Conference reciprocate fraternal greetings."

The Secretary also announced the receipt of the following letter from the clerk of the Presbyterian Assembly, Rev. J. S. Laing :—

"Reverend and dear Brother,—I am instructed by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of New South Wales to cordially acknowledge the fraternal communication from your conference, which was received by the assembly with heartfelt interest and sincere pleasure.

"The assembly cordially reciprocate the fraternal greetings of the conference, and assure you of your prayers that the blessing of the Great Head of the Church may rest upon the Wesleyan Church and the deliberations of its conference."

TRANSFER OF MINISTERS.

The sub-committee appointed to report upon the practicability of finding some suitable name to submit to the South Australian Conference instead of that of the Rev. Jos. Beale presented an interim report. The Rev. J. A. Jeffreys, of Stanmore, had signified his willingness to accept the position.

It was resolved,—"That a telegram be forwarded to the South Australian Conference conveying the foregoing information, and that a letter also be written explaining more fully the reasons for the suggested substitution of names in the exchange."

The Rev. STEPHEN WRIGHT, of Queanbeyan, having made application to rest for one year, with a view to visiting England, a long discussion ensued eventuating in a motion by the Rev. R. A. Corner, seconded by the Rev. G. Lane, "That permission be granted."

In connection with the above, Rev. G. Lane gave notice that he would move, at the proper time, "That on the personal subscription of six guineas to the supernumerary fund being paid by Rev. S. Wright, the Sustentation and Extension Society pay the remaining nine guineas required by law into this fund."

EXAMINING COMMITTEE.

The secretary of the examining committee (Rev. E. J. Rodd) presented a number of recommendations relating to the examination of probationers made by that committee which were passed as follows :—"That for the future no extensions of time be granted except in cases of illness." "That four examination papers be taken on the day before the district meeting and the answers written on that day, the remaining paper to be taken on the day following." "That a number, instead of the name of the examinee, be affixed to each paper." "That in every case the examination shall be held under the continuous supervision of one or more persons specially appointed for the purpose." "That the number of subjects taken be limited to five."

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The President took the chair at 2 o'clock.

After devotion, matters relating to the Examining Committee were resumed.

It was resolved, "That in order to obtain 'honours,' a probationer must pass in the whole of the subjects taken, and must gain an average of 75 per cent."

A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the Rev. E. J. Rodd for his painstaking and efficient services as secretary of the Examining Committee.

Mr. RODD having thanked the Conference for the vote, moved "That in future the following questions be inserted in the business paper, viz. : What are the resolutions of the Conference respecting our probationers ? What are the resolutions of the Conference respecting our theological students ? What are the resolutions of the Conference respecting candidates for the ministry ?" Carried.

Thanks were accorded to the Revs. Dr. Kelynack, J. Oram, G. Martin, and E. J. Rodd, who had discharged the duties of the tutorial staff in the interim since the death of the late Rev. Principal Fletcher.

Thanks were also accorded to Dr. W. W. J. O'Reilly, and Dr. A. Murray Oram, for their very valuable services as medical examiners.

The second reading of stations was fixed for Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

NATIVE MINISTERS.

Matisoni Tatafu (of Samoa), Watson Rokosana, John Koroituku, and Faulus Nono (of Fiji) were received for ordination.

The following remain on trial :—Milisaui Mikilili, of Samoa ; Peter Velia, Joshua Raisele, Aaron Ravusoko, William Balimasava, Paulus Bunoa, Caleb Naba, Boas Delai, Shrarach Rusa, Nahshon Tiusinu, Judah Boginise, Daniel Lolu, Peter Tuidela, Abijah Tuilomani, Benjamin Bavia, Tychicus Koroiwawriri, Joshua Nasokia, Aquila Navudi, Melchisedec Nayacaban, Richard Rato, Andrew Yalevala, all of Fiji.

Two native candidates were accepted for the ministry in Fiji, viz. :—Zadok Deamibaka, Esau Musugio.

SUPERNUMERARY MINISTERS.

In reply to the question "What Ministers shall be made supernumerary ?" in addition to the Rev. Joseph Spence, whose application had been granted previously, the Rev. William Hill applied to be made a supernumerary. The Revs. Dr. Kelynack, W. Clarke, R. Caldwell, and others, bore testimony to the character and faithfulness of Mr. Hill's work, and the reluctance with which they should vote acceding to his request. The request was complied with by a unanimous vote.

Rev. C. E. Butler, who was reported to be still under medical care in England, was continued as a supernumerary for another year. Arminius Vakaloiogo, of Fiji, was made supernumerary. It was also resolved that the Revs. J. F. Orr, of New South Wales, and Joel Vakaloiogo and Stephen Numerus, of Fiji, return to circuit work. The subject of the return to full work of the Rev. J. E. Moulton was deferred for further consideration.

MINISTERIAL CHARACTER.

On this question the reports of the several district meetings on the individual character and fitness of the ministers within their limits were received as satisfactory.

RESIGNATIONS.

Messrs. Ernest Ensor and Howard Grainger, probationers for the ministry, having resigned their respective charges, ceased to be recognised as probationers of the Church.

Rev. F. Warner, of Hay, having sent in his resignation to the President, also ceased to be recognised as a minister of the Wesleyan Church.

The Conference adjourned at 5.40 p.m. until Saturday morning, at 10 o'clock, when the question, "What ministers have died ?" will be taken, and the obituaries read.

ORDINATION SERVICE.

In the evening an ordination service was held in the Centenary Hall, when the Revs. A. Halliday, W. Gould Taylor, W. G. Willard, W. Brown, W. H. Lewis, and C. E. Williams were solemnly ordained to the work of the Christian ministry. The usual questions were put by the President of the Conference, who was assisted in the laying on of hands by a number of senior ministers. The candidates were presented by the Rev. C. Stead, secretary of the Conference, and the charge was delivered by the Rev. W. Clarke, ex-president.

FUGITIVE NOTES.

The Maorilanders address Sir George Grey in the vestibule of the Town Hall this afternoon, and in doing so they afford the citizens of Sydney an opportunity of seeing and hearing the great ex-pro-consul and testifying their respect for a remarkable and representative citizen of Australasia. The public life of these colonies has produced some noteworthy men since the day the Lysander brought out the tidings of a new Constitution in the early fifties, but if a list were drawn up, and the personal characteristics of each weighed, it would be found that the personality, at least, of Sir George Grey would easily overshadow all the rest. Stirring times in our history have brought forth suitable men, like Wentworth, Wardell, and Bland; the Legislative Council Committee of 1851; the "Constitution Committee" of 1853, which knocked the hereditary peerage proposals on the head and of which one Mr. Henry Parkes was a prominent member; the "Patriotic Six," in Tasmania; and others whose names are part of the history of Australasia. Sir George Grey, in New Zealand, won a reputation like unto these, but he was also something more. For about 20 years he held her Majesty's Commission as Governor of South Australia, New Zealand, Cape Colony, and New Zealand again, and it was not until he served so long in that high office that he took up his share of the work of constitutional self-government, becoming a colonist with his neighbours, and throwing in his lot with the people whose interests he has so long and so consistently served. His popular sympathies, his personal charm, his interesting record, his culture, and his experiences make him one of the most remarkable men of the day, either in the colonies or out of them; and his last and not least qualification is found in the fact that, like all characterful men, he has his enemies. It is not every day that Sydney citizens have an opportunity like that of this afternoon to do honour to one of the makers of Australasia—a man whose life's record is the story of colonial development.

The Adelaide authorities seem to have dexterously landed themselves in a pretty fix over that tuberculosis business. The telegram of yesterday puts the matter in an aspect that is not without its element of humour. Everybody remembers how, when the news of Dr. Koch's famous discovery became public, and in response to a unanimous desire on the part of the Australian colonists to know more about such an important subject, Professor Anderson Stuart, of the Sydney University, proceeded to Berlin with a commission to represent New South Wales and South Australia in the inquiry. In September, Professor Watson also left Adelaide on the same errand. Now that both Professor Anderson Stuart and Professor Watson have completed their observations, the former has offered to set forth the results of his investigations in a report in Adelaide on his return; but the Adelaide authorities declined to hear what he had to say, alleging that they were awaiting the report of their own representative. Professor Watson has now arrived, and, hearing of what had taken place, he in his turn flatly declines to either lecture or report until Professor Anderson Stuart turns up. Such is the quandary the Adelaide folk have got themselves into. It was Professor Watson who suggested the colony's obtaining Professor Anderson Stuart's assistance in the first instance, and now he avers that his Government "has openly insulted a man who has prepared a report on his observations such as no other man south of the equator was capable of producing." The Government has clearly made a bungle of the business, and it will be but a poor consolation to its members to turn on Professor Watson with the Falstaffian query, "Call this a backing of your friends?" They probably found themselves between the horns of a dilemma. Had they acknowledged Anderson Stuart they felt, perhaps, that they must have snubbed Watson. It is the other horn which has impaled them.

There are signs of movement in the electorates, and the political barometer is rising. This is the season when the wily underground engineers, the sappers and miners of political intrigue, prepare their schemes and excogitate their little plots for the up-ending of their opponents. It is an edifying and elevating subject of study to note the ways and methods by which the past masters of this highly-cultivated craft attempt and attain their ends. That little affair at Paddington the other night was as pretty a ruse of its kind as we have seen for some time. Messrs. Want, Allen, and Shepherd are among the members who hail from that quarter of the city. These gentlemen were invited to attend the meeting on Wednesday night in favour of an Eastern Suburbs Railway, and as Mr. Want is a somewhat ready debater he was very artfully induced to take the chair. Then the gentlemen interested in calling the gathering together proceeded to quote some figures and state some facts in connection with the subject they were called upon to consider, and thence by an easy and natural process of transition glided off into an attack on the sitting members. Those who followed took up the running, and proved to their own satisfaction that the phenomenal progress and development of the eastern suburbs, their increase of population, and their present prosperity were due to the supineness and inaction of the aforesaid sitting members. By an equally easy and natural process of induction, of course, it might have been made clear that freetrade and its followers were responsible for the delay in the construction of the required railway, but at this juncture the sitting members succeeded in getting a word or two in edgewise, and Mr. Alfred Allen—whose talents are by no means confined to the writing of poetry—in a few vigorous sentences gave the conveners' little game dead away, as it were. Then Mr. Want concluded the performance with some well-chosen remarks, the leading feature of which was a kind of melancholy regret that his position as chairman had closed his mouth so long while this pretty electioneering dodge was developing under his eyes.

Some of the figures quoted at that Paddington meeting bear a remarkable testimony to the rapidity with which the city is extending. It is not so very long since the eastern suburbs—Woollahra, Waverley, and Randwick at least—were still passing through what Mr. Allen felicitously called the "geebung" stage. Houses were scattered and roads were few, and low scrub and sandy wastes spread on every hand. To-day the bush has disappeared, or retreated to the slopes leading down to the Pacific. Looked at from the harbour it will be seen that the advancing army of brick and mortar is vigorously pushing itself out, so that a person who might have left Sydney ten or even five years ago would scarcely recognise the scene on the face of the transformation that has taken place. In the four years between 1885 and 1890, for example, the population of Waverley has nearly doubled itself, increasing from 4120 persons to 7840. Woollahra had increased from 5940 to 9000 in the same time, Randwick from 2430 to 5000, and Paddington from 12,921 to 15,291. At this rate the eastern suburbs will soon have made out as good a case for a railway as the western, and quite as sound a one as many of the districts tapped by the suburban railway around Melbourne.

The name of the Rev. J. Milne Curran, F.G.S., is pretty well known to mining men in Australia, and in this colony and Queensland more particularly. He is the inheritor of the mantle of that accomplished man of science and charming descriptive writer, the Rev. Julian E. Tenison-Woods. There was therefore a crowded audience at the Girls' High School in Elizabeth-street the other night to hear him discourse on "Ancient Australia" from a geologist's point of view. The lecture was under the auspices of the Technical Education branch of the Public Instruction Department, but it is easy enough to understand that with a wider platform and a larger and more public hall, such an interesting subject in such able hands would command even larger, though perhaps not more appreciative, audiences. Mr. Milne Curran has added one more to the popular list of champions Australia has furnished to the world. We have given it wrestlers, pugilists, cricketers, scullers, and other products, and now this lecturer comes forward to remind us that in our very own Diprotodon we have something that knows no peer, and reigns a very king among the fossil wonders of the past.

Dr. M'Cormick, who recently died at Wimbledon, was in Parry's Arctic expedition in 1827, in Ross's Antarctic expedition in 1839-43, and in one of the Franklin search expeditions. During these voyages he made a large collection of mammals, birds, birds' eggs, shells, fossils, minerals, and anthropological curiosities. This collection his executor and trustee, Mr. J. Allen Brown, has placed unreservedly at the disposal of the South Kensington authorities. Experts from the departments of zoology, botany, and geology are now examining the collection, and everything of value, and not already in the Museum, will be selected by them.

MUSICAL NOTES.

About promising Australians endowed with musical talent who have gone to England or other European countries for further study and development, we not infrequently hear encouraging reports. Thus, a cablegram dated from London a few days ago, has told us of Mr. Cunningham, from Melbourne, securing a satisfactory engagement as tenor with the Carl Rosa Opera Company. One from Sydney (from Hunter's Hill, Lane Cove River, to be more precise) is also doing wonderfully well at Leipzig. His speciality is the organ and although the Germans have never been such supreme masters of "the king of instruments" as have the English, yet the young Mr. Ernest Truman referred to seems to be not only doing well in this particular line, but also progressing apace in the matter of composition. At the Leipzig Conservatorium, where he has been for about 2½ years, he is studying the pianoforte under Dr. Zwentschen, composition under Dr. Jadassohn, and the organ under the chief professor of that instrument, in whose opinion his pupil is already the leading organ-player of the Conservatorium. Considering that Ernest Truman is only about 21 years of age, the position thus said to have been achieved by him speaks well for Australia.

Of those who have hitherto gone away for study, it has often had to be remarked that they too commonly seem to ignore the more serious part of the artist's training, and too early appear to deem themselves equipped with all the needful essentials for an artist's "career." Thus far no such charge can be laid against Mr. Ernest Truman. According to report his work has been of a most sterling character, and this report is certainly borne out by two compositions now before us. These are a "Fantasia" and "Fugue," for organ, published in the last two numbers of the Organist's Quarterly Journal. Their acceptance by the editor—the well-known Dr. Spark, of Leeds—was accompanied with a flattering eulogium by himself. They are earnest in tone, and genuinely scholarly in style. The fantasia is in no sense of the "impromptu" sort, nor is the title a cloak to cover any anticipated charge of lack of definite "form" in the structure. On the contrary, it is well-wrought in every measure, and bears evidence of having been written by one well versed in contrapuntal technicalities and devices. The figure is perhaps a little stilted and stiff in manner, and the choice of a theme of the rather awkward rhythm of only three measures seems to add to the above characteristics, but it is closely worked out and some ingenuity is shown in its development. The earnestness of purpose thus manifested by Ernest Truman should augur well for his ultimate success: indeed if he goes on as he has begun, he ought to rise to an enviable position in the future.

Another Australian will shortly be leaving Sydney for Europe; not this time a tyro, who goes away only to mature his powers, but one who has long held a very prominent place in our musical world. Miss Frances Saville proposes to leave this part of the world in about three weeks, and after calling, en route, at Melbourne, to visit England and the Continent, probably for a lengthened period. Prior to her departure she will make a farewell appearance at the Centennial Hall on Saturday, the 21st instant, the occasion being a grand complimentary concert tendered to her by the musicians of Sydney. In a circular issued by Mr. Charles Huenerbein, who has charge of the arrangements, attention is called not only to the prominent part in matters musical that has been taken by Miss Saville during the six years she has been resident amongst us, but also to her invariable readiness to give her valuable assistance in charitable undertakings. In recognition of these and of Miss Saville's talents it is hoped by the promoters that the concert will receive the support of the musical public of Sydney; and this wish should be echoed by everybody, for this favourite vocalist is one who deserves that her "farewell" appearance should be the signal for a very warm demonstration in her favour, seeing how much pleasure she has so often afforded to us all in the past. The concert will, however, deserve support upon its own merits, for it is understood that an almost unprecedented number of prominent artists will be concerned in the performance. Not only so, but it is even said that the Philharmonic Society, in recognition of Miss Saville's talents and position, will take part, and although the rules of the Liedertafel societies would not permit them to appear officially on such occasions, yet it is probable that a large number of the vocal members will attend and sing appropriate glees and part songs in testimony of the esteem in which the beneficiary is held. The concert in question should therefore be one of the most notable of the season.

Another of our prominent vocalists also purposes shortly to visit England—namely, Mr. William Walshe, whose recent performance in the "Golden Legend" will probably be fresh in the memory of all. A preliminary meeting of his friends and supporters was convened for yesterday, and it is probable that he, too, will be well supported by his brethren of the profession, and that his farewell concert will also prove attractive to the public.

From the somewhat contemptuous tone in which colonial organs have been written about, and from the glib sort of references that have been made to the players of big organs that are to be only sought for in England and other of the old countries, a casual reader would naturally infer that English organs in general differ altogether from such as are found in the colonies, and that organs of great magnitude are there as plentiful as fogs and other English "institutions." Not only so, but it would also seem that the players thereon are a class by themselves, specially trained for the purpose almost as if they had been born of parents who were organists of this class, and from infancy had been accustomed to have a multiplicity of manual keyboards, and turned ivory stop-knobs as the common toys of their youth, playing with such things as other children play with "bricks" and "soldiers." But all this wears a vastly different aspect when viewed through the medium of hard facts.

A recently published list of the principal organs in Great Britain is available for reference, and this is what it tells. Only eight of the halls of public amusement are credited with the possession of organs of more than three manuals, and these average no more than 77 stops. Of cathedral, church, and university organs there seem to be no more than 15 of special magnitude, and these average only so small a number as 57 stops each. The average of the 23 large organs of Great Britain is thus only 65 stops. The difference between the 65 stops named above and the 126 belonging to the Sydney organ is sufficiently large to be at least a trifle startling. It may be assumed that there are as many as 23 organists of these 23 large organs, but how many—or rather, how few—of them received special training upon large instruments before they learned to play them? Without troubling to go into details of this question, it should suffice to say that Mr. Best received his training at the hands of church organists, and had only small church organs whereon to practise, and that he held only the very unpretentious position of organist of the Liverpool Church for the Blind when he was selected as organist to the Philharmonic Society of the same city, and, shortly afterwards, as organist to the London "Panopticon," to which four-manual instrument he went straight from his more humble experiences.

It will interest many of our musical public to know that Mr. Best has resumed his recitals at St. George's Hall, Liverpool, where he has officiated for the last 36 years. There he gives three recitals per week, during 32 weeks of the year, as regularly as municipal and other arrangements permit. It was on the 2nd of October last that he left Sydney, but the Oroya, in which he sailed, was considerably delayed along the Australian coast, owing partly to bad weather and partly to inferior coal having to be employed consequent upon the great strike of maritime labour. During the greater part of the passage he suffered severely from his old complaint of bronchial-asthma, and the rigour of the recent winter in England has proved a source of more than inconvenience to him, so much so that he was almost laid up for some time after his arrival in the old country. In private letters that he has written to personal friends in Sydney he shows that he takes considerable interest in the appointment of city organist, which appointment he supposes "must, by now, be settled." His expectation, dated January 8, is not yet realised; but it is gratifying to know that he is still interested in the doings of our city, to which he came as a very temporary visitor. He was cordially welcomed upon his return to England, and to all inquirers he speaks in most cordial terms of Sydney and her people.

A correspondent in the Herald recently called attention to the inconvenience of the seating accommodation in the Centennial Hall. His objections were fully justified by the facts of the case. As regards the galleries, there is nothing to complain about. In respect of the floor of the hall there is much to which exception may rightly be taken. Not only are the chairs placed together (side by side) much more closely than is warranted save by an exceptional press of people, but also the distance between the rows of chairs is altogether too limited, being insufficient to allow fair "knee-room" to the occupants of the seats, and altogether too small to permit the holders of "inside" seats to pass by those who are nearer to the passage-ways. All such objections could be easily obviated by the simple device of widening the distance between the rows of seats, and by allowing a few inches of space between adjacent chairs. This alteration would still leave plenty of accommodation for ordinary audiences. A further suggestion may be made which, if adopted, would add still more to the comfort of our public. If a single chair was eliminated from every alternate row, the chairs could then be arranged obliquely in a zig-zag sort of fashion, by which means every seatholder would be enabled to look towards the platform between the shoulders of the two persons nearest in front of him, instead of having to crane his neck to look over heads and hats, and bonnets. In as many as 40 rows of chairs, no matter how many each row contained, only the paltry number of 20 seats would be sacrificed, yet by this very small concession every person of the audience might be comfortably accommodated, since the result would be that no one would sit directly behind or in front of anyone else. Some such expedient is especially necessary in this hall, where the platform is very low in proportion to the expanse of the auditorium. It is wonderful that this simple arrangement of seats has not before been suggested and acted upon.

PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Third Day.

The sittings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of New South Wales were continued in St. Stephen's Church on Thursday. The Rev. the Moderator presided.

DR. GRANT'S APPLICATION.

The report of the committee on Dr. Grant's application to be received as a beneficiary on the Aged and Infirm Ministers' Fund was received. It stated that there were circumstances of a private character which materially increased Dr. Grant's income, and recommended that the prayer of the petition should be granted.

Dr. Steel moved, and it was agreed to accept the recommendation and express cordial sympathy with Dr. Grant on the occasion and their high sense of his worth, of his consistent life, of his great brotherly kindness, and of the many services which he has rendered to the cause of Christ during a ministry of more than 50 years.

THE FUNDS OF THE SCHEMES OF THE CHURCH.

The following overture from Goulburn Presbytery anent the condition of the funds of the schemes of the Church was read:—"Whereas the funds of the various schemes of the Church are in a most unsatisfactory condition, notably the Sustentation Fund, in connection with which the sum available for distribution in aid of the weaker charges has been for years gradually growing smaller and painfully less, till it has reached a point that the relief which it affords to each charge receiving aid is almost imperceptible, and does no longer warrant the continuance of the present expensive and extensive system of working: And whereas the successful working of our schemes requires the periodic visitation of our congregations, at which the claims of the various schemes would be fully and clearly brought before the people, which is not done under present arrangements: And whereas this could be done at small expense by appointing the Moderator of the General Assembly for the term of his office to this special work; in this case the only additional expense would be the supply of his pulpit for the year: And whereas there is every probability that such a plan would be followed by the very best results—it is hereby humbly overtured to the venerable the General Assembly to notify the present officers that existing arrangements will terminate at the end of the present year, with the view of adopting the scheme herein suggested, or whatever other plan may appear best to the wisdom of the General Assembly for furthering the best interests of the Church at large and promoting the glory of God.

The Rev. A. M. Tait appeared in support of the overture, and by permission of the assembly read his address. He said that the condition of brethren in many weak congregations was abundant grounds for action. Men who seven or eight years ago were receiving stipends of £300 were now reduced to £250 and less. There was considerable difference of opinion both as regards the agent, and as regards the Sustentation Fund, the one party affirming that the agent and scheme were without any virtue whatever, while the other party thought that agent and scheme alike were very nearly perfect. The fact was that both parties were partly right and partly wrong. The general agent had formulated a good scheme, but he was utterly incapable of administering it. In that gentleman they had found first a dictator and then an accuser. (Order.)

Dr. Geekie rose to order, and the speaker thereupon withdrew the remark.

The Rev. A. M. Tait, continuing, said that aid given to the weaker congregations had steadily decreased. The primary object of the scheme had failed. The failure, he believed, was due to the administration. At certain times orders were issued as if from the Czar of Russia. (On a point of order, the Moderator ruled that if the phrase "Czar of Russia" was used in a personal manner it would be out of order.)

The Rev. A. M. Tait: To-day there are 10 times the number of weak congregations, and the stipends are smaller than they were some years ago. He then referred to a communication which appeared in the Presbyterian, in which the general agent commented on the overture from the Goulburn Presbytery. Of course, said Mr. Tait, the general agent was very clever. That gentleman showed that the Goulburn Presbytery gave towards the Sustentation Fund £20 less than nothing. Goulburn, however, was the only presbytery attacked. Was it the only sinner? Bathurst, for instance, contributed nothing towards the fund. Not one presbytery had paid up to the full amount of the minimum standard of aid-giving. Tried by Mr. Ross's own standard, the scheme was a failure, and the Church would have to adopt some means to prevent its total collapse. A great object of the scheme was to increase the stipends in aid-giving charges. The general agent had brought against the ministers of the aid-giving charges, the charge that they had increased their stipends by £10,000 per annum, while they had only given to the weaker brethren a paltry £600. If the charge were true the ministers were the meanest and most grasping men on earth, while if the charge were not true the general agent ought to sink into oblivion. If he (the speaker) had stated the case properly he had surely shown beyond all dispute that it was absolutely needful for the interest and honour of the Church that the overture should be unanimously carried.

The Rev. T. E. Clouston said that it would be remembered that the matter had been debated very fully at the last Assembly on an overture from the Hawkesbury Presbytery. He supported that overture very strongly. By the large majority of 65 to 13 the House took a view contrary to his view. As Presbyterians they should know when they were beaten, and for the peace of the Church the position of the general agent should not be challenged from year to year. As Moderator of last year he attended many committee meetings, and he must say that Mr. Ross was endeavouring to the best of his ability to fulfil the contract entered into between him and the assembly. He moved that "Whereas in former years the assembly had pronounced a decided opinion in debates that had arisen in connection with the office of agent-general, and whereas it is for the peace of the Church that the matter should not be discussed, the overture should be dismissed."

The Rev. W. M. Dill Macky seconded the motion simply for the sake of the Church's well being. He had always contended that the powers that had formerly been entrusted to the general agent, powers that had properly belonged to a pope or bishop, should not belong to him. Now that these powers had been taken away, the general agent was simply a presbyter like any other minister. All granted that the Sustentation Fund was a failure, but the implication that it was wholly the fault of the agent-general was incorrect.

Dr. Fraser drew attention to the way in which the finances of the committees of the Church were managed, particularly the Sustentation Fund. He warned the Assembly that if the finances were not properly dealt with, laymen would lose confidence in the way the work of the Church was carried on. Show the laity a fund that was in need, and give a guarantee that it would be properly looked after, and they would subscribe liberally. He moved as an amendment, "Whereas it is expedient that the Church should now reform and remodel the arrangements for the General Sustentation Fund and for the distribution of the interest accruing from the Capital Sustentation Fund, the General Assembly hereby resolves to appoint a committee to consider the whole question and report with recommendations to the next General Assembly; and whereas it is expedient that the field should be clear for any new arrangements which the Church might adopt, the General Assembly resolves to give the general agent the 12 months' notice required by the terms of his engagement."

The amendment having been seconded, Mr. Affleck spoke regarding the position of country churches with the Sustentation Fund, and was saying that he had no personal ill-feeling against Mr. Ross, as it was only within the past few days that he had heard of him, when Mr. Ross interjected: "You must live in a poisoned atmosphere."

Mr. Affleck called the attention of the House to the words used.

The Rev. J. Auld moved that the words be taken down. It was high time that such conduct on the part of the general agent should be put down. (Cheers.)

The Rev. J. M. Ross: I have been insulted many times, but I have never received protection from any member of the assembly.

The Moderator: Do you mean that as a reflection on the conduct of the chair? I always try to do my duty, and do it fearlessly and honestly.

Mr. Ross withdrew the expression, and having apologised the matter was allowed to drop.

By 53 to 34 it was resolved to take the vote on the amendment by ballot.

The amendment was lost by one vote, the returns being, for, 50; against, 51.

The original motion was agreed to be voted for by show of hands, and was carried by 51 to 35.

Overture accordingly dismissed.

At 2.30 p.m. the House adjourned till 7 o'clock the same day.

Evening Sederunt.

The Rev. T. E. Clouston brought forward the report of the committee on the claim of the Rev. Mr. Hutchison against North St. Leonards for £100 arrears of stipend. The report stated that the committee had heard Mr. Hutchison and Mr. Riddell, a member of North St. Leonards Church Session, and examined records of the session. At a meeting of the congregation Mr. Hutchison, assuming that it was and would remain thoroughly loyal to him, absolved them from their pecuniary obligations, but in view of the circumstances of the case and his pioneer labours in the charge, the committee considers it would be a generous act on the part of the North St. Leonards congregation to pay Mr. Hutchison the sum of £50 in liquidation of all claims. The committee further recommended that the paragraph imputing certain motives should be deleted from the Blue Book. The report was received and adopted.

THE FEDERATION CONVENTION.

Dr. Steel gave notice that he would move that the Assembly regard with deep interest the federation of the Australasian colonies, and earnestly pray that it may please Almighty God, the Governor of the Universe, to give the spirit of wisdom to the Convention now met for the purpose of preparing a constitution of federation.

THE SUSTENTATION FUND.

Mr. John Kirkland brought forward the report of the sustentation fund committee, and it was taken as read. It stated that in 1890 there was remitted to the fund £27,572 1s 2d, as against £26,969 8s 3d in 1889, or an increase of £602 12s 11d. The total amount in stipends in connection with the sustentation fund was for 1890 £31,095 17s 4d, as against £30,771 17s 4d for 1889, giving an increase of £324. The year has been one of very considerable unrest, or the increase would have been very much more marked. The number of vacancies has been unprecedented, and the effect of this in the past has been to throw a large proportion of the sustentation fund revenue during the vacancy into the Church extension refunds. Now that this peculiarity is ended, it is certain that the increase next year will be greater. Indeed, next year will restore the sustentation fund to its natural position, as all the money belonging to it will appear in its remittances. Its connection with the church extension fund, so far as vacant charges are concerned, will in this respect cease. The results of the organisation show that the Church as a whole comes far short of even the minimum standards adopted by the assembly. The numbers of adherents and members together are returned as 36,269, considerably less than the previous year. Of these, 30 per cent. of contributors is required by the standard—that is, 10,880—whereas only 7072 was the number realised, showing a deficiency of 3808. The fourpenny standard of contribution, on the basis of 36,269, would realise through the sustentation fund associations £31,433, but the sum obtained was £16,289; so that the amount deficient was £15,144. These facts point very effectively to the direction whence amendment is to be sought, and prove to a demonstration that success in this important scheme lies in attention to details; and further, that the real issues of the enterprise are in the hands of ministers, office-bearers, and collectors. The scheme requires to have the conditions of its success. It has, in the committee's opinion, not only justified its existence, but a very great deal more; it has shown that if it gets anything like fair treatment it will prove, as it has already proved, an immense boon to the Church, and at once an instrument of her rapid extension and continued stability. The circumstances of the Church have been such that it has hitherto been usual to place Church extension charges upon the sustentation fund on and after the first quarter day after the settlement of a minister. No other church having a sustentation fund follows this course. They guard with the greatest prudence the door of admission to that fund. The capital sustentation fund remains very much at the figure of last year. The Berry bequest of £30,000 has not yet been paid over, and will not be till towards the end of the present year. The committee has so frequently dwelt upon the importance of giving effect to the General Assembly's standard of minimum aidgiving, that it ought to be unnecessary to again refer to it. It has, however, been so systematically set aside by the self-interest of congregations, and by many ignored, that special attention to it here seems, in the committee's judgment, necessary. The committee desires that it be again noted:—1. That the primary object of the introduction of the sustentation fund was to raise, under satisfactory safeguards, all stipends to a minimum of £200 per annum; this was avowedly its first and foremost aim—"first in point of order." 2. Its secondary object was to enable aidgiving charges to better the position of their own ministers. This came "second in point of order," but for obvious reasons "not second in point of importance." Success in this second aim would, as human beings are constituted, very much determine the heartiness or otherwise with which ministers and office-bearers would help to secure and rejoice in the success of the first. Further, as the attainment of the first has the primary claim upon the proceeds of sustentation fund associations, it is, so far as the individual aid-giving congregation is concerned, already attained the moment its association has raised its proportion of the amount required of it. That congregation is then honourably at liberty to proceed with the balance to better its own minister's position, but not till then. There is nothing in this, surely, that any aid-giving charge should object to. This provision of the fund gives results immensely to its advantage. Again, as the proceeds of any given sustentation fund association is the one source of revenue, out of which both the first and second objects were to be attained, it was clearly needful that a minimum standard of aid-giving should be introduced to hold the balance between the two interests, viz., that of the aid-receiving and that of the aid-giving charges. Most manifestly no one aid-giving charge could be expected to provide all the aid required for the whole Church. Nor could it be expected, if it has done its own part well, to wait for its congregational benefit until every such charge had done its part. It was entitled to have a standard or regulation introduced that it might know when, assuming that it had done its part, or made provision for doing its part to the aid-receiving charges, it was honourably at liberty to take advantage of the remaining balance. This standard was, after the most mature consideration by the assembly, adopted. It was at first the 5 per cent. ratio standard, and it was afterwards reduced to the 3 per cent. ratio standard. Thus, if a congregation raised £300, but less than £350 as stipend, it was expected, out of the proceeds of its sustentation fund association to give as aid 3 per cent. on that stipend, and for every additional £50 of stipend above the £350, an additional 3 per cent. on the total stipend paid. It can hardly be contended that £400 or £500 is an exorbitant cost for working an ever increasing fund, which represents over £31,000 per annum, the more that the ratio of the costs is continually decreasing with the increase of the fund. But complaints re costs are essentially unjust, and, your committee believes are not seriously entertained even by those who make them. In the beginning of the movement in 1880, and the first one or two months of 1881, when as yet there was next to no fund, the costs must have been some £500 or £600. This was borne by individual liberality for a greater prospective good—a good to day represented by an ever-increasing annual revenue of many thousands of pounds, and a capital of what may be justly stated as over £37,000. When the three years' private guarantee for £500 per annum ended, the Church deliberately affirmed and has again and again ratified the affirmation of the necessity for continuing the then existing arrangements, and resolved to lay the necessary cost on the schemes of the Church having funds according to an approved proportion. When the treasurership committee shall have carried out its plans, if it succeed in its purpose, it hopes to provide a guarantee for all overdrafts which may be allowed, and to relieve the funds of the cost of their own working. This course has been already sanctioned by the assembly. The road between its present position and its complete development and adjustment should not now be difficult to travel, and your committee very confidently rely upon the hearty co-operation of the whole Church. Especially would your committee deeply regret and deprecate representations from any quarter calculated to give forth unwarranted views regarding the operations of the fund or the cost of working it. All such representations can have only one effect, and that is to retard the complete and final success of the movement.

Mr. John Kirkland moved that the report be received and a deliverance be accepted. He held that the fund had been a very great success. The stipends for 1880 amounted to £16,080; in 1890 the stipends amounted to £31,095. In 10 years the sum collected by Sustentation Fund Associations amounted to £130,203, and the total amount distributed in stipends was £257,628. Now, this was not the result of the increase of population. The stipend fund had nearly doubled, and surely it could not be affirmed that in the last 10 years the population had doubled. Nor could it be said that it was the result of the increase in the resources of the people, because everyone who had taken the slightest interest in the progress of the colony during the last 10 years knew that that progress had been in a backward direction, and during this time the Church had held her own. One way to account for it was by the expansion of the Church in the colony. This expansion accounted for any apparent failure in reference to this fund. New congregations could not be expected to contribute like the older charges. By the sustentation fund ministers had their stipends paid with a regularity that was often unknown, especially in the bush, before the establishment of the fund. Most of those who had spoken on the failure side seem to have given only the debit and not the credit side of the account. It was a very delicate matter for ministers to speak of the fund, because the people knew that in doing so they were advocating their own cause. Some members seemed to forget that it was a fund for which the general agent was not entirely responsible, nor was its administration the work of the general agent. It was worked by a committee appointed by the Assembly. He declined to allow all the responsibility of this matter to rest with the general agent; he would take his share of it.

The Rev. W. G. M'Conochie, in seconding the motion, said that by this fund not only were weaker charges, but also the older charges were spurred to do their best to raise money so that all may at least rise to the ideal minimum. Referring to the benefits accruing from the regularity ensured in the payment of stipends by the establishment of the fund, he was in conversation one day with the late Bishop of Sydney, and that gentleman heartily wished that the Church of England had such a fund, as it would be the means of saving a humiliation of many ministers, in the way of the receipt of their salary.

The Rev. W. S. Frackelton moved as an amendment,—"That there be inserted in the deliverance 'Regarding failure of the fund to accomplish the object for which it was inaugurated, to appoint a committee to take into consideration the whole matter of those funds, and all matters in connection therewith, and report to the next assembly.'" For the past 10 years they had been labouring under difficulties, and their way out of those difficulties was now no nearer than it was then.

The amendment was seconded pro forma by the Rev. W. M. Dill-Macky.

A long discussion then ensued, in which the Revs. J. Auld and Walker took part.

The Rev. J. M. Ross gave the history of the fund and defended his action in connection with it. The cause of its partial failure lay not in its administration but in the breaking of the regulations framed by the Assembly. If the regulations were abided by the fund would be a success.

By consent Mr. Frackelton withdrew his amendment and, as agreed to, the deliverance was as follows:—"Receive the report; thank the committee for its diligence; acknowledge the good hand of God in the success which has attended the Sustentation Fund movement during the ten years of its existence; instruct the committee to use all convenient diligence in preparing during 1891 the congregations of the following presbyteries, if possible, for final settlement for a place upon the fund, viz.:—Monaro, Illawarra, Sydney, and Hawkesbury presbyteries, enjoin on ministers and office-bearers to render the committee every assistance in the matter, and commend anew the movement to the prayers and liberal support of the people; especially thank all sustentation fund collectors for their labours of love, and press upon all to make the collector's work as agreeable and light as possible; specially enjoin office-bearers of congregations which ought to be aid-giving to give effect to the minimum standard of aid-giving, and all charges to press forward the perfecting of the needful organisation and necessary degree of contribution; and further refer the consideration of the whole matter of the administration of this fund and all matters connected therewith to the committee for report to next General Assembly.

The assembly adjourned at 10.15 p.m. till 10 a.m. the following day.

Fourth Day—Friday, March 6.

The sittings of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of New South Wales were continued in St. Stephen's Church yesterday. The Very Rev. the Moderator (the Rev. R. Collie, F.L.S.) presided.

CHURCH AND MANSE LOAN BUILDING FUND.

The report of the committee on church and manse loan building fund was read. The committee reported that the fund continues to do excellent service to the Church. There is no difficulty whatever in regard to its administration, save that arising from the failure of some congregations to refund the amounts when they become due. The year began with a credit balance of £979 2s 11d. The loans repaid during the year amounted to £1141 1s 1d. The sum paid in from the majority fund was only £177 1s 8d, and the interest allowed on the current account was £37 12s 8d., giving a credit balance during the year to operate upon of £2334 18s 4d. The loans granted were as follow:—To Penrith, £250; Mount Kembla, £100; Gladesville, £250; Mittagong, £160; Woollahra, £500; Greta, £200; Aberdeen, £200; in all, £1650. The printing, postages, and proportion of working expenses was £27 18s, so that the amount expended was £1087 18s. It is worthy of notice that this fund is so worked, that the interest secured on the current account exceeds the working costs by £9 14s 8d. This state of the account leaves a credit balance of £547 0s 4d. The amount at the close of the year, in the hands of congregations, was £7302 19s 2d, showing that the capital of the fund has risen from £880 15s 6d, which seems to have been its capital in 1881, to £9637 17s 6d in 1890. In submitting his report to the Assembly for 1881 on this fund, the late Dr. M'Gibbon pressed that the capital be raised to £10,000 or £15,000. It is gratifying to see how near his aspirations are to being realised. It is hoped that the close of the current year will see the fund rise at least above £10,000.

The capital of the Special Grant Fund amounts to £2192 5s 5d. Under the authority of the assembly this fund is, ad interim, using as an emergency fund, and as such it has done excellent service. The condition of its administration as such is, that all moneys paid out as exceptional loans require to be refunded on or before 31st December of the current year, 1891. It will be, according to this arrangement, the duty of the committee to submit for your consideration at the assembly of 1892 proposals for its future administration. The credit balance in hand at the end of the year was £224 15s 5d.

After discussion the following deliverance was agreed to:—Receive the report, thank the committee for its diligence, rejoice at the continued usefulness of the church and manse loan building and the special grants funds, acknowledge the good hand of God in their increase and the good they have been the instrument of accomplishing, instruct the committee to consider how best to administer in the future the special grant fund and bring up its recommendations to next assembly, instruct the committee to receive the report in accordance with the terms of the bond to require the payment of the refunds.

THE GENERAL AGENT AND THE HAMILTON CHARGE.

A reference from the presbytery of the Hunter stated that at a meeting of the presbytery, the Hamilton session, by its clerk, Archibald Gardiner, laid the following documents on the table, viz.:—1. Extract minute of Hamilton Session, of date February 13, 1891. 2. A petition to the presbytery from nine members of Hamilton committee of management re a letter to them from Rev. J. M. Ross, general agent of the Church, of date 24th December, 1890, complaining as to its insulting words, and praying the presbytery to take such steps as may prevent such conduct on the part of Mr. Ross. 3. A letter from Mr. Ross as referred to above. After deliberation, it was moved by Mr. Archibald Gardiner, and seconded by Rev. R. Jennings, as follow:—"Refer simpliciter this petition and accompanying documents to the General Assembly for advice in this case." The motion was carried. From this deliverance the Rev. James S. Laing dissented. The petition referred to a communication having been received from the Rev. J. M. Ross, general agent of the Church, referring to the Hamilton congregation and its duly-appointed officers in discourteous and insulting terms: and that as in the present circumstances of the Hamilton congregation such communications tend to disturb the peace and retard the progress of the Church: That petitioners accordingly pray that this communication may be dealt with as your venerable court deems best, and that steps may be taken to prevent a repetition of such action of the general agent. In July, 1890, Mr. Ross sent to Mr. Arch. Gardiner, a clerk of the Hamilton Session, an account of £32 5s 2d due to the Church Extension Fund. The kirk session sent reply that the letter was uncalled for because of the inopportuneness of its receipt, being eight years old. Correspondence on this matter and on the matter of the supply at the charge, which at the time was vacant, was continued till December, 1890, when, in answer to a letter written in strong terms by Mr. Gardiner, who acted as treasurer, Mr. Ross replied suggesting that the charge would prove a failure until a competent person were appointed treasurer.

Mr. Gardiner and the Rev. J. M. Ross having been heard, and each having expressed regret at their hasty action,

The Rev. J. Auld moved,—"Sustain the reference; find that the correspondence reveals on the part of the general agent a lamentable want of courtesy, which is due from one gentleman towards another, and especially from the general agent towards the office-bearers of the church; further, the assembly consider it a most reprehensible act on the part of the general agent to alter, as he acknowledges he has done, the terms of a letter which had been copied into the letter-book without entering the alteration in the letter-book; and caution the general agent not to do so again."

The Rev. James Paterson seconded the motion.

The Rev. Mr. Macnochie moved as an amendment, "Sustain the reference and resolves that this assembly supports the general agent in his difficult task of getting congregations of the church to discharge their just liabilities, but regrets that in the case of the Hamilton charge letters should have been written of a character to exasperate the officebearers of that charge, at the same time the assembly feels that the general agent did not receive from the officebearers of the said charge the consideration in the performance of his difficult duties to which he is justly entitled, and directs that all reference to the matter be deleted from the blue book. The amendment was ultimately carried by a large majority.

THE FEDERATION CONVENTION.

The Rev. Dr. Steel moved, "That the Assembly regard with deep interest the federation of the Australasian colonies, and earnestly pray that it may please Almighty God, the Governor of the Universe, to give the spirit of wisdom to the Convention now met for the purpose of preparing a constitution of federation." He spoke of the deep interest that all felt in federation. In Holy Writ it was declared that the little would become 1000. It was time that the national sentiment should rise above petty things and expand into patriotism. Never before in the colonies had such a galaxy of statesmen assembled together. There were met together 45 of the most distinguished men of the colonies, including that Nestor of exploration Sir George Grey, whose long and distinguished public services merited a tribute of praise. God took an interest in human affairs, and without His guidance the scheme would fail. All ministers should pray, asking that the spirit and wisdom of God should rest on the Convention. He had moved that prayer should be offered daily for the guidance of the Convention, and he was glad to see that the Bishop of Sydney had framed a prayer with the same object, and had directed that it should be read in all the Anglican churches. There had been no more important meeting in which the destinies of the continent were involved. The Constitution should be like the British—capable of expansion, and containing elements of reform.

The Rev. J. W. Inglis, in seconding the resolution, said he was a colonist of 36 years' standing, and had seen the growth of these territories. Years ago he had advocated federation, both in the press and on the platform, and now rejoiced that it was being given effect to. He hoped that the efforts of the delegates would be successful, and that nothing would arise to hinder the progress of the movement.

The motion was unanimously agreed to, and the Rev. A. Barron, by direction of the moderator, offered up prayer, asking the blessing of God on the Convention now sitting.

In the matter of the petition of the Rev. M. E. Morgan, a commission was appointed to draw up a report, and forward it the Church Extension Committee.

RELIGION AND MORALS.

The committee on religion and morals brought up the following report:—The outstanding feature of the year 1890, from the point of view of the committee's special work has been the bold attack which has been made upon the legal safeguards of the Christian day of rest. Shortly after the rising of last Assembly judgment was given in the Supreme Court case "John Walker v. John Solomon," by which it was declared that Sunday entertainments for which a charge is made are illegal. The immediate result was the closing of the theatres and other places of entertainments on Sunday evenings. Early in August a bill was introduced in the Legislative Assembly by Mr. J. H. Want, entitled The Sunday Laws Amendment Bill, which aimed at repealing a number of Acts safeguarding the Day of Rest, and legalising an immense amount of unnecessary Sunday work and Sunday trading, in addition to Sunday concerts, dramatic readings, and entertainments. Thereupon the Council of the Churches summoned a conference, which was largely and influentially attended by ministers and prominent workers of all the churches. The conference was absolutely unanimous in its decision to strenuously resist the passing of Mr. Want's bill for every reason, and specially in the interests of the working classes of the colony; and the draft of a petition to Parliament, to be signed throughout every electorate, was cordially approved. As a result, in a few weeks almost every member of the Legislative Assembly received influentially-signed petitions against relaxing the Sunday laws, from all parts of their constituencies. It is believed that 60,000 persons over the age of 16 years signed these petitions; and these signatures were obtained by voluntary workers in three or four weeks. With more time many thousands more could easily have been secured. In a word, the movement swelled quickly into a national one, and so profound was the impression made upon both Parliament and the country that the belief is general that Mr. Want's bill is already dead. The committee deplore the issue of Sunday papers, mainly noted for sporting "tips" and social gossip and scandal. There is a great deal of unnecessary and shameful Sunday trafficking, and the inducements held out to the young on all sides to turn the sacred day into one of mere pleasure-seeking are on the increase. The committee early in the year sent a deputation to the Inspector General of Police, urging him to take action to suppress, if possible, certain evil publications; and although nothing was able to be done at the time, or for months after, yet it is satisfactory now to report that the publishers of one of these obnoxious papers have recently been successfully prosecuted, and it has been refused transmission through the post offices of the colony. The evil of gambling has reached the acute stage in this community. As a people we are prodigal in our patronage of sports; the disastrous trouble is that so many of these are very largely prostituted to the base uses of gambling. Horse racing is, however, the arch-tempter to the masses of our young men, so that the racecourse has assumed the proportions of a great national evil. It is an evil, too, which many professing Christians are aiding and abetting to their own great peril, and that of their sons and daughters.

The committee have given some consideration to the degradation resulting from the use of opium, not only amongst the Chinese amongst us, but by many of our own British race. At the last Commission of the Presbyterian Church of Victoria a resolution was adopted urging the Government to place this noxious drug under the provisions of the Poisons Act, and forbid its sale except by chemists only. A deputation then waited on the Government, who were ready immediately to introduce such a measure, but stated that they could do almost nothing unless the other colonies joined in the matter. Mr. Quong Tart, of Sydney, has long been exerting himself to prevent the importation of opium, and the committee have been in communication with him, with the object of assisting him in securing a general movement against the spreading use of this drug. A few months ago the Rev. Alexander Osborne, of Burwood, undertook the evangelistic work, and it is earnestly hoped that with his hearty assistance your committee may be able to arrange for numerous evangelistic missions throughout the Church during 1891. Ever since its formation the Sabbath Morning Fellowship Union has been under the supervision of this committee. It is the earnest conviction of the committee that the work of this union is of very great value to the Church and worthy of the most hearty and prayerful interest of sessions and congregations.

The Rev. John Walker moved the adoption of the report and of the deliverance. The latter was of unusual length, and was, as Dr. Steel put it, in effect a precis of the report, instead of being a recommendation. After referring to different parts of the report Mr. Walker dealt with the gambling, such as the raffling which was carried on at some church bazaars. This, he considered, was not right. Could the church consistently speak against gambling while it was being carried on in its very work?

The Rev. John Gardner seconded the motion.

Mr. Alexander Riddel moved that there be inserted in the deliverance, in consideration of the deplorable increase of lapsing from attendance especially among the poor, and the degradation arising from unhealthy material and moral surroundings, the periodical want of remunerative employment, and the employment of children of tender years for long hours in factories, the assembly recommends the committee to consider this question with the view of devising a remedy, and report to next General Assembly. He said that in a Church having historical associations such as the Presbyterian Church had, it would be a disgrace if it brought up a report that ignored the questions that were at the basis of society. He referred to the employment of children for long hours in factories, and the failure of the Trades and Labour Council to inquire into the cause of this matter. Drink, some-one had said, was the cause of so much misery and wretchedness existing amongst the poor, but was there nothing else but that? Was it not that something came between the poor man and the Heavenly Father's bounty and the produce of his toil. (Cheers.) General Booth had had his boom, and everybody had done talking about him. He had £100,000, but what was that to the £7,000,000 spent annually in charities in London. The General would just hoist a little of the scum from London and throw it somewhere else. (Cheers.) The democracy of Jesus as laid down in the Sermon on the Mount was binding on States as well as on men. The Church had neglected one of the most important fields that was given her to cultivate: and if it did not wake up to the question soon, it would find that other Churches had got ahead of it.

The Rev. W. S. Frackelton seconded the motion. In doing so he said that in trying to save the soul the Church had forgotten the salvation of the body. He was not a believer in some of the planks of trades unionism, but he believed that in England it had done a lot of good in getting the Factory Act passed. The Church of Christ should lead the way in reform, and not allow atheism to be foremost in the lead of this question.

It was agreed to embody the motion in the report, and pass the following deliverance in place of that submitted by the convener, Mr. Walker, receive the report, thank the committee, and especially the convener, for their diligence.

SABBATH SCHOOLS.

The report of the Sabbath-school committee stated that the work of the schools during the year had been carried on with vigour and success. In connection with the higher education scheme 63 schools took part in the general examination, and 1063 papers were written upon different subjects.

The following deliverance was passed:—Receive the report; thank the committee for their diligence. Commend anew the higher Christian education scheme to the Church, and urge upon superintendents, teachers, and parents the desirability of encouraging the young to prepare for the general examination in August. Appoint the third Sabbath in October to be observed throughout the Church as a children's day, when special prayer shall be offered for children and youth, sermons preached on the work of Sabbath schools and the religious training of the young, and services held for children. Also, that the collections made at the children's services on that day be devoted towards the expenses of the committee.

The Rev. James Lamont tendered his resignation of the office of convener of the committee, and it was accepted with regret. A vote of thanks was accorded to him for the way in which he had fulfilled the duties of that office.

The Assembly adjourned at 10 p.m. to 10 a.m to-day.

MEETINGS.

ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY.

The monthly meeting of the council of the Zoological Society was held at the Gardens, Moore Park, yesterday afternoon. There were present—Captain Guest (in the chair), Messrs. Geo. Moore, William Beaumont, and Charles Catlett (secretary). The bank book showed a credit of £3699 19s 7d. The sum of £413 13s 4d had been paid since the last meeting. Cheques were signed for payment of £83 14s 3d. The lion Garfield, who was thought to be recovering from an attack of illness, has had a relapse, and is now seriously ill. The disease is pulmonary, and in the opinion of the Government veterinarian (Mr. Stanley), there is little hope of his recovery. The rest of the collection is reported to be in good health. Tenders have been opened for wolf, fox, and dog houses.

The receipts from the gates for the four weeks ending 5th March amounted to £100 19s; from the elephant, to £1 18s; and from the donkey and pony, to £2 1s 3d—making a total of £104 18s 5d. The gate money represented the admission of 4738 visitors to the gardens, 3338 being adults and 1400 children. The grounds were also visited by 2156 Public school children, accompanied by 48 teachers: total free admissions, 2204.

On Tuesday, February 10, a deputation from the council, consisting of Dr. George Bennett, Mr. Wm. Beaumont, Mr. Chas. H. Humphrey, and the secretary, waited upon his Excellency the Right Honourable the Earl of Jersey to ask him to become the patron of the society, and his Excellency the Governor accepted the office of patron. On February 11 the council purchased Mr. Willard's aviaries, together with a fine collection of birds, consisting of gold and silver pheasants, a pair of very curious black or slate-coloured pheasants, and a collection of Australian parrots and finches, also many Indian and African finches. These birds are a great acquisition to the gardens and will well repay inspection.

Captain Pilkington, of the steamer Murrumbidgee, brought out free of freight four English squirrels from Captain Ilbery for the society. These pretty creatures have for the present been placed in the monkey house until better accommodation can be provided for them. Considerable progress has been made during the past month in renovating and replanting the flower-beds in the lower grounds, and the lawns are now looking better than ever.

Donors and donations since last monthly meeting:—Blackbird, presented by J. C. Stubbings, Moore Park; two white rats, presented by Master Thomas Bell, Paddington; black rat, presented by J. Barnett, Sydney; two pied rats, presented by Robert Hovenden, Lewisham; two wood ducks, presented by J. E. Hassall, Goulburn; English squirrel, presented by Mr. Parsons, s.s. Murrumbidgee; Diamond snake; presented by Voss Wiburd and W. S. Day, Jenolan Caves; Echidna, presented by H. J. Greville, Bankruptcy Court; a goat, presented by Master Ernest D. Gilchrist, Kogarah. Purchased—Two aviaries, with collection of songbirds and parrots, two black pheasants, silver pheasant, golden pheasant, emu, and wallaby.

CHURCH SOCIETY.

On Thursday evening the annual meeting of St. John's (Parramatta) Auxiliary to the Church Society was held in St. John's Schoolroom, the Ven. Archdeacon Gunther presiding. The balance-sheet showed that the sum of £293 had been collected during the year and apportioned as follows:—Parent Society, £120; stipend fund, £124; curate fund, £57. The ven. chairman delivered an address, in which he referred to the shameful neglect of the aborigines by those who professed to be followers of Christ. The society generally, he thought, might be more actively worked. Referring more specially to the working of the Church Society, he said that the very name was a hindrance in some quarters—not being sufficiently clear and distinct. The work needed to be carried on with much more energy and vigour throughout the diocese, the management improved, and the parent society differently constituted and made directly responsible to the Synod. The Revs. F. R. Elder and Gladstone-Hauke also addressed. The following officers were appointed for the ensuing year:—Patron, Bishop of Sydney; president, the incumbent of St. John's; vice-presidents, the curates of St. John's; hon. secretary, Mr. J. J. Brennan; hon. treasurer, Mr. F. T. Watkins; committee, churchwardens, and collectors of St. John's, Drs. Brown and Johnson, and Messrs. Bodenham, Cairnes, Dalmas, Fyall, Lloyd, Todhunter, F. Wickham, Noller, Pearson, Walker, and Vahrenkamp; representatives, Messrs. Lloyd and Watkins.

PASTORAL INTELLIGENCE.

(By Telegraph.)

(From our Correspondents.)

ALBURY, Thursday.

The following are the stock movements:—3200 merino ewes, from Kirindeen to Koriong, Victoria, P. Keappy owner; 30 fat cattle, from Bethanga, Victoria, to Albury, K. and A. Cobham owners; 2700 merino wethers, from Hume district to Bungawonnish Park, J. Grieve owner; 400 merino ewes from Albury to Dara Dara, Thomas Bourke owner.

CARCOAR, Friday.

Stock passing through from Cowra to Homebush: 1 truck cattle, Stibbord and Boxall, to Kiss; 4 trucks cattle, Cowra to Homebush, J. Fagan, to Leeds Co.; 1 truck cattle, Ward and Graves, to Crawford; 1 truck sheep, T. Wright, to Hill, Clark, Darling Harbour; by road, 730 wethers, Orange to Mount M'Donald, owner W. Bright.

FORBES, Friday.

The weather still continues fine, and a good deal hotter than during the last few weeks. The following are the crossings over the Common for the week:—February 27, 2900 ewes from Walla Walla to Southern Cross, Stokes and Battye owners; March 2, 6000 wethers from Gunnygilgree to Yass, E. L. Thomson owner, 16 head mixed cattle from Cudal to Burrowong, Thomas Tamar owner; 4th, 9000 sheep from Overflow to Dunn's Plains, N. Carra owner.

RYLSTONE, Friday.

The stock truckings from Rylstone for the past week are as follows:—28th ultimo, 5 cattle, T. A. Harris, Widden, Hill, Clark, and Co., Homebush; 2nd instant, 11 bullocks, W. J. Jackson, to C. Hooper, Eskbank; 3rd, 31 calves, A. Tindale, Bylong, to J. C. Young and Co.; 4th, 11 bullocks, from C. Davis, Ginghi, to Pitt, Son, and Badgery, Homebush.

Severe thunderstorms, with heavy rain, are prevalent. The country is in good condition.

It is interesting to note at the present juncture that on two occasions during the last 40 years has the Bank rate been as high as 10 per cent. It first rose to that figure on November 9, 1857—a Lord Mayor's Day that probably will be remembered all their life by those who were affected by the state of the money market. The second occasion was on May 12, 1866, at the time of the great monetary panic in which Overend, Gurney, and Co. went down. On several occasions—notably on November 7, 1873—the rate has reached 9 per cent., while it has touched 8 per cent. no fewer than five times during the period.—City Press.

MILITARY.

THE EASTER ENCAMPMENT.

Subjoined is an abstract of the arrangements for the assembly of the military forces this year for continuous training:—The Headquarters' Staff will move into camp at Campbelltown, on Friday, March 20. The garrison batteries of Permanent Artillery and the Permanent Submarine Miners will move into camp at the Heads on the 24th and 27th March respectively. The Cavalry, Field Battery Permanent Artillery, and No. 1 Field Battery, Partially Paid Artillery, Engineers, Partially Paid Mounted Infantry; the 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th Regiments Infantry; the Medical Staff Corps, and the Commissariat and Transport Corps, will move into camp at Campbelltown on Friday, March 27, by 11 a.m., and the remaining Batteries Partially Paid Artillery and the Partially Paid Submarine Miners will move into camp at the Heads on the same date and at as early an hour as practicable.

Lieutenant-colonel Eden and Captain Bouverie (Permanent Staff), and Captain Knox of the Cavalry, will be attached to the headquarters' staff at Campbelltown. The distribution of the officers of the medical staff will be as follows:—At Campbelltown, Brigade-surgeon Williams, P.M.O., Surgeon-major Dansey, Surgeon-M'Leod, Surgeon Kelly, Surgeon Swanston, Surgeon Stapleton, Acting-surgeon Tennant, at the Heads; Acting-surgeon Sturt, South Head; and Surgeons M'Culloch and Jenkins, Middle Head.

The transport of all camp equipage and stores to and from both camps, and the whole of the transport at the camps, during the period of continuous training, will be carried out by the Commissariat and Transport Corps. Men supplied with valise equipment will not be permitted to take any other baggage into camp—others may provide themselves with small hand portmanteaux or bags.

The D.A.C.G. of ordnance will establish a depôt at Campbelltown, making all necessary arrangements with the railway authorities, so that the issue of camp equipage and stores to regiments may take place on the ground. Such of the regimental staff as can possibly be spared per regiment or corps, will report themselves at the D.A.C.G. of ordnance on the dates respectively detailed for drawing their stores. After stores have been drawn they will proceed to their lines, and assist thereafter in the pitching of tents of their regiments or corps. Adjutants will see that one representative at least of each regimental staff is on the camping ground from the date of receipt of stores to final return.

The officer commanding the Commissariat and Transport Corps will attend to the supply of forage, fuel, and water throughout the camp. Quartermasters of regiments will attend at the forage and wood depôts at the time of issue to check the weight and inspect the quality of the material, which will be conveyed by the transport corps to regimental stores. Troughs to water horses will be supplied to Cavalry, Field Batteries, and Mounted Infantry. The Staff Quarter-Master or his representative will arrange for the supply of rations at both camps on the 27th March, and such issues as may be required thereafter. Delivery of supplies at the Heads will be made direct by contractor to corps. The staff-master will also arrange for rations, &c., for all officers and men actually on duty in camp from March 10 to return of stores. All requisitions for rations in camp from March 11 should reach the staff quartermaster, or his representative, daily at 3 p.m. on the day before that on which the rations are required. A special extra ration, consisting of ½oz. coffee, 2oz. sugar, and half gill of milk (if possible), will be drawn and issued for each man on guard. Rations will consist of 1¼lb. of bread, 1¼lb. fresh meat, ½oz. coffee, ⅙oz. tea, 3oz. sugar, ½oz. salt, 1-32oz. of pepper, 2lb. potatoes, 1 gill of milk, and ¼lb. mixed vegetable per man per diem. The rations, including forage, will be inspected daily by the captain of the day. All matters connected with supplies requiring reference should be immediately submitted to the D. A. Q. M. G. In case of complaints respecting quantity of rations a board, consisting of the captain of the day, a medical officer, and the orderly officer of the regiment concerned, will forthwith assemble and report thereon.

The tents at Campbelltown will be pitched by fatigue parties of 10 men from each regiment and four men per P. P. Field Battery, Engineers, Medical Staff, and Commissariat and Transport Corps, who will mutually assist each other. The Volunteer Artillery will furnish a fatigue party of 12 men to pitch their own camp at the Heads. At Campbelltown one cook per regiment, and one for Engineers and Medical Staff Corps, will be sanctioned, also Volunteer Artillery and Submarine Miners. In addition to regimental cooks two men per troop battery or company or corps, formed separately, will proceed to camp on March 26, for the purpose of facilitating the preparation and issue of rations on the following day. Adjutants will see that their corps have breakfast on arrival in camp, acquainting the Staff Quarter-master of the number of breakfast rations required in camp on March 27, or if preferred money allowance for breakfast for this day may be granted, according to scale.

The field batteries proceeding to camp will take 100 rounds of blank ammunition per gun. The D. A. C. G. of Ordnance will store at Campbelltown 40 rounds of ball cartridge per rifle for field firing, and 100 rounds of blank per rifle and carbine for artillery and submarine miners.

The orderly medical officer of the day will act as sanitary officer, and will personally inspect the camp and precincts, and report to the principal medical officer any state or condition he may find that in his opinion may be prejudicial to the troops in camp.

All traffic, such as vehicles, fatigue parties connected with regiments and corps, is to be confined strictly to the streets in their own lines, and on no account is one corps to cross the lines of another. General traffic between the camps will be confined to the main roads and streets.

All corps proceeding to camp will parade in field service dress, with leggings. Glengarry caps will be carried in the valise, except in the case of artillery, who will carry their forage caps as heretofore. Regiments unprovided with the field service hat will take helmets. Review order will not be required in camp.

Officers and others may leave camp when not on duty or otherwise required after the afternoon parade; but all except those absent on leave or pass must be in camp by 10 p.m. Officers may wear plain clothes when leaving camp. Other troops must be correctly dressed in uniform, with waistbelts.

Lieutenant Kyngdon, P.A., will act as adjutant, and Sergeant-major Coleman, P.A., as brigade sergeant-major to the Field Battery Brigade during camp.

A telegraph station will be established in the camp for general use.

Notes.

His Excellency the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, has approved of the partially-paid Medical Staff Corps being increased by two surgeons and 41 rank and file, in order to make it effective for two brigades.

The Major-General commanding has appointed Mr. William Keys to be a labourer in the D. A. Q. M. G.'s department, on probation, with pay at the rate of 6s a day, and an allowance of 10s a week in lieu of quarters.

Officers commanding regiments and corps of partially-paid forces will forward to the D. A. Q. M. G. by the 30th April next all books referring to the deferred pay and clothing allowances for inspection, with a view of having a uniform system adopted.

The Major-General commanding has appointed Harry Haire Mowbray, late colour-sergeant 8th the King's, and George Frederick Charles Fletcher Shipley, late sergeant 2nd Lincolnshire Regiment, to be sergeant instructors on the Volunteer Permanent Staff, on probation, with pay at the rate of 7s a day, and 12s 6d a week in lieu of quarters, from 3rd instant inclusive.

Sergeant Mowbray has been attached to the 2nd Regiment.

The Commanding Engineer visited Newcastle on Wednesday on defence duty.

The address of the United Service Institution has been changed to St. James'-chambers (second floor), top of King-street.

ARTILLERY ASSOCIATION OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

The following is the official score of the 25-ton R.M.L. Gun Match, which was fired on Saturday the 28th February:—

Permanent Artillery.—Sergeant Hiscock, 55, first prize; Quarter-master Sergeant Taylor, 46, second prize; Master-Gunner Le Bean, 42.

Volunteer Artillery.—Sergeant Dwyer, 39, first prize; Sergeant-Major Hund, 38, second prize; Corporal Compton, 32.

In the Garrison Repository Match the award for work, judged by drill and time, was as follows:—

Permanent Artillery.—Gunner Macnamara, 27, prize; Sergeant Hiscock, 25; Master-Gunner Le Beau, 16; Quarter-Master Sergeant Taylor, 9.

Two squads of the Volunteer Artillery competed in a similar match, but a protest entered by one of them is under consideration by the referee. The next match is the 40 pr. R. B. L., which will be fired on Saturday, the 14th instant.

AMUSEMENTS.

THEATRE ROYAL.

The first week of Mr. Bland Holt's season here has proved an immense success, the house having been crowded every night. "Master and Man" has been received with growing favour, thanks to its own strength, the excellence of the acting all round, and the elaborate and striking scenery. The scene in the iron-works, which is both dramatically and scenically effective, is the most powerful in the whole play. It owes no little of its success to the intense and realistic acting of Mr. Arthur Lawrence. Mr. and Mrs. Bland Holt keep the fun going whenever they are on the stage. The remainder of the cast is very good.

The members of the Federal Convention will, on the invitation of Sir Henry Parkes, witness the performance of "Master and Man" on Saturday next.

HER MAJESTY'S.

The run of "Arrah-na-Pogue" came to an end last night. Dion Boucicault's famous play will, however, be again acted on next Wednesday afternoon in aid of the Boys' Brigade. Mr. Rignold, who has evidently plenty of faith in the Irish drama, will to-night revive another well-known Boucicaultian play "The Colleen Bawn." The feature of the revival will be the Eily O'Connor of Miss Maggie Moore, who will make her farewell appearances at this theatre in this character. Mr. J. W. Sweeney will be the Myles, Mr. J. W. Hazlitt the Hardress, Mr. H. R. Jewett the Danny Man, and Miss Watts-Phillips the Anne Chute.

The performance of "Arrah-na-Pogue" on Wednesday afternoon in aid of the Boys' Brigade, will be under the patronage and in the presence of His Excellency the Governor, Lady Jersey, the Mayor and Mayoress, the visiting delegates, the Hon. Sir Frederick Darley (president of the Boys' Brigade), and the ladies' committee. The box plan is now open at the theatre.

CRITERION.

Boucicault's sporting comedy, "The Jilt," which has made a decided hit here, will be played for the twentieth and last time on Monday next. The performance on that occasion will be interesting on more than one account. Mrs. Brough will make her last appearance prior to her departure for Queensland. In order to give additional zest to the occasion, Mr. Sydney Grundy's clever and touching one-act play. "In Honour Bound" will be acted, with Mrs. Brough as Lady Carlyon. Mr. G. S. Titheradge will repeat one of his best and most popular impersonations, and Miss Emma Temple will make her re-appearance in Sydney. "In Honour Bound" will only be played, in addition to "The Jilt," on Monday night next. On the following evening Messrs. Brough and Boucicault will revive "School." The cast of Robertson's comedy is almost identical with that of June last. It is as follows:—Lord Beaufoy, Mr. Percy Lyndal; Jack Poyntz, Mr. G. S. Titheradge; Beau Farintosh, Mr. G. W. Anson; Krux, Mr. Boucicault; Dr. Sutcliffe, Mr. G. L. Gordon; Bella, Miss Emma Temple; Mrs. Sutcliffe, Miss Romer; and, Naomi Tighe, Miss Pattie Brown.

THE GARRICK THEATRE.

"Il Trovatore" has been the attraction of the week at the Garrick Theatre. The public attendance has been large, and the performances have proved most pleasureable. In every sense the season of the Montague-Turner Opera Company is a success, and at present there is no prospect of its closing. Last night the representation of Verdi's work was witnessed by a large audience, and it met with a most cordial reception. Miss Annie Montague and Mr. Charles Turner did much to sustain the merit of the performance, and they were well assisted by the other members of the company, and the orchestra, which has for its conductor Mr. Rivers Allpress, and for its leader M. de Willimoff. The opera will be again presented to-night, and on Monday it will give place to a production of Ambroise Thomas's "Mignon."

GAIETY.

After a number of very successful seasons during the last three years, Mr. Harry Rickards announces the positive last appearances of his popular company this afternoon and evening. The matinée performance will commence at 3 o'clock, and a special programme has been arranged for the amusement of ladies and children, including the midgets and ventriloquist. In the evening an exceptionally good programme will be presented, and will include the names of all the leading and popular members of the company. On the 23rd of this month Mr. and Mrs. Rickards and Mr. J. C. Leete, the manager, will leave Sydney for London, and intend to play for a season of eight weeks in America, en route. They will return to Australia in August next with a new company.

MUSICAL.

The Sydney Musical Union, which has for its president the Governor, Lord Jersey, announces a concert for Thursday evening. The affair is to take place in the Y. M. C. A. Hall. Among those who will assist the society on this occasion are Miss Josephine Deakin, Madame Pechotsch, Herr Pechotsch, Mr. Walshe, and Mr. A. A. Smith.

It has been decided by a number of musical gentlemen to tender to Mr. Wm. Walshe a farewell benefit prior to his departure for Italy. The date of the concert is April 8. Several of the leading musicians have offered their services, and a committee has been appointed to carry out the necessary arrangements.

SCHOOL OF ARTS.

Dan Tracey's Vaudeville, Specialty, and Combination Company continues to draw good houses at the School of Arts, notwithstanding the fact that they have now been before the Sydney public for about three months. The programme is arranged in a way that shows the capabilities of the company, and gives constant pleasure to patrons. The bill of fare presented last night was similar to that presented on the earlier evenings of the week, and was received by a full house with tokens of genuine approval. This afternoon a matinee performance will be given, and at the evening entertainment new features will be introduced into the programme.

AQUARIUMS.

At the Bondi Aquarium to-day Professor Fernandez is announced to make another and last balloon ascent and parachute descent. During the afternoon a specialty entertainment will be given, in which the Misses Phoebe Levy and Alma Obrey and Messrs. Charles Anderson, Harry Gilbert, Alfred M'Dermott, and Harry Sinclair will take part.

At the Coogee Aquarium this afternoon an amusing entertainment by the Austral Minstrels will be given, and other attractions are announced.

At the Protestant Hall, Castlereagh-street, this evening, the Cottier Family will give another of their popular concerts. An entirely new programme will be submitted, and some 15 favourite artistes are announced to appear. The performance will close with a farce entitled the "Strategist." A specially reduced tariff of admission has been arranged.

On Wednesday evening last at the Town Hall, Leichhardt, a concert was given under the patronage of the Most. Rev. Dr. Higgins in aid of the St. Fiacre's Roman Catholic Church choir and building, and the funds should have been well realised, judging by the numbers present, which more than three parts filled the spacious hall. Amongst the artists were Miss M. Robinson, hon. accompanist of the Sydney Philharmonic Society, whose rendering of "Tremolo" called forth applause. Mrs. J. Wood sang the song, "Dear Heart." Many other ladies and gentlemen contributed to the evening's entertainment, which was brought to a close by the chorus singing, "Oh! the Shamrock."

TRADES MOVEMENTS.

A special meeting of the Stonemasons' Union was held at the Temperance Hall last evening for the purpose of dealing with a number of important matters. The scheme for the federation of labour throughout Australia drafted by the intercolonial conference recently held in Sydney was thoroughly discussed, and eventually the following motion by Mr. Grant was carried unanimously,—"That the scheme of federation as submitted does not meet with our approval." The desirability of devoting £40 from the funds of the union for the purpose of nominating a labour candidate at the next general election, was further considered, and it was agreed that the matter should be dealt with at a special meeting. The suggestion of a member that a library should be established in connection with the union was debated, and it was resolved to communicate with the secretary of the Trades and Industrial Hall and Literary Institute Association inquiring the reason of the committee in not carrying out the objects of the association in reference to the establishment of libraries.

The Cabmen last evening decided to call the attention of the Colonial Treasurer to the fact that his promise to cause the blocks on Circular Quay to be sanded in wet weather had not been carried out. Several members spoke in reference to the dangerous state of the blocks in wet weather owing to their slippery nature, and it was stated that recently several accidents had occurred, and one person had been seriously injured. An emphatic denial was given to a rumour that had been circulated to the effect that funds of the union had been appropriated for the benefit of two of the members of the union.

LECTURE.

Last evening Mr. Brian Hooker delivered a lecture on "Gold: Modes of Occurrence and Methods of Extraction" at the Girls' High School, Elizabeth-street. The lecture was under the auspices of the Technical Education branch of the Department of Public Instruction, and was well attended. Mr. F. Bridges, Superintendent of Technical Education, occupied the chair. The lecturer pointed out, among other matters, that there was no hard and fast rule for the treatment of refractory ores, but that what should be done was to send a small quantity of the ore to a competent chemist for him to make an analysis. Then owners could proceed and acquire the particular machinery best adapted to the conditions of the ore. That was much better than erecting a lot of expensive machinery and finding afterwards that it did not give the results anticipated. Those ores containing a little silver and no lead were best treated by chlorination, and of the various processes he gave a description. He also traced the history of gold during its transfer from the rock to the mint.

Valuable Discovery for the Hair.—If your hair is turning grey or white, or falling off, use the "Mexican Hair Renewer," for it will positively restore in every case grey or white hair to its original colour, without leaving the disagreeable smell of most "Restorers." Sold everywhere.—[Advt.]

THE STAR OF VICTORIA.

The steamer Star of Victoria, running under the auspices of the Tyser line, arrived from London yesterday, via Albany and Melbourne. She left London on January 1, passed Dover at 1 p.m. on the same day and had light easterly winds and fine weather down the Channel. From thence moderate S.W. winds were fallen in with to lat. 36°, which was reached on January 6, and then fresh N.W. and northerly winds to Las Palmas, where the steamer touched on January 9, and, after coaling, left again on the following day. The N.E. trades were quickly picked up, and carried to lat. 7° N., when the S.E. trades were taken, and the equator was crossed on January 16 in long. 12° west. The S.E. trades continued fresh to lat. 30° south and long. 6° east on January 24, when the wind shifted to the south, and a high sea was encountered to lat. 40° south and long. 30° east, when the wind shifted and blew fresh from north and N.W. Fine weather, with smooth water, was experienced to lat. 39·19 south and long. 90° east, then light S.W. and westerly breezes to arrival at Albany, which was reached on the 16th instant at 6 a.m. After discharging 600 tons of cargo the Star of Victoria left again on the 20th, and met with a strong south and S.E. breeze with a high choppy sea to Cape Otway, which was passed at 11.20 a.m. on the 25th instant. Having discharged the Melbourne portion of her cargo, the steamer left on Wednesday last for Sydney, and arrived as stated.

OCEAN VIEW ESTATE
KOGARAH and ROCKDALE.
AUCTION SALE.
On the GROUND.
NEXT SATURDAY.
FREE TRAIN.

This Property is situated about equal distance from Kogarah and Rockdale, stretching from the railway line back to Gannon's Forest-road, and is adjacent to both railway stations; and on portion of the estate and adjacent thereto are some of the principal residences of the district, the spot being a favourite one from the fact of its occupying the highest position on the line within the distance of the metropolis varying between six and seven miles from the city by the splendid improved train service.

The object in view by the vendors is to secure a healthy settlement near to the city, and nature has supplied them with a choice site, and they have done their duty by making the subdivision a liberal one, each block being about a quarter of an acre, having a frontage of about 66ft. by depths from 150ft. to 200ft.

The difficulty experienced by many people to acquire sites in such a locality is attributed to the fact that they find a difficulty to accumulate an amount sufficient to purchase it right out. To meet this difficulty we propose to give you a variety of terms, so that a block may be within the reach of every industrious man in the community. We give such easy terms as—Five Pounds deposit, and five shillings per week per block, besides which a purchaser may if he desires pay in 60 or 90 monthly payments, and if a purchaser desires to pay cash he may do so and receive a discount of 2½ per cent. To buyers of four or more lots a like discount of 2½ per cent. will be allowed. An important matter yet untouched is the price asked for such a property. On this point we desire to assure intending buyers that having in view the state of the market and all other attending circumstances, we intend to quit the land at real straight sacrifice prices, and beat all other previous efforts. No complaint shall be laid against us that we have not faithfully carried out our promise to the most exacting, namely, to "Clear the Line at Sacrifice Prices."

Now what is to stand between you and us? We offer you varied blocks at sacrifice prices in a position that cannot be excelled as a health resort or otherwise. It is near the Railway Station, handy to the city, and with a certainty of a City Railway at hand you can then arrive in the heart of the city in 20 minutes at most, in lieu of 30 as at present.

You can live cheaply and comfortably, with a fair area of land around you.

We extend our invitation to all to attend our AUCTION SALE on NEXT SATURDAY, the 14th March, and we will be pleased to forward FREE TRAIN TICKET and PLAN on application to any who may desire to attend.

GARRARD and HAMILTON, Auctioneers and Property Agents, 76 Pitt-street, Sydney, 565 Darling street, Balmain.

PEARS CAUTION PARENTS
That the delicate skin of Infants and Children is particularly liable to injury from coarse and unrefined Toilet Soap, which is commonly adulterated with the most pernicious ingredients, hence frequently the irritability, redness, and blotchy appearance of the skin from which many children suffer.

PEARS CAUTION PARENTS
That the serious injury to children resulting from the use of impure Soaps often remains unsuspected in spite of Nature's warnings, until the unhealthy and irritable condition of the skin has developed into some unsightly disease, not infrequently baffling the skill of the most eminent Dermatologists.

INDISPUTABLE EVIDENCE OF SUPERIORITY.
Dr. REDWOOD, Ph.D., F.C.S., F.I.C., Professor of Chemistry and Pharmacy to the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain:—"My analytical and practical experience of PEARS' SOAP now extends over a very lengthened period—nearly 50 years—during which time I have never come across another Toilet Soap which so closely realises my ideal of perfection; its purity is such that it may be used with perfect confidence upon the tenderest and most sensitive skin—even that of a new born babe."

HIGHEST HONOURS OBTAINABLE.
PEARS' SOAP has been awarded the Highest Honours obtainable, Diplomas, Gold Medals, and Special Certificates of Merit at all the Great Exhibitions of the World—from the first Great Exhibition of 1851, down to the last at Paris in 1889.

SATURDAY, MARCH 7, 1891.

Trouble is impending at Honolulu, and the United States Minister there has given notice that, to prevent bloodshed, he will land a force of marines from American warships.

The House of Lords has declared in favour of the Bank of England in the appeal case brought by Messrs. Vagliano.

At a mass meeting of about 600 unionists and a number of towns-people, held at Clermont, Queensland, on Thursday evening, arbitration was strongly advocated as a settlement of the dispute. It was urged that the Government should use its influence to bring about a conference.

It was proposed that five pastoralists and five unionists, presided over by three Judges of the Supreme Court, should form a Court of Conciliation for the amicable settlement of the dispute.

In a letter from the Queensland Labourers' Union to the Queensland Pastoral Employers' Association, it is stated that the union does not entertain the thought of revising any of its resolutions, but intends to hold out to the bitter end.

At a meeting of Pastoralists in Brisbane yesterday, it was decided that as freedom of contract as agreed to at the Sydney Conference was not intended to include Chinese, Polynesian, or Asiatic labour, that the members of the associations be earnestly recommended to discontinue the further employment of this class of labour.

A notice of motion opposing any statutory limitation of labour has been given notice of by Mr. John Burns in the London Labour Council.

Word has been received in London corroborating our telegraphic message a few days ago from Auckland that New Zealand refuses to exhibit at the proposed permanent mining exhibition.

The Victorian revenue for last month amounted to £670,988, being an increase of £15,368 on February of last year.

The export of coal from Newcastle, during last week, amounted to 39,579 tons.

At Goulburn yesterday J. M. Druce, the absconding bank clerk, was brought before the Police Court, and remanded to Sydney.

An attempt has been made to burn down the Gundagai Mechanics' Institute.

With regard to the discontent among the men at work at the Bowral quarries, the manager received instructions to pay off all the men who did not go to work on Friday morning. All but eight returned to work.

Mr. J. L. Thompson, principal of the Agricultural College, has arrived in Richmond, and two large buildings have been secured by the department as temporary premises.

The strike of navvies on the railway duplication works between Liverpool and Campbelltown is expected to terminate early next week.

No one is to be allowed to enter the Yarrangobilly caves until they have been inspected by the Government Geologist. They are said to be of great beauty in parts, and beneath the central dome is a stalagmite 20ft. high.

With regard to the Moss Vale water supply, samples of water from each of the sources under consideration have been forwarded to the Board of Health for analysis.

A number of visitors yesterday inspected the rich vein of ore at the 280ft. level in the Australian Broken Hill Consols mine, and were struck with the size and richness of the deposit.

Speaking of the manufacture of iron in this colony, Mr. Lahiff, manager of the Mount Pleasant colliery, says that if iron is to be made in the colony it must be in a locality where cheap and suitable coal is available, and near the seaboard, or within a short distance by rail of a shipping place. These facilities are possessed by the Illawarra district.

At the opening of the Quarter Sessions yesterday at Braidwood there were no cases for trial, and his Honor Judge Murray was presented with a pair of white kid gloves.

Mr. P. H. Morton, M.L.A., addressed a crowded meeting of his constituents at Nowra on Thursday evening and received a good hearing.

The Bowral Cemetery question is still unsettled.

The Minister for Justice paid an official visit to Nowra yesterday, and inspected the various sites suggested for the new courthouse.

Sir John Coode's report was discussed at the meeting of the Wollongong Harbour Trust yesterday, and the engineer was instructed to prepare a contract or contracts. A deputation is to wait on the Colonial Treasurer to consult as to the best means of carrying out Sir John Coode's scheme.

The postal authorities demand a bond indemnifying them from loss before establishing telegraphic communication between Hartley Vale and Mount Victoria.

"The Colleen Bawn" will be produced at Her Majesty's to-night.

At the Federation Convention yesterday Mr. Barton advocated the Senate or Upper House, which had been attacked by Mr. Deakin on the previous day.

Mr. Barton favoured an Upper House after the fashion of the United States Senate, and regarded it as absolutely necessary that the second Chambers in the individual States as well as in the Federation should be elective.

Lord Jersey has been a daily attendant at the Convention, and Lady Jersey has paid several visits.

At the close of yesterday's sitting the Convention brought its first week to a close.

In the London docks there are about 8500 non-unionists at work.

The condition of the London money market is causing uneasiness in financial circles. Large blocks of securities are said to have been thrown upon the open market.

The Primate arrived at Mount Victoria yesterday, and was presented with several addresses.

The revival of protection in France and America, and the struggle at home between capital and labour, are spoken of by Lord Salisbury as two dark shadows looming in the distance in connection with the drawing up of commercial treaties with foreign countries.

At the Central Police Court yesterday Phineas Thompson was fined £100 for a breach of the Betting Houses Suppression Act, and William Edwards for a similar offence was fined £50.

The Western Australian delegates to the Convention, with Mr. Wrixon, left Melbourne yesterday by express for Sydney.

At the meeting of the Zoological Society yesterday it was reported that the lion Garfield is suffering from a pulmonary complaint, and is not expected to recover.

The R.M.S. Arcadia leaves to-day for London.

On Friday, March 20, the Headquarters Staff will move into camp at Campbelltown for the Easter encampment.

In the mining market yesterday Barrier scrip decreased in value.

The Customs revenue received yesterday amounted to £7381.

A letter of Mr. Houghton's, which we published the day before yesterday, gives additional evidence of the persistent determination of men belonging to what is called the Labour Party to regard the action of Governments in maintaining order and protecting personal liberty as a partisan interference antagonistic to labour and in the interest of capital. Writing as Secretary of the Trades and Labour Council, our correspondent admits in effect not only that the refusal to hear Mr. Bruce Smith the other night was to be traced to his supposed attitude towards labour during the late strike, but also that there were intelligent men amongst those who thus refused the hearing; and he says that the fact that such men would not listen "only tends in the direction of intensifying the popular feeling of righteous indignation against the present Government for its undisguised leniency towards capitalism during the recent great strike." The precise meaning of this sentence as a whole cannot quite easily be discerned, but volumes are contained in the accusation of "undisguised leniency towards capitalism," and the suggestion that taking public servants "to parade the streets like so many guerillas" (was the word Mr. Houghton intended to use "gorillas"?) in the garb of special constables "was to the danger of the public peace." We have here in different phraseology the same ideas that are set forth in the inflammatory telegrams, resolutions, and manifestoes that have been issued in connection with the armed rising in Queensland. The new creed seems to be that the duty of the Government is to use the forces of the State to make capital yield to the compulsion of labour, and that even to exhibit them for the protection of personal liberty and the preservation of order when the compulsory action of labour is interfered with thereby is an act of injustice or a crime.

The "leniency of the Government towards capitalism during the recent great strike" is one of those phrases which disclose the drift of the current of thought in the minds of the men who use them. There is no indication here even of a suspicion that possibly there might be two sides to the case. It is assumed at once that the capitalists were guilty of some public offence. How otherwise could the Government have been in a position to show leniency? The inference is that the Government ought to have exercised severity. But whence the authority, and on what ground? The capitalists broke no law; they threatened no one; they pursued their own business, and were passive in self-defence. Their relations towards the Government were not such as to make room or provide opportunity for the exercise of leniency or of severity on the part of the Government. The notorious fact is that the Government showed leniency to the other side—to the men who, by almost daily breaches of the law, had actually rendered themselves liable to treatment far more severe than they received.

The suggestion that the public peace was endangered by enrolling special constables for the preservation of the peace goes further down towards the roots of the matter. The question is not one affecting "the present Government" only. Any Government with even a faint perception of its duty to the public would be compelled thereby to adopt similar measures. The same charge has been made against the Government of Queensland. To send the lawfully armed forces of the State to watch the movements and prevent the threatened outrages of unlawful gatherings of armed men has been described as goading those men to the verge of civil war. The first purposes for which Governments exist are the preservation of public peace and order and the protection of lawful personal liberty against interference. There can be no danger to the public peace from the presence of peace officers. There is no goading to the verge of civil war in the use of means which make civil war an experiment too risky to be proceeded with. The effect of these charges is to direct attention to the side on which danger really lies. The men who make them speak with a certain sort of authority; and when they say that the presence of the special constables was a danger to the public peace, they confess that the thoughts of the men whose cause they advocate were running on breaches of the peace. When they say that the movements of the armed Government forces in Queensland goaded men to the verge of civil war, they practically admit that civil war was within the vision of the men who made warlike preparations. One question to be asked under the circumstances is, To what dangers would orderly and peaceful citizens have been exposed if these men, with violence and civil war at their fingers' ends, had been left free to do as they chose, without risk of interposition on the part of the constituted authorities? The Governments are entitled to gratitude not only from those whom their action may have saved from suffering violence, but also from those who, judging from the testimony of their friends, had within them a certain disposition towards the commission of acts of violence, which disposition was happily restrained.

A strange illusion seems to have taken possession of the minds of some men. In their view, apparently, in presence of a labour dispute or a strike, some of the ordinary laws of morality are suspended and the ordinary conditions of civilised life drop out of existence. The policeman on his peaceful beat does not excite their anger or make it hard for them to refrain from committing an assault. But the policeman on his peaceful beat is only the representative of the force of constables, ordinary or special, assembled in hundreds or thousands when the threatening attitude or action of as many strikers or their friends requires their presence for the preservation of liberty and order. The policeman on his beat is not a partisan of the capitalist. He is the representative and the guardian of law and order. Nor is there partisanship when the single policeman is multiplied by the hundred or the thousand, or supported by special reinforcements in service of the same cause. Any one of these men who complain of the action of the Government would claim the protection of the police if he were assaulted, or threatened, or interfered with by force when walking the streets or engaged in his lawful work; and every one of the free labourers who were threatened, or jeered at, or spat upon, or assaulted last year when engaged in or proceeding to or from their lawful work, had an equal claim to protection. The rule that applies to one applies to a thousand. If the threats of violence or the acts of violence come from hundreds or thousands, that does not lessen the right of each actual or threatened victim to the protection of the law. Of course, in the latter case, the protection of the law can only be afforded by making the number of the peace officers commensurate with the number of those by whom the preservation of the peace is threatened. But the interposition of the single policeman in the single case, which is admittedly an act of justice, does not become an act of partisanship when a strong force is employed to deal with a serious emergency. We observe that in some cases the complaints referred to are directed not so much against the Governments as against the laws they administer. A new and different law is called for. It is well to understand in good time that these demands point to mob-tyranny or to anarchy.

The typewriter as one of the time and labour saving inventions of the day is not the least characteristic sign of an epoch which has apparently set itself to reconsider the old methods and replace them wherever practicable by new ones. The efficacy of this particular invention has just been curiously recognised in a quarter not usually spoken lightly of as a stronghold of tradition and precedent. The courts of law are generally the last institutions to adopt any new-fangled expedients or what the enterprising New Englander would call "novelties," in their forms or processes, so that there is a kind of special significance of its own about that Judges' Order published the other day, authorising the use of the typewriter for the setting forth of issues of trial in causes at nisi prius. It has been formally directed that these issues shall be fairly typewritten on white foolscap paper, and, on the same being signed or stamped by the Prothonotary, shall be taken to be the record for the purposes of the trial. The use of the typewriter in this instance is not only authorised, indeed, but commanded, since a portion of the order from which we quote declares that if the issues be not filed in accordance with these rules the Prothonotary shall strike the cause out of the list for trial. To everyone but the engrossing clerk the new rule will be a boon. It will save time and expense, the sheets will be more easily read and handier for reference, and there will be a uniformity about the work that in itself should be a recommendation in the eyes of the Judges. As an official recognition of the typewriter it is unimpeachable, and it may be taken as a corrective of that quaint instance of the tyranny of rule and precedent shown in the rejection of a petition in the Assembly a little while ago because the unfortunate document was typewritten and not printed.

Those ingenious persons who give themselves up to bewildering calculations as to the amount of time a man of middle age may have spent in sleeping, fastening his collar-stud, playing at whist, or other equally exhilarating or improving occupations, might get some extraordinary results out of a consideration of the amount of time spent in writing nowadays. It is one of the signs of the stage of our civilisation that everyone writes more or less often, while the professional man is writing or having writing done for him all the time. In these days nearly everybody is a scrivener or a clerk, and if the "benefit of clergy" were extended to everybody whose facility with his pen would have anciently entitled him to that privilege, the letter of many an uncompromising law would long since have been inoperative. Half of the ordinary transactions of life and three-fourths of its business are done through the medium of those more or less decipherable scrawls on stamped or unstamped paper; we converse by letter, and we can hardly move without the assistance of pen and ink. It is startling to think of the immense quantity of time and effort that must be expended from year to year over this necessity of ours, and as the times grow more crowded and people get busier all this becomes a serious consideration. Hence the popularity of the typewriter. It is at once expeditious and efficacious. Its work is clear and easily decipherable. It makes writing take its proper place as a purely mechanical exercise. It saves the patience of the professional worker, to whom the act of writing is a serious encroachment on his time, and it ensures uniformity, which, to those who have to habituate themselves to the different styles of caligraphy peculiar to different correspondents or penmen in general, is always a blissful and comforting consideration. It is, therefore, not to be wondered at that since the typewriter was made workable in, 1873, it has come into such general use all over the world. It is true that its use will deprive us of that character in handwriting which in the letters of a friend or the manuscript of a famous author have a sentimental value which it is the fashion to say nothing can replace. But the grievance is not a genuine one; for no use of the typewriter, however general, will preclude the use of the pen-and-ink, while it may possibly have the effect of rendering it less commonplace, and its product consequently the more valuable.

As a sign of the times, the typewriter occupies as representative a place as the telegraph or the telephone. Like all the rest of the inventions that have revolutionised the methods and thoughts of man of late years, it is an outcome of the tendency to shift the centre of gravity from matter to mind, and leave thought free to exert itself, emancipated from the fetters of the concrete and material. Hence that habit of the infinitesimal division of labour into which we have fallen, by which each follows a process of natural selection of the work for which he is best fitted. The high-pressure conditions of modern life have a tendency to force the units and masses of humanity into those separate grooves of effort where the exercise of the powers they are able to bring to bear will produce the surest effect. In this way they tend to bring all sections of the social body into active play, so that the avenues of women's work are opening out from day to day with the same clearly-defined distinctness as those which invite the exercise of male labour. Now the typewriter, like the sewing-machine, is peculiarly a woman's instrument. It provides a suitable occupation for her facile and lissome fingers, while relieving her of the necessity of that sustained effort of thought for which, so far, something in her education or in her mental constitution seems to have unfitted her. It is hard to think of a statesman composing a political treatise, a lyrical bard bodying forth the airy melodies of his virelai or his chanson, or an epic poet building up a "Paradise Lost" or a "Divine Comedy," to the accompanying rattle of a typewriter! The loftier strains of thought, the creative impulse, and the finer graces of composition are apt to take to flight from such associations. One can hardly with equanimity picture Clio armed with a typewriting machine. But, fortunately for the peace of humanity, inspired writers and bards are rare, and the Muses have almost gone out of fashion. For the copyist, the correspondent, the law clerk, the reporter, and the thousand-and-one necessities that the slow pen laboriously serves, there is a future for the typewriter, and for those—women or others—who by patience and the cultivation of careful habits of orthography and composition will take the trouble to qualify themselves to use it.

The calm and temperate remarks of Sir George Grey in reply to the address of the "Single Tax League" should have that weight with his hearers which always attaches to the statements of so able and experienced a statesman. As he told them, he has been a student of the question of land tenure for many long years; he has been in intercourse with the greatest men who have made the subject their study, and can speak with the experience of one who has communed in confidential interchange of thought with John Stuart Mill, Henry George, and their peers, and he has the deepest sympathy with any cause that has for its object the amelioration of the condition of the least wealthy, and the relief of the pressure arising from the inequality in the distribution of wealth. He is also a believer in land taxation, but he tells the "single taxers" that "the time may come when the single tax you speak of may be a possibility, but I do not see myself any immediate prospect of such taking place; and I have never pledged myself to try to carry on any Government with which I was connected, by the single tax alone, in any country in which I have been." With quiet courtesy for the principles of those who had shown him so much kindness in their welcome, he added that he "had been told" that "in many parts of Australia it might be a success," but "in other less fortunate places"—meaning thereby any country in the world with which he had had the fortune to make acquaintance—"that happy stage has not yet been reached." An opinion more considerately, concisely, but forcibly put we could hardly imagine; and though the members of the Single-Tax League from their point of view were justified in extending a cordial welcome to the eminent statesman who has taken an advanced position on the land question, they have not succeeded in obtaining testimony from him as to the feasibility of a tax on land as the sole source of revenue for a State. Apart, however, from whatever views Sir George Grey may or may not hold on the taxing of the "unearned increment," the practical business of laying such heavy burthens on land tenure confronts us with insuperable difficulties, not the least of which is the multitude of people of comparatively humble means who would be made the principal sufferers. When we think of the numbers of the artisan and labouring classes who, in boom times, and even in times of quiet, in the land market, have bought allotments at comparatively high figures, and whose difficulty in meeting engagements still pending for the payment of the price of it would make a land tax intolerable to them, we must find in it an impregnable barrier, against which the most fervid land taxers would hurl themselves in vain. It is not necessary to discuss the higher questions of the equity or inequity of the principle. In the mass of people who are landholders, whose lands are not extensive, but constitute their very all, whose voices may never be heard on platforms, but who have votes and drop them quietly into the ballot-box, there is an insurmountable obstacle to the success of those who would penalise the possession of land, by heaping upon it all the burthens of the State.

Our cable messages yesterday included one conveying the satisfactory news that the waterside unions in London had decided to return to work, in order to remove the block in the shipping trade. This news had been foreshadowed by cablegrams on the two previous days, to the effect that the dockers who went out on strike were returning to work. It was being recognised that the Shipping Federation, through the aid of free labour were overcoming the block, being able to work 13 of the vessels lying in the Albert Docks. When the stevedores struck at these docks on the 11th February, there was every appearance of the strike assuming dimensions which would extend to every port in Kingdom, and involve 140,000 men, including seamen, dockers, coal-lumpers, stevedores, and lightermen. It did not go quite so far as that, although vessels were blocked at Hull and Glasgow, where the unionists refused to work with the free men. The Cardiff strike was of prior occurrence, having begun on the 5th February, 3000 men going out. The disputes in the various places were closely connected. The chief element of discord in all was the question of the rights of the shipowners to employ free men on such terms as they chose. Practically the question of freedom of contract was the groundwork of the whole trouble. The incidents of the long strike are numerous and of a sufficiently painful character to make every one glad that they are terminated. As usual in prolonged strikes there was fighting. There was even the use of firearms, though it would appear they were only loaded with blank cartridges. Both sides gathered their forces together as much as possible. Never before had capitalists combined so largely to meet an attack. The shipowners of Liverpool, representing 3,000,000 tons joined the London shipowners, and together 7,000,000 tons out of a total of 9,000,000 tons of shipping was federated to uphold their cause. This doubtless had very much to do with the settlement of the strike. The labour councils did not fight with the same unanimity as the shipping federation. There was division among them on various points. Threats were used freely enough as to a more general strike, but ultimately wiser counsels prevailed, and as the funds were not plentiful, and no response was made to suggestions that Australia should contribute, the struggle has come to an end, at all events so far as the London docks are concerned, more quickly than it might otherwise have done. As the Cardiff strikers are appealing to the Shipping Federation to arrange a settlement, we may hope that the trouble will be terminated at the Welsh ports as well as in London.

The appointment of a capable and tried musician to the post of City Organist in the person of M. Wiegand, as announced at the last meeting of the City Council, will relieve the public mind. It was not well that the citizens should grow accustomed to the idea of a silent city organ of potentialities so abnormal that it was hardly considered safe, to allow anybody to play upon it. And yet the question of selection was not one to be lightly passed over. As we pointed out in a recent comment on this aspect of the question, there were several very important issues to be considered in arriving at a suitable decision. The organ recitals at the Town Hall, it was very generally felt, should be at once recreative and educative. There was also a feeling that in making the selection there should be no fancied or implied slight upon local musical talent, while at the same time it was recognised that in the attempt to avoid this Charybdis the selection committee should not fall into the Scylla of a narrow provincialism, and exclude a really sound and eligible organist simply because he did not happen to be a local man. It was with these points well in view that the committee entered upon the very delicate task of selection, and now that the choice has been made it is pleasant to see that the conclusion has been arrived at without leaving any unpleasant sense of friction after it. M. WIEGAND has proved his capacity, and from all appearances the city will be fortunate if it secure his services. In the event of a hitch a contingent organist has been named in the person of Mr. FRANK IDLE, and we may now regard this difficult matter as satisfactorily closed.

THE following particulars have been supplied to us relative to the physique of the delegates to the Federation Convention. The average height of the 37 delegates is 5ft. 11 5-6in. Fourteen out of the 37 are 6ft. and upwards. The two tallest delegates are Messrs. Abbott and Dibbs, who are each 6ft. 4in. The average weight of the 37 is 13st 13lb—the heaviest delegate being Mr. Playford, who is 18st 7lb; another delegate is 18st, another 17st 10lb, and another 17st 3lb.

THE Mayor and the Mayoress have issued invitations to the Federation delegates to attend the next Liedertafel concert, to be given on March 1; also to join a party at the Criterion Theatre March 13, and subsequently to partake of supper at the Town Hall. On Monday the quarterly meeting of the City Council will be held, and the Mayor has invited the delegates to be present at the quarterly Mayoral lunch.

As already announced, the presentation of an address of welcome from former residents of New Zealand to Sir George Grey, will take place this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Town Hall. Although the address is signed only by old New Zealanders, and will be presented in their name, the promoters of the movement intend that the occasion shall be an entirely public one, and all colonists, ladies as well as gentlemen are equally invited with New Zealanders to attend.

YESTERDAY Mr. Bruce Smith (Minister for Public Works) accepted the tender of Messrs. Parry and Farley for constructing a double line of railway, 2 miles 6 chains 30 links in length, from the present terminus of the North Shore line to Milson's Point. The cost of this work, according to the tenderers' quotation, will be £69,568 18s 2d. Mr. Bruce Smith also accepted Mr. Justin M'Sweeney's tender for the extension of the cable tramway on the North Shore from its present terminus to Lane Cove-road. The amount of the tenders made up from schedule prices, is £17,439 2s. 8d.

WITH reference to the statements printed in a letter written by Mr. Houghton, the secretary to the Trades Hall Council, concerning the administration of the Public Works Department, Mr. Bruce Smith, the Minister, is having a return prepared which will show that there is no foundation for the assertions made.

MR. J. W. TAVERNER, M.L.A., of Victoria, accompanied by Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. Lakeman, M.L.A., interviewed the Minister for Works yesterday in reference to the proposed erection of a bridge over the Murray at Swan Hill. It was explained that the Victorian Government was prepared to pay a moiety of the cost of the bridge, and it only now remained for the New South Wales Government to join. After the matter had been fully discussed Mr. Bruce Smith agreed, on behalf of the New South Wales Government, to join the Victorian Government in the construction of the bridge, and he will have plans and specifications prepared without delay for submission to the Victorian Government for its approval. On receipt of the same tenders will be called for by the Public Works Department of New South Wales for the construction of the bridge. It is estimated that the bridge will cost £10,000.

MR. EDDY, the Chief Commissioner for Railways, will return to Sydney on Monday, after a month's holiday tour in New Zealand. The Chief Commissioner is a passenger on board the Union Steamship Company's steamer Te Anau.

THE Railway Commissioners have accepted the tender of Messrs. Parry and Farley for the erection of an engine-shed at Hurstville, the price being £683. Hurstville is the suburban terminus on the Illawarra railway line, and to expedite and economise traffic the Commissioners have seen the necessity of providing shelter for two engines. The shed in question is for that purpose.

IN connection with the Narrabri Show, to be held on the 12th, 13th, and 14th instant the Railway Commissioners have arranged for the issue of holiday excursion tickets from Sydney, Tenterfield, and intermediate stations, commencing with the mail train leaving either end of the Northern line on Tuesday next, and continuing by all trains timed to arrive at Narrabri up to 10.40 a.m. on Saturday, the 14th instant. These tickets will be available for return until Saturday, the 21st instant. For the convenience of passengers returning from the show, a special train will leave Narrabri at 7.30 a.m. on Friday, the 13th instant, for Baan Baa, Boggabri, and Gunnedah.

THE Railway Commissioners are completing their arrangements in view of the increased passenger traffic during the Easter holidays, and will run a series of special cheap excursion trains to and from the country. The first of these will leave Sydney at 4.30 p.m. on Tuesday, the 17th instant, for Goulburn, Cooma, Cowra, Gundagai, Hay, Jerilderie, Albury and intermediate stations on the Southern line; a similar train, conveying passengers from the same stations, leaving Albury at 2.45 p.m. on the following day. The Western train will leave Sydney at 4.30 p.m. on the 18th, conveying excursionists to the Blue Mountains, Mudgee, Cowra, Molong, Bourke, and intermediate stations; a similar train conveying passengers from the same stations to Sydney, leaving Bourke at 8.45 a.m. on the 19th instant. The Northern train will leave Sydney at 4.30 p.m. on the 19th for Newcastle, Narrabri, Tenterfield, Jennings, and intermediate stations; a similar train, conveying passengers from the same stations to Sydney, leaving Jennings at 8 a.m. on the 20th instant. The tickets issued in connection with these trains will be available for return by ordinary train within a fortnight from date of issue, so that the excursionists will be able to spend the Easter holidays in the country or in the city, as the case may be.

ALREADY 21 residential students for the Hawkesbury Agricultural College at Ham Common have been accepted by the Minister for Mines and Agriculture. An attempt is to be made to provide accommodation for three or four more. The Minister has also received several applications for the admission of non-resident students; but so far no selection of this class has been made. The students will leave Sydney for their temporary home at Richmond on Tuesday morning. They will be received by Mr. Thompson, the principal of the college, who has written to the Minister expressing satisfaction at the accommodation to be provided at Richmond until the college itself is erected. Competitive designs of the proposed new building are to be invited next week. On Wednesday next Mr. Sydney Smith will visit Richmond and inspect the premises to be temporarily used as a college. He will also briefly address the students. Mr. James Wright, the horticulturist, and Mr. Adam Brooks, the foreman carpenter, have assumed the duties of their respective positions. Miss P. Jewel Oliver, has also been appointed matron of the institution.

IN connection with the numerous shows and other popular gatherings which will be held in the country during the next few weeks, the Railway Commissioners have arranged for the issue of holiday excursion tickets from all the stations at which any increase of passenger traffic may reasonably be anticipated. Thus on the occasion of the show at Cowra on Tuesday and Wednesday next, tickets at holiday excursion rates, and available for return until the 14th instant, will be issued at Bathurst, Orange, Harden, and intermediate stations on the Western line. Similar tickets, available for return until the 18th instant, will be issued at Wallerawang, Bumberra, and intermediate stations, for Mudgee, where a Friendly Society's demonstration will be held upon a grand scale on Wednesday next. In connection with the Glen Innes show on Wednesday and Thursday holiday excursion tickets, available for return until the 19th instant, will be issued at Walcha-road, Jennings, and intermediate stations on the Northern line. The Tenterfield show on the 18th 19th, and 20th instant, promises to be very largely attended by visitors from both sides of the border. Holiday excursion tickets, available until Thursday, the 26th instant, will be issued from Walcha-road, Jennings, and intermediate stations, commencing on the 17th instant, and terminating with the trains reaching Tenterfield at 2.25 p.m. on the 20th instant.

REGARDING the cessation of work at the Bowral quarries by the quarrymen employed under the Railway Department, it may be stated that about half the number of workmen returned to work yesterday morning. In accordance with the instructions issued by the Commissioners the men who did not resume work were paid off.

THE matriculation examination will begin on Monday, March 9. The number of candidates who have entered is 266, including 56 women. Fourteen candidates have entered for the entrance examination for medicine and science. In 1890 there were 245 candidates for the matriculation examination, including 51 women, and six for the entrance examination for medicine and science. The honour examinations and deferred pass examinations for University students will also commence on March 9. The number of candidates is 244, including 32 women, making a total of 524 candidates to be examined. The examination of all male candidates for matriculation and for the entrance examination for medicine and science will be held in the Exhibition Building, Prince Alfred Park, from Monday, March 9, to Wednesday, March 11, inclusive. On Thursday, March 12, and during the remaining days the examinations will be held at the University. The examination of female candidates will take place wholly at the University.

MR. JAMES GORDON LEGGE, M.A. and LL.D., of the Sydney University, and Mr. Wilfred Haythorne Edgar, M.A., of Balliol College, Oxford (associate to Mr. Justice Stephen), were admitted to the Bar of New South Wales yesterday.

THE pupils of the Superior Public School, Canterbury, have presented Miss Flora and Miss Clara Ferguson, two of the teachers of the school, with a handsome present each on the occasion of their removal from the Canterbury school to the Leichhardt and Liverpool schools respectively. The presentation was made by the headmaster, Mr. R. B. Parry, sen., who expressed his regret at losing the recipients, and bore testimony to the useful work done by them during their term of office at Canterbury.

A MEETING of the council of the Agricultural Society of New South Wales took place yesterday afternoon in Tattersall's-buildings, Hunter and Castlereagh streets, when the following gentlemen were present:—Messrs. F. Harvey, treasurer (in the chair), G. S. Yeo, Arthur Bowman, A. J. Gray, Evan Jones, F. M'Donald, J. H. Sullivan, J. P. Wilson, B. Foley, Captain A. J. Dodds, and the secretary, Mr. F. Webster. The treasurer's weekly balance-sheet was read and adopted, after which the stewards for the forthcoming show were appointed, and a number of judges for each section of exhibits nominated. The Railway Commissioners, it was stated, had this year agreed to allow 30 passes for the judges, whereas last year only 10 were granted. Mr. Evan Jones, who gave notice of the following motion some few weeks ago, asked that it be restored to the business paper, it having lapsed at the last meeting owing to his absence:—"That the society's ground be lighted by electricity at the time of the forthcoming show." The question will be discussed at the next meeting.

THE Darlington Council has decided, on the motion of Alderman Hawken, M.L.A., to request the Tramway Department to have the name "Darlington" placed upon the trams that run to Dulwich Hill. The mover said that Darlington was the end of the first section of the Newtown-Marrickville tram line. The name being placed upon the trams would enable persons to find the borough, and would also be an advantage to the ratepayers and residents. The Mayor said that the next move would be for another council to apply for the extension of the first section to Missenden-road.

A TELEPHONIC fire alarm is to be asked for by the St. Peters Council, on the motion of Alderman R. H. Judd, to be established at Cook's River. The council has also decided to ask when Barwon Park will be dedicated to the council. Also, to ascertain the measurement of Cook's River-road, from Campbell to May streets, with a view to obtaining the exact cost of wood-blocking that portion.

THE low pressure of gas supplied to the borough of Camperdown was brought under notice by Alderman Roberts at the last council meeting. He moved, and it was agreed, "That a letter be written to the Australian Gaslight Company complaining of the low pressure of gas supplied to the street lights in portions of this borough, and asking for the immediate attention to this complaint."

THE Rev. H. G. Gladstone-Hawke, curate of St. John's, Parramatta, has been appointed minor canon and headmaster of the choir school, St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne.

THE Rev. C. J. Byng delivered a lecture entitled "Eccentricities," in St. Paul's school-room, Burwood, on Monday evening last, in connection with St. Paul's Literary and Debating Association. In the absence of the Mayor, the Rev. T. R. Begg presided. The lecture evidently gave satisfaction to the audience. A vote of thanks, moved by Mr. Bethune, and seconded by Mr. Lindsay Thompson, was accorded the lecturer at the close.

THE monthly meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held on Wednesday afternoon last in the Temperance Hall, Pitt-street. The attendance was good, and there were some officers from suburban branches present. The president (Miss Hogg) occupied the chair. A letter from Lady Jersey was read, thanking the members of the union for the kindly welcome written to her on her arrival in New South Wales. Long discussion ensued re the tent for Easter Monday, also the coming Melbourne Convention. Mrs. Crane, the superintendent of the temperance evangelists, reported upon the work of the probationer. It was considered highly satisfactory, especially as Miss Wright has been in ill-health. She was unanimously elected. Mrs. Bowes reported the work of the soup rooms, and stated what a boon the place had been to many needy ones, as they often get spiritual help as well as food. Mrs. Heenan reported work amongst boys of the jockey class, who thankfully received literature from her on a Sunday afternoon. Miss Hogg suggested a line of work for some in attending to an advertisement that appeared a day or two back—two young ladies seeking a situation as barmaids. She at once wrote them a letter, asking them to consider well before they entered upon such a career. At the close of the meeting many ladies offered to give monthly donations towards the salary of the temperance evangelists.

THE anniversary celebrations in connection with the Ashfield Wesleyan Church took place last Sunday and Monday. On Sunday Rev. Rainsford Bavin preached in the morning, and Rev. George Campbell in the evening, the congregation being large on each occasion. The annual social on Monday was a great success. The Rev. John Clifton, Rev. John Gardiner, and others, gave appropriate addresses, and a pleasing selection of anthems, &c., by the choir, added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening. The financial result of the anniversary meetings was satisfactory. Special services have been held in the church lately, with gratifying results, and during the year over £800 has been raised by special effort.

DR. CARVER's spectacular demonstration of wild American life at Moore Park continues to draw large crowds of spectators, and to excite the wonder of the onlookers. To-day there will be a new programme. Dr. Carver will endeavour to shoot 200 glass balls thrown into the air in the space of six minutes. It is also announced that 10 wild bullocks will be let loose in the arena, and lassoed, roped, and ridden by wild American cowboys and Australian rough riders. New buckjumping horses will be introduced and lassoed. There is also to be an Indian steeplechase and an exhibition of high jumping. There are performances in the afternoon and evening.

THE Alhambra has been well attended during the week, and full justice has been done to the good programme submitted. Last night the performance was witnessed by a full house, and the various items were well received. Mr. Taylor's song "Johnny, get your Gun," and Mr. Cowan's "Orchestral Rehearsals" caused much amusement, and Messrs. Delowery, Taylor, Cowan, and Holland kept up a running fire of witticisms and anecdotes. On Monday a new programme will be submitted.

THE Cyclorama continues to hold a prominent place in the amusements of the city. The vivid representation of the stirring events in connection with the momentous campaign that began in 1861 and lasted for four and a half years still furnishes a charm for visitors. The Cyclorama is constantly being improved by the addition of new features. It has now a good organ and organist, and the musical part of the programme adds greatly to the enjoyment. The Cyclorama will, on the 18th of this month, complete the second year of existence. Last night a continuous stream of visitors was to be seen going in. Mr. Beresford, in a chatty manner, narrates the chief incidents connected with the Battle of Gettysburg, and this description is listened to with interest.

IN connection with the recent discovery of new caves in the limestone formation at Yarrangobilly, particulars show that the old Yarrangobilly or Glory Hole Caves, situated on the Snowy Mountains, and distant about 45 miles from Tumut and 15 from Kiandra, have been known for the last 50 years, but owing to the difficulty of reaching the spot from either mountain side, the interest centred in them has been purely local. About 12 months ago Mr. Kerry, found his way to the caves and made a large series of photographs of the imposing dome entrance and various mammoth chambers; and his description of the grand mountain scenery en route, eventually induced Messrs. Thos. Cook and Sons to send their Sydney manager, Mr. Cunningham, to inspect the locality with a view of ascertaining its suitability as a tour route. Mr. E. G. Brown, the Mayor of Tumut, with a few of the residents, took the matter up warmly, and arranged for the necessary vehicles to conduct a party from Gundagai through Tumut Valley, over the mountains via the Caves, Kiandra and Adaminaby to Cooma, a distance of 130 miles. Messrs. Cunningham and Kerry and others, under the guidance of Mr. Brown, formed the party, who were provided with strong ropes and equipped with everything necessary for cave exploring. After arrival at the caretaker's cottage at Yarrangobilly, the old caves were inspected, and a start was made to examine some of the numerous holes which exist in the locality. About 200 yards above the old caves a small hole was found dipping at a sharp angle into the mountain. The passage, which was about 4ft. wide at the entrance, closed in very much, and it was with difficulty that it could be followed. After traversing about 150ft. a strong current of air was noticeable, passing through a small opening into a very extensive chamber, access to which could only be gained by rope. A member of the party was accordingly lowered until, at a depth of 25ft., a ledge with good foothold was met with. Thirty feet below this numerous passages were found branching in all directions. One of these passages was followed for a distance of 100 yards, and it led into a chamber with extraordinary and beautiful formations. Here also were noticeable numbers of distorted and curly formations of the oldest and most curious shapes. Retracing their steps to the main chamber, the party next tried another passage leading in the opposite direction. This opened into a succession of caves on about the same level, running east for nearly 500 yards. In one of the first chambers a stalagmite column of purest white was found to be 18ft. in height, and only 5in. in diameter. It reached to within a foot of the roof. In another chamber the floor is occupied by a shallow basin, from which the water has disappeared, leaving in its place masses of giant crystals of the fantastical shapes. Other unique formations not previously found in limestone abound here, and every few yards disclose something new. At the extreme end the chambers terminate in a lofty cave with a dome roof. What a vast field for exploration exists in this district will be understood when it is explained that holes similar to the one tried may be found in scores over nearly 10 miles of lime-stone country. The whole of this locality will probably prove to be a succession of caves.

A SOCIAL gathering of the employees of Messrs. John Sands and Co. was held last night at the Sydney Catering Company's rooms, the occasion being the presentation of the prizes won at their first aquatic carnival, held on the Lane Cove River about a week ago. Mr. W. Bilderwell, the oldest employee, presided, and there was a large gathering, including several friends. A pleasant evening was spent. The prizes presented were: Double sculls, Messrs. C. Nicholl and A. Bluhdorn; pair oar in pleasure boats, Messrs. T. Rowe and J. Styles; and single sculls handicap, Mr. A Bluhdorn. A prize of a gold medal was offered by Mrs. Sands for the championship, but the race fell through for the want of sufficient entries, but it is proposed to offer the gold medal and a second prize to be rowed for during next month. It is also contemplated that on the occasion of the next annual carnival, if sufficient support is obtained, to offer a prize for the championship of the trade. Thanks were given to the donors of prizes and the press.

THE estimated population of Victoria, according to Mr. Hayter, was on December 31, 1890, 607,773 males, 540,221 females, or a total of 1,147,994. If allowance be made for the probable number of unrecorded departures in 1890, the net increase of population during that year will be reduced to 29,966, viz., 13,975 males and 15,991 females. The registered births numbered 37,492, and the registered deaths 17,945, in 1890; thus the former exceeded the latter by 19,547, or 109 per cent. The births exceeded those in 1889 by 1133, but the deaths were fewer than those in 1889 by 1447. The recorded arrivals by sea numbered 79,777, and the recorded departures by sea 63,820, in 1890. The gain to the population by excess of the former over the latter was thus apparently 15,957. The number, however, must be reduced by an allowance for unrecorded departures, estimated to amount to 5538, which brings the probable net gain by immigration down to 10,419. From the period of the census of 1881 to the end of 1890 the whole reduction made for supposed unrecorded departures has been 52,767. Had no such reduction been made, the population at the end of 1890 would apparently have amounted to 1,200,761. The gain by excess of births over deaths in 1890 was greater than that in 1889 by 2580, and by 1331 than in 1888. The gain by excess of recorded arrivals over recorded departures in 1890 was less than in 1889 by 207, than in 1888 by 25,846, than in 1887 by 6069, or than in 1886 by 9345, but was greater than in 1885 and preceding years. In 1890 the recorded arrivals from were greater than the departures for Tasmania by 6948, New South Wales and Queensland by 4034, the United Kingdom by 3502, foreign countries by 1596, and New Zealand and the South Seas by 1299. On the other hand, the recorded departures for South and Western Australia exceeded the recorded arrivals therefrom by 1422.

THE house rubbish disposal trouble was broached by the Mayor of the Glebe at the last council meeting. He said that by next meeting he hoped to be able to submit a scheme to destroy the refuse by fire. No matter where it might be decided to erect a desiccator or destructor in the borough, no nuisance would be caused by it. The whole of the smoke and effluvia would be passed through a furnace and so be destroyed. Some 368 loads of this festering, fever-breeding stuff had to be disposed of monthly in the borough. It was nearly time that they took steps to see what they could do with this, one of the greatest problems the council had to deal with, and he hoped that he would have the aldermen's assistance.

The Centenary Hall Boys' Club, Clarence-street, was again the scene of an enlivening entertainment on Thursday evening. A pleasing programme had been prepared by Mrs. Bissell and friends, and the various parts were clearly fully appreciated by the members and their friends.

OWING to a severe cold, Mr. Justice Stephen sat yesterday morning as a member of the Full Court at considerable inconvenience, and after the luncheon hour the Chief Justice expressed his regret that his Honor was unable to resume his seat. For that reason the further hearing of Ford v. the Australian Agricultural Company, and Re Thomas Broughton (Chappell and Campbell, caveators) was postponed, and it was announced that a special sitting would be fixed for disposing of these matters after next week.

Two municipal matters were brought under the notice of the Full Court yesterday, the object in each case being to oust elected aldermen. In the first case J. S. H. Haddock sought to obtain a rule nisi for a writ of quo warranto to remove John Hanlon and James Crane, members of the Raymond Terrace Borough Council, on the ground that an unauthorised person was allowed in the polling-room during the voting, and was also permitted to count the voting papers. The Court, however, refused the rule, being of opinion that the affidavits were insufficient. In the second case, William Chanter Forster sought to oust James Coward from the position of alderman of North Botany, for various alleged informalities in the voting, and the rule was granted, returnable next Term. A rule nisi was obtained by John T. Holy, calling upon H. B. Fitzhardinge, solicitor, of Wagga Wagga, to answer certain allegations contained in Holy's affidavit charging omission to send forward an appeal to the Privy Council as directed. To-day will be the last day of Term, and the sittings for the hearing of causes will be commenced in three courts on Monday.

THE principal matter considered by the Full Court yesterday was the report of the Prothonotary upon a bill of costs of Mr. P. H. Sullivan, submitted for taxation by the Oakey Park Coal-mining Company. It appears that Mr. Sullivan acted as solicitor of the company in promoting the passage of its bill through Parliament for the construction of a private line from its mine to connect with the Western Railway. Among other items explanatory of his charges was the payment of £25 and £10 10s to Mr. Frank Smith, one of the members for Balmain, and there was also the following item, "Attending members, paying their expenses for loss of time, letters, messages, telegrams, wires, &c., £100." The Prothonotary struck out these three matters, and submitted a report on the subject to the Court, who called upon Mr. Sullivan for an explanation. This was furnished yesterday, and with regard to the payments to Mr. Smith, Mr. Sullivan pointed out that they were made to defray the expenses of Mr. Smith and other members of Parliament in going to Oakey Park and inspecting the locality. With reference to the £100, Mr. Sullivan explained that no portion of that amount had been paid to any member of Parliament, and that it was included in the bill of costs under instructions from the company to meet any future claims for expenses that might be sent in by members who had visited Oakey Park in the interests of the bill. In no case, he said, was money paid for anything beyond fair expenses and loss of time, and if he had erred in connection with the matter he had done so unwittingly, as he was unconscious of any impropriety in his share of the transaction. The Court, while expressing its displeasure at Mr. Sullivan's conduct, thought that as the impropriety charged was probably the result of inadvertence, or want of knowledge, it would not be justified under the circumstances, in taking severer measures. The Chief Justice, however, in delivering the judgment of the Court, said he had no hesitation in stating that Mr. Sullivan was a party to giving a bribe to a Member of Parliament, and was, therefore, party to a distinct misdemeanour at common law.

AT the Water Police Court yesterday the young man John L. M'Clintock, who it will be remembered was arrested on the 28th February, was brought up on two charges of forging cheques on the National Bank of Australasia for the sum of £20. Accused until recently occupied a position in that bank as ledgerkeeper, and his defalcations are alleged to amount in the aggregate to £476 1s. After hearing the evidence accused pleaded guilty, and was remanded to the next Quarter Sessions. The second charge was withdrawn.

THE sentence in Mr. Lovegrove's evidence before the Parliamentary Standing Committee on Public Works which reads "he thought that a line could be constructed from Jervis Bay to Kiama for about £5000" should read "he thought that a line could be constructed, &c., for about £5000 per mile."

SPECIAL services in connection with the Conference of the Wesleyan Church, now in session, will be held in the William-street Church to-morrow, when the Rev. J. Thomas, from England, will preach in the morning; and the Rev. J. A. Nolan, of Queensland, in the evening.

A SPECIAL consecration meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. Hall to-night, when the Rev. S. Chapman, of Melbourne, and the lady missionaries on their way to China, will give addresses.

THE following is the order of the musical services at St. Andrew's Cathedral to-morrow:—Morning: Benedicite Anthem, "Blessed be the God and Father" (Wesley). Afternoon: Magnificat, Stainer in A; anthem, "How lovely are Thy dwellings fair" (Spohr); Litany (Tallis).

THE LATE HON. DAVID BEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

ADELAIDE, FRIDAY.

A meeting of the committee in connection with the perpetuation of the memory of the late Hon. David Bews was held this afternoon. The Mayor, Mr. L. Cohen, presided. A letter was read from the brother of Mrs. Bews stating that Mrs. Bews would willingly accept whatever decision the committee arrived at so long as it was not proposed to give her money collected. The Hon. Mr. Jenkins, Minister of Education, strongly urged that a fund should be established for the educational benefit of the children of the late Minister. Sir Edwin Smith moved,—"That a fund be established, to be known as the Bews Memorial Fund, the moneys of which shall be vested in two trustees, and the interest of which shall be devoted to the education and advancement of the family of the late Mr. Bews, the principal to be divided amongst the children at such time as the trustees shall think fit." Mr. R. K. Thomas seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously. The general opinion was expressed that now the movement had taken a definite form for the benefit of the family subscriptions would flow in, as numbers of gentlemen had promised sums of money, large and small, to go to the advancement of the family.

THE NARBETHONG MURDER.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

In connection with the Narbethong murder the case against the murderer is practically complete, and the inquiry has now resolved itself into a search for the perpetrator. A strong piece of evidence is the two pieces of brown paper of different sizes found near Davis's body, the smaller piece being spotted with blood, which were found to be of the same texture and to fit exactly a piece of brown paper found in a room occupied by Colston at the Narbethong Hotel.

THE CHINESE MURDER IN WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

ANOTHER VICTIM DEAD.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

PERTH, FRIDAY.

At York yesterday an inquest was held on the body of Ah Gin, a Chinaman, who was killed by Hi Ki Hong with an axe on Tuesday. It appeared that the murderer went out to where some sick Chinese lay sleeping, and attacked two of the number, whom he left for dead. He then searched for Ah Gin, whom he found and struck with the axe. Ah Gin asked the white man in charge to protect him. The white man, who was a cripple, advised him to run away, which he did, followed by Hi Ki Hong, who struck him down with the axe, one blow nearly severing the head from the body. Several Chinamen were looking on paralysed. The jury returned a verdict of murder against Hi Ki Hong.

Since the inquest one of the two remaining Chinamen has died from his wounds. The other is in a very critical condition.

THE PRIMATE AT MOUNT VICTORIA.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

MOUNT VICTORIA, FRIDAY.

The Primate arrived this morning, and was received at St. Peter's Church by the incumbent, churchwardens, and others. Addresses were presented on behalf of the vestry and the general public. The Primate suitably responded, and he afterwards visited the local schools, and in the afternoon he proceeded to Hartley to visit the church, the kerosene village, and Public school.

VISIT OF THE MINISTER FOR JUSTICE TO NOWRA.

SITE FOR THE NEW COURT-HOUSE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NOWRA, FRIDAY.

Mr. Gould, Minister for Justice, paid an official visit to Nowra to-day, accompanied by the Sheriff (Mr. Charles Cowper), and was shown the various sites suggested for the new court-house. The Mayor (Mr. Robert Patterson) and a number of the aldermen accompanied him on his visit of inspection. Mr. Gould, before leaving, said he would decide on the matter as early as possible, and would give due weight to the representations made.

THE YARRANGOBILLY CAVES.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

TUMUT, FRIDAY.

The caretaker of the Yarrangobilly caves has received instructions from the authorities in Sydney to allow no one to enter the newly-discovered caves until they have been inspected by the Government Geologist, and arrangements made for protecting portions of the more beautiful formations. The tourist party who were at Kiandra yesterday have not yet returned. In a letter they describe the discovery as one worth travelling from the other end of the world to see. Mr. C. H. Kerry, of Sydney, was the first to set foot in the new cave. For 800 yards the cave is a mass of stalactites and stalagmites of fantastic shapes and beautiful colours. By the aid of the magnesium lamp vistas a hundred yards in length are visible, with crystal flower-beds and magnificent shawl formations. Beneath the central dome is a stalagmite 20ft. high, with a pointed summit. It has been christened "Cleopatra's Needle."

LARGE MEETING AT CLERMONT.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CLERMONT, THURSDAY.

A mass meeting of unionists was held here to-night, about 600 unionists and 300 to 400 towns-people being present. On the extemporised platform were the principal union leaders, also the Rev. W. E. Hilliers. The chair was occupied by Mr. Benno Bear, J.P., one of three magistrates who a few weeks ago signed a requisition for calling out the Defence Force. The chairman mentioned that, as the unionists are being unduly dealt with, it was the duty of every citizen to see fair play between capital and labour. He advocated arbitration for the settlement of the dispute, and said it was the duty of the Government first to use their influence to bring about a conference; but if not, then arbitration should be resorted to. Five pastoralists and five unionists, presided over by three Judges of the Supreme Court, should form a Court of Conciliation for the amicable settlement of the dispute.

Mr. GEORGE TAYLOR, the well-known union delegate, was the principal speaker. He contended that the Government proclamation was a disgrace to the country. It was not they who should be disarmed, but the squatters, their employees, and free labourers. When free labourers were coming up from Melbourne, before they landed they were handed revolvers and instructed to drill holes through any men who spoke to them, or something to that effect. It gave him great pleasure that the men had not laid down their arms. Had they done so he would have considered them a lot of skunks. The unionists carried arms, some in pursuit of their lawful occupations as scalpers, others for the purpose of procuring game for food when they could not get squatters' store-keepers (as often happened) to sell them any rations. Their side had committed no breach of the peace; it was left to the other side to do that. He referred to the large meeting held that day at Sandy Creek camp, and the feeling expressed to stand firm by the principles of unionism and fight this matter in a constitutional manner. They were bound to come out on top. The great remedy for their grievances, and the best one, was the ballot-box. It was only through the ballot-box that permanent reforms were effected. Let them bring forward labour candidates, and they need not resort to firearms. He spoke in bitter terms of police magistrates, who he said, were men who, having tried everything in life and failed, were made police magistrates. Freedom of contract meant giving the squatters power to tyrannise over their fellow men. Signing the pastoralists' agreement was signing away their liberty.

Mr. JACKSON, one of the delegates, moved a resolution to the effect that the Government should be condemned for ordering men to lay down their arms and disperse without a breach of the peace being committed. The chairman declared the resolution carried unanimously.

Mr. HAMILTON moved a motion antagonistic to Mr. Murphy, member for the Barcoo. This was also carried unanimously.

Mr. J. A. STUART moved, "That the unionists stand firm to maintain the fundamental principles of unionism by constitutional means." He said they relied, in a great measure, on public sympathy, and they wanted the public to make their sympathy a bit active, and "put a little devil in it." They were going to win the day or die. It amounted to this. They could die at any time they liked to start the ball rolling. Some of them had considered it right out to the final scene. The only thing that deterred them was that a great many innocent people would suffer. But they were not going to wait till eternity for this sympathy to come about. Though the ballot-box was the remedy, it would take a very long time to alter the present misrepresentations. He severely criticised Bishop Dawes's pulpit utterances at Rockhampton last Sunday.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

Mr. GEORGE IRELAND spoke of the Peak Downs Carriers' Union, stating that the carriers did not intend carrying non-union wool.

Mr. J. B. M'DONALD followed, with an attack on the private life of the secretary of the Pastoralists' Association.

The Rev. Mr. HILLIER did what he called the Doxology part of the business by proposing a vote of thanks to the chairman.

Mr. TAYLOR, in seconding the motion, said he advised unionists to keep cool and sober, and they must win.

The meeting wound up with cheers for the chairman, union delegates, citizens on the platform, and Mr. Glassey, with groans for the Premier, the police, the Government, Messrs. Murphy and Fairbairn and another.

Mr. Stuart's speech was the most violent utterance of the evening. Excellent order prevailed.

A torchlight procession as far as the Queen's Hotel followed, and a vast majority returned quietly to the camp.

THE PASTORALISTS' REPLY TO THE LABOUR MANIFESTO.

ROCKHAMPTON, FRIDAY.

The pastoralists' executive now in Rockhampton have forwarded the following reply in a letter to the Rockhampton Bulletin, in answer to the manifesto issued by the Labour Council:—"A series of statements emanating from the council of the Australian Labour Federation was published in your issue of 4th instant. As those statements appear to us to be entirely misleading, we ask you to publish our reply, which will place before the public the plain facts of the case. The first statement is one so often repeated by the labour leaders that no attempt has been made by the employers to meet the bush unions in a friendly way. This has frequently been proved to be untrue, and it is well known that the pastoralists' unions all over the colony have tried to arrange matters with them. The attached extracts from letters will show that in the central districts at any rate we have met them, and have been thoroughly snubbed for our pains. In Victoria and New South Wales the very first business of the Pastoralists' Unions after their formation was to meet the labour members, but these gentlemen did not then think there was any determination on the part of the pastoralits to resist their demands, and only recently they thought it worth their while to in any way consider the employers of labour. The second statement referred to is that the agreements of wages rates published by the pastoralists comprised serious alterations from those formerly accepted by the labour committee. Certainly they bring about a return to the system of written agreements, which system the pastoralists had been forced by the labour unions to abandon for one season, and the necessity for a binding shearing agreement must be clear to all who understand the nature of the work to be carried on, and how impossible it would be with labourers who might leave at a moment's notice. While on this subject, we may well mention that during the short period which the verbal agreements were in existence in the Central Districts the maritime strike occurred, and the bush unions were ordered to 'Call out on several stations then engaged in shearing,' though there was no dispute between employees and the pastoralists, and at the same time unnecessary stoppages of wool were brought about to the serious inconvenience and loss of the employers, convincing them that it is impossible to profitably carry on the industry under the system of verbal agreements controlled by the labour unions. Arrangements of many kinds have to be made before commencing shearing; contracts are entered into independent of the actual men who cut the wool off, and it must be plain to any intelligent man that great unnecessary losses to the pastoralists must result if the employees leave him at a moment's notice. The next statement sets forth that a reduction has been made in the pastoralists' scale of wages in the amount offered for certain classes of bush work, and this we deny. The scale of wages published is in some few instances lower than published by the labourers' union, but not in any case lower than the wages paid. The fact is that the labour unions have been raising their rates at every meeting in spite of the protests of our associations, but the high rates fixed by them have rarely, if ever, been paid, certainly only under compulsion. It is said that the eight-hour day is ignored. Surely it is competent for the shearer to work as long as he pleases; as a matter of fact in this part of the world there is not light enough to work more than eight hours a day on the average when smoke intervals and meal hours are deducted, so as to other classes of bush work, such as boundary-riding, mustering. As to farm labour the eight-hour system is not applicable. The work is very light, and consists chiefly of sitting on a horse. Sometimes when the paddock has to be mustered there is a long day, but it is then followed by many days when nothing like eight hours are worked. It is said that coloured labour is put upon an equality with white. Coloured labour, we take it, means simply Chinese, as we do not believe there are 50 kanakas in the central district. In the interior the Chinese, too, are a mere handful. This question, although made much of by the labour leaders is of no real practical importance. The chief if not the only points on which the employer is sole arbitrator are with regard to whether sheep are properly shorn, not as to shearing wet sheep. Surely there is nothing in our agreement or in the law of the land which would enable any employer to forfeit as penalty any unpaid portion of his employees' wages for any supposed breach of agreement. This statement objects to the fact that under our agreement the employer is the sole arbitrator on several points. It is further alleged that until work is finished under the shearers' own proposed agreement, 20 per cent. of the earnings was so dealt with. Such is the invariable custom with contract work, a per centage only being paid during the continuance of work, and the balance is held until the completion. No one disputes that it is right that the owner should have power to insist upon his sheep being shorn to his satisfaction, for the only alternative would be that they should be shorn to the satisfaction of the shearers. The wet sheep question has been one of considerable difficulty, and would possibly have been left to the discretion of the men had not the privilege been so constantly abused. It is not to the owners' advantage to shear wet sheep, for such a course adversely affects the value of his wool in practice, even under the present agreement. The question of wet sheep rests with the men. With regard to imprisonment, in no case has the employer that option as stated. He may merely discharge the men. In regard to the statement that the bush unions have been ignored, which has already been dealt with herein, and the assertion that the employers have a collective agreement, while the employees have only an individual agreement, this is a misstatement, for, under our published agreements, both parties are in identically the same position. The third statement is that not one bush worker in 1000 would dream of voluntarily accepting our published agreement. Our opinion formed from repeated conversation with the men themselves is that the proportion is almost the other way. Were it not for the active few we are convinced that the passive many would be willing to work under them. Statements 4, 5, and 6 resolve themselves into a complaint that the pastoralists will not meet the labourers in open conference on the freedom of contract question. We would first point out that it is out of our power to grant an open conference as this question is now in the hands of the Federated Employers of Australia. Have the public, or indeed the labour unionists themselves ever really considered what we are asked to do when called upon to give up our right of freedom of contract? It would mean that we should join the labour unions in driving everyone into those unions under pain of being starved should they refuse, for there would be no employment outside the labour unions. Such an interference with the freedom of the individual we cannot of course entertain; but, suppose for the sake of argument, that the labourers obtained some limitation of freedom of contract from the employers, would they not, as they have in the past, practically close their doors against anyone wishing to join their union? Nothing but starvation would remain for free labourers, for the employers could not employ them, and the unions would not admit them as members. We would never consent to such tyranny. Every man has the right under the laws of our country to join a union or not as he pleases. This right we determined shall remain, cost what it may, indeed, on this question we get outside money altogether, and tread on ground so sacred that there is no sacrifice too great to preserve it. The letter is signed Sydney Sharwood, Secretary to the Queensland Pastoral Employers' Association, and the extracts referred to in it are as follows:—Extract from letter dated Blackall January 11, 1890, from the delegates from the Shearers' Union—namely, Fred. Dowal, John Meehan, Edward H. Murphy—to the delegates from the Queensland Pastoral Employers' Association. "Re agreement, we do not think there is anything to be gained by discussing the various clauses in conference, and would prefer that any further negotiations should be carried on in writing, as we are anxious that no misunderstanding should arise, and that the fullest publicity should be given to whatever transpires." Extract from last letter from Thomas M'Gregor, secretary of the Queensland Labourers' Union, Barcaldine, to the secretary of the Queensland Pastoral Employers' Association, Barcaldine, dated January 7, 1891:—"Don't you think for one moment we are going to revise any of our resolutions, for I can assure you that we intend to hold out to the bitter end."

BRISBANE, FRIDAY.

At a meeting of the United Pastoralists' Association, held this morning, the following resolution was agreed to:—"That as freedom of contract as agreed to at the Sydney Conference was not intended to include Chinese, Polynesians, or Asiatic labour, we earnestly recommend the members of our association to discontinue the further employment of this class of labour." All the labourers on the neighbouring stations to Winton have been called out. There are about 100 men camped close to town. Five justices of the peace have signed a petition to the police magistrate, requesting him to bring under the notice of the Colonial Secretary the immediate necessity for increased police protection.

CHARLEVILLE, FRIDAY.

A meeting of the Warrego Pastoralists' Association will be held to-morrow morning. Members have come in from great distances to attend. News was received this morning that the labourers on Goya had struck, and on Milo station the men have also been ordered by the Labourers' Union to leave. In Charleville a serious difficulty is anticipated at present in regard to Oakwood shearing, although during the past two days there has been a general move of men from here in that direction. The agitators here have in some cases comprised men of doubtful intention, and an unusual number of convicted thieves and felons have been brought before the local police court.

BARCALDINE, FRIDAY.

Shakespeare and M'Bride have declared their house union. They have dismissed the Chinese cooks, and now employ only whites. Although the local hotels close at sunset, there is a tremendous amount of drinking going on among the men from far-away stations who have ceased work and come into town. The majority have big cheques, some going into three figures. The union leaders are using their influence to dissuade the men from drinking and insulting the police. Several free labourers, ostensibly looking for work, came up by the noon train to-day, and were immediately interviewed by the unionists and shepherded all over the town. Much amusement was caused by the unionists using the greatest persuasion, with the result so far that several were taken to the labourers' office in triumph.

CLERMONT, FRIDAY.

The first instalment of the Wolfang camp arrived in town to-day, brought in by a non-union team. There was a little hooting when the team passed the Wolfang Creek Camp, but no interference with it. Teams loaded with wool have started form Logan Downs to Clermont. Everything was quiet to-day at Logan, Wolfang, Capella, and Gordon Downs. Very few unionists are in town to-day, and excellent order prevails.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

At a meeting of the Trades Hall Council to-night Mr. J. Meehan, delegate from the Queensland Shearers and Carters' Union, delivered an address on the Queensland shearing difficulty, denouncing the pastoralists and the Government. He denied that the men were lawless, and stated that it was the custom in Queensland to carry arms, because men often went kangaroo shooting to obtain a reward for scalps. He asked the council for assistance, the shearers having sent help to the council during the great strike. It was decided to refer the matter to the council for report.

MR. MORTON M.L.A., BEFORE HIS CONSTITUENTS.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NOWRA, FRIDAY.

Mr. P. H. Morton, M.L.A., addressed a crowded meeting of his constituents at the public hall last evening. Reverting at length to the increasing difficulties of the social question, and giving it as his opinion that it was the duty of the Government to endeavour to reconcile the conflicting interests of capital and labour. In this connection he defended the action of the New South Wales Government during the late strike, asserting that the responsible tribunal of Sussex-street agitators did more harm to the cause of the working-man than good, inasmuch as they had endeavoured to usurp the powers of Parliament. Referring to the recent scandal associated with the names of certain so-called labour representatives, Mr. Morton urged upon the electors generally the importance of returning to Parliament only men of fearless integrity and irreproachable character. He explained his action in regard to the Kiama to Nowra railway extension, as also his conduct in regard to other matters of local interest, and after a patient hearing of over two hours was accorded a practically unanimous vote of confidence, on the motion of Messrs. Thomas Marriott and John Lamond.

THE GOULBURN CATHEDRAL DISPUTE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

GOULBURN, FRIDAY.

The Rev. A. T. Puddicombe has received the following important communication from the Bishop:—"To the Rev. Alfred Teed Puddicombe, B.D.,—The Bishop of Goulburn draws the attention of the Rev. A. T. Puddicombe to the fact that he attended and voted at the recent session of the synod of the diocese of Goulburn without having a license to show that he was licensed to a separate cure of souls in the diocese. All the lay members who attended the said session of synod produced their certificates of election, and all the clergy who attended and voted are in possession of licenses which were exhibited at the time or subsequently, which have been duly inspected, and which proved that they were licensed to a separate cure of souls as required by the constitutions for the management and good government of the united Church of England and Ireland within the colony of New South Wales, which constitutions were recorded in the Supreme Court of the said colony on the 30th of October, 1866. The Bishop therefore requires the Rev. A. T. Puddicombe to show what right he had to attend such session of synod without proper license. The intimation that the Bishop had his license was inappropriate as being without foundation; if he possesses any license to justify his action as above related, let him now produce it in Goulburn."

The Rev. A. T. Puddicombe has forwarded the following reply:—"St. Saviour's Parsonage, Goulburn, 4th March, 1891. To the Right Rev. Lord Bishop of Goulburn. My Lord,—In reply to your undated communication received this morning, it will be necessary to draw your attention to the following facts, which are nevertheless as well known to your lordship as to me:—1. From the time of my coming to reside in the city of Goulburn by your special appointment in 1871 to the middle of the year 1876, during which period I acted under your lordship's license and authority as additional minister in our Cathedral Church of St. Saviour, Goulburn, and for Goulburn city, I was summoned to synod as a clergyman licensed to the separate cure of souls in St. Saviour's, Goulburn; 2. In 1876, having been left sole minister of the church of St. Saviour, Goulburn, and for Goulburn city, by the death of Dean Sowerby, I was promoted as his successor—I am throughout quoting your lordship's own words—to the incumbency of the cathedral parish, and licensed to serve in the Church of St. Saviour, Goulburn, and from that time to this I have been summoned to synod by your lordship as the clergyman licensed in the place of Dean Sowerby to the separate cure of souls in St. Saviour's, Goulburn. 3. This license as Dean Sowerby's successor in the incumbency, your lordship knows perfectly well, you have never sent to me, having retained it as you led me to believe, until the Cathedral constitution, and my place in that constitution, as incumbent of St. Saviour's Parochial and Cathedral Church, should be settled; and I repeat what I said in synod, 'the Bishop of Goulburn has my license' to the separate cure of souls of St. Saviour's, Goulburn. 4. Apart altogether from the above-quoted facts, I should object to exhibit my license at the synod upon the grounds that licenses so exhibited have sometimes not been returned; that it is a frivolous and vexatious demand on your lordship's part; and above all, that it is not required by the constitutions. 5. Your lordship is required by the constitutions to summon only those of the clergy who are licensed to the separate cure of souls within your diocese, and if you summon any clergyman who is not so licensed by you, for you are the first Bishop of this diocese, you are breaking the constitutions for the management and good government of the United Church of England and Ireland within the colony of New South Wales. 6. As, therefore, your lordship has regularly summoned me to the synod and required me to vote thereat, as the clergyman licensed by you to the separate cure of souls of St. Saviour's, Goulburn, for the last 14 years and upwards, I hereby require that you justify your action in so doing by sending to me that license without further delay. I am, my lord, most obediently and faithfully yours, ALFRED T. PUDDICOMBE."

THE WOLLONGONG HARBOUR TRUST.

THE HARBOUR WORKS.

CONSIDERATION OF SIR JOHN COODE'S REPORT.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

WOLLONGONG, FRIDAY.

At the regular meeting of the Harbour Trust to-day all the Commissioners were present. Tenders for the services of a steam-tug were considered, and that of the owners of Carbine, the one now performing service, was accepted, at £500 per annum. Sir John Coode's report and accompanying plans then came on for consideration and discussion. Mr. Garrard said he was disappointed with the report, because no reference was made to the inner, or what is known locally as the Tom Thumb scheme, which had been entirely ignored. The Act conferred powers for dealing with this scheme almost to the exclusion of the outer, or that suggested by Coyle. The inner scheme might be impracticable, which might necessitate having recourse to the other, but he was disappointed because Sir John Coode appears to have only casually glanced at the inner scheme. Too much prominence had been given to Coyle's scheme. His scheme was estimated to cost £332,000, whereas the borrowing powers of the trust were limited to £275,000, and to enable them to carry out the scheme they would require extended borrowing powers. This the Legislature might not be disposed to grant unless there was a reasonable prospect of their being able to pay interest. No doubt, with proper facilities, the trade of Wollongong would increase enormously, but the Legislature would require to be satisfied of this before authorising increasing the indebtedness. Sir John Coode's report as presented would mean the expenditure of something like half a million sterling, and to enable them to undertake this they required larger powers. In view of these considerations it could not be expected that the resident engineer could furnish a report to-day. The better course would be for the engineer to go into the whole scheme, having special reference to the Tom Thumb, and report to next meeting, and if found necessary they could go to Parliament for increased borrowing powers.

Mr. EWING thought he could place the matter so as to meet Mr. Garrard's wishes. The cost was larger than was anticipated, but they had to construct a harbour. Anyhow, the question of cost in constructing a harbour must come in, but it would appear that Sir John Coode had considered his own reputation as an engineer rather than the question of expenditure. If they carried out his scheme they would have a splendid port, but they could not afford it at present, and must be contented with a slight modification. He moved that the engineer be instructed to report upon the eastern breakwater scheme and everything incidental thereto. He did not anticipate that the amount of silting would be as large as expected by Sir John Coode. He further moved that the resident engineer report upon the local currents, which had not been sufficiently investigated, and review the whole scheme, with the view of eventually making a harbour at Tom Thumb.

Captain DEANE seconded the motion.

Mr. RICHARDS thought the motion unnecessary. The engineer would furnish all the necessary reports.

Mr. GUNNING said Mr. Garrard had expressed disappointment at Sir John Coode's plan, but concluded with approving of the breakwater scheme. No doubt Sir J. Coode had gone into the matter very carefully. He had all possible information at his command, and had selected the best scheme. Breakwaters would have to be constructed, irrespective of any internal works. Wherever breakwaters had been constructed they had not been found too large. In Melbourne the harbour works were being constantly enlarged, and he did not think this scheme would be found too extensive. He thought the expense was justifiable, and had no doubt the money would be procurable. He proposed an amendment on the motion,—"That Sir John Coode's scheme be adopted, and carried out with any modifications that this board may decide upon."

The Engineer, Mr. Good, said it did not come within his province to modify Sir John Coode's plans.

Mr. EWING was willing to withdraw his motion.

Captain DEANE protested against the adoption of Sir John Coode's scheme.

Mr. BYRNES failed to see any great injury accruing from the adoption of the scheme. Sir John Coode, as a most eminent engineer, had been selected to prepare the plans, and because it went beyond their present powers they should not reject it. No doubt the Government would help them out of the fix they were in. An enabling bill could be passed to condone any irregularity. He had no doubt that Sir J. Coode's estimate as to the output of coal would be fully realised, and the scheme would be a financial success. He seconded Mr. Gunning's motion.

Mr. GARRARD still contended that the board exceeded their powers.

After considerable discussion Mr. Gunning's motion was carried. The engineer was instructed to prepare a contract or contracts. It was decided that a deputation should wait on the Colonial Treasurer to consult with him as to the best means of carrying out Sir John Coode's scheme.

DISCOVERY OF A BODY IN NEWCASTLE HARBOUR.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

NEWCASTLE, FRIDAY.

This afternoon the Water Police discovered the body of a man floating in the harbour near Scott's Point. It appears to be that of a man about 55 years of age, and 5ft. 6in. in height, with grey hair and whiskers, baldheaded, and no moustache. The face bears the mark of a wound extending from the upper lip to the left ear. The body was clothed in a suit of dark tweed. It is now in the morgue, and an inquest will be held to-morrow.

THE MOSS VALE WATER SUPPLY.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BOWRAL, FRIDAY.

The council has received a copy of Mr. Engineer Pridham's report on the Moss Vale water supply, but not Loseby's, and application has now been made for a copy of the report on Loseby's scheme. Samples of water from both sources have been forwarded to the Board of Health for analysis.

COUNTRY NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.)

ARMIDALE, FRIDAY.

The show was concluded to-day. The weather was fine, and there was a large attendance at the sales, but very little business was transacted. The Consolation Jumping Match, five entries, was won by Doak's Joker, after a good contest with Yellow Chieftain.

Schenher, who was shot on Sunday night by Fitzgerald, is still at the hospital, in a very low condition. Little hope is entertained of his recovery. The ball is supposed to be lodged in his spine.

BROKEN HILL, FRIDAY.

Mr. F. M. Drake, who has held the position of metallurgist at the Central Mine for 10 months, has accepted a similar position on the Mount Stewart Silver Mine, near Mudgee, and will leave here in about a month's time. Mr. Drake will leave a good record behind him in regard to work.

The weather is hot and close, with a north wind blowing.

CARCOAR, FRIDAY.

The roads in the district, especially around Carcoar, are undergoing a great improvement under the supervision of the new road superintendent.

A meeting is about to be called amongst the farmers of Mount Macquarie, for the purpose of arranging matters to start a butter factory.

The weather is delightfully cool. All stock are in grand condition.

GRAFTON, FRIDAY.

Mr. A. J. Park, the new chairman of the land board, arrived yesterday, and officially visits the Richmond district next week.

At a meeting of the members of the South Grafton School of Arts last night a resolution was passed affirming the desirability of erecting a new building to cost about £1000, according to the plans previously prepared. The committee have about £400 in hand towards the object, and a building committee was appointed to report on the best scheme of financing the project. The new building will be erected on the site granted for the purpose, in Spring and Skinner streets.

GUNDAGAI, FRIDAY.

The Gundagai Pastoral and Agricultural Society's annual show next Tuesday and Wednesday promises to be a success. There are 1200 entries, the hackneys and horse sections generally reaching over 250, whilst all other classes of stock are well represented. Of produce there are large entries, and keen competition will take place. Altogether the show promises to be the best held here. The second day has been proclaimed a holiday.

At a meeting of the Municipal Council, on Wednesday night, a letter was read from the Works Department asking the council to take over a portion of the main Southern road running through the town of Gundagai. The council decided to decline to take it over.

At the lands office yesterday three selections and one lease were taken up, totalling 403 acres.

LITHGOW, FRIDAY.

Ninety-seven points of rain were registered here during the week ending to-day. The fall for February was 306 points. The country is everywhere looking well, and the growth of everything will be very great if the frost does not set in too early.

The coal trade is still dull, and there is also more or less deficiency in the supply of railway trucks. Between both causes the miners are making but poor wages. Things are reported to be even worse at Cullen Bullen, where only a handful of men are now employed.

Dr. Gunn delivered an illustrated lantern lecture in aid of the New Hebrides mission, to a good audience, in the Temperance Hall last night. The doctor has also been lecturing on the mountains.

Boring for shale is now going on at Little Hartley on the property of Mr. T. H. Neale, P.M., and those interested expect to strike a payable seam.

About 50 men are employed in repairs to the line between here and Bowenfels, Mr. Proudfoot being the contractor. In connection also with the railways, quarry work will soon recommence near Rydal and Tarana. It is expected to give employment to a number of men.

The road between Rydal and Sunny Corner is again reported to be in bad order, and as the traffic is considerable it is feared that if not put in repair before the winter it will be almost impassable.

MUDGEE, FRIDAY.

A demonstration of the United Friendly Societies of the town will take place on Wednesday next. There will be a grand procession in regalia to Cox's paddock, Burrundulla, where handicap races and other sports will be held. Messrs. Black, Wall, and Haynes have taken great interest in the matter. The day has been appointed a public holiday, and the event monopolises public attention.

Mr. A. O. Williams, who has been Acting Lands Agent since the resignation of Mr. C. J. Horsley, has been recommended to the Executive for permanent appointment.

The supply of milk for the butter factory last month was nearly 35,000 gallons.

The weather is fine. The country is looking splendid.

NARRANDERA, FRIDAY.

At the local Lands office yesterday 14,000 acres of land were selected under special areas.

Hot weather has again set in. The thermometer to-day registered 100 degrees in the shade.

NARRABRI, FRIDAY.

The Land Board held their sittings at Wee Waa, and confirmed six applications. Three were disallowed. One for exemption from fencing was granted. One for permission to enclose a road, one to erect a ring fence, three for fulfilment of conditions, were declared. On the 5th instant the board sat at Narrabri for the appraisement of runs. On Killarney leasehold area the rent was fixed at 2 6-10d, resumed area, license fee £5 9s 4d per section.

At a meeting of the committee of the hospital last night, a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Chas. Collins, member for the district, for securing a grant of £500 in aid of the local hospital.

NEWCASTLE, FRIDAY.

The following was the export of coal last week:—Victoria, 17,860 tons; Chili, 9662; South Australia, 3345; New Zealand, 7975; Tasmania, 2130; San Francisco, 1360; Noumea, 1200; Honolulu, 1057. Total, 39,579 tons.

OBERON, FRIDAY.

The season is splendid for the time of the year. There is generally a slight frost at night. The harvest is completed. The yield generally is very light.

PARKES, FRIDAY.

The total amount received yesterday by the Crown lands agent for deposits on the special areas was £2433 2s 9d.

The weather is splendid and fine.

SILVERTON, FRIDAY.

The weather here is extremely hot and dry, and unless rain falls very shortly the scarcity of water will be badly felt. There is little or no feed, and several head of stock have lately died for want of proper sustenance. All the bullocks used in carting limestone flux from the quarries are being fed on chaff.

The amount of revenue collected at the Warden's Office here for the last month amounted to £775, including £559 for mineral leases.

WAGGA, FRIDAY.

At the Crown lands office, Wagga, yesterday, an area comprising nearly 800 acres was applied for in the parishes of Carabost and Coolamon by three applicants.

Splendid gold prospects have been obtained in Taradale, in the Tumbarumba district. Taradale is close to Cherry Hill. A company intend commencing work shortly.

WELLINGTON, FRIDAY.

There was a crowded attendance last night in the schoolhouse to bid Father Campion good-bye on his departure for Parkes. The Rev. Mr. Buggy presided. Mr. Hyeronimus read an address and presented a purse of 70 sovereigns, which was supplemented by several private testimonials of regard. Father Campion has resided here three years, and has done good work among his own flock, and leaves a feeling of regret amongst all sects and classes at his departure.

At a meeting of St. John's Church of England the Rev. Mr. M'Keown presiding, the following gentlemen were elected to represent Wellington at the synod:—Messrs. Jaden, Smith, Stanley, and Lowe. Messrs. Barlow, Bayly, and Gaden were chosen as nominators to choose a successor to Mr. M'Keown.

WINGHAM, FRIDAY.

The Upper Manning show, which takes place next week, on the 11th and 12th, is expected to be a great success. Up to the present 1200 entries have been received.

WINDSOR, FRIDAY.

The remains of the steamer Hawkesbury, which was burned to the water's edge recently at Sackville Reach, have been purchased by Mr. John Bennett, and 22 men are at work raising it.

Mr. Stevenson, M.L.A., is making a tour through his electorate, and speaks at Wiseman's Ferry to-morrow night.

Caterpillars are to be found by thousands among the corn crops this year, but the grain is now too hard to admit of any damage being done by them. A little rust is found on some farms, but taken all round the crops are the heaviest experienced for years.

Mr. J. L. Thompson, principal of the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, arrived in Richmond yesterday. The department has secured two large buildings temporarily for the use of students, 20 of whom are expected next Tuesday.

Work on the site of the common is being rapidly proceeded with, under the superintendence of Mr. Coleman.

The Rev. Mr. Copland King has been presented with an address by the children of the Riverstone Public School, which he visited this week prior to his departure from the district for New Guinea.

A very old resident of Riverstone, Mrs. Cassidy, 82 years of age, died yesterday after a long illness.

BRAIDWOOD QUARTER SESSIONS.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BRAIDWOOD, FRIDAY.

The Quarter Sessions were held to-day before Judge Murray. The legal profession was represented by the Crown Prosecutor (Mr. Dawson), and Messrs. Davison and O'Brien, Goulburn; Fell and Son and M'Innes, Braidwood. There being no cases Mr. J. W. Bunn presented his Honor with a pair of white kid gloves, remarking that this was the fourth occasion he had had the honour of making such a presentation. His Honor, in returning thanks, congratulated the district on being so free from crime, and although it was now as popular as in the olden times, the absence of crime was most marked, and spoke volumes for the district.

THE STRIKE OF RAILWAY NAVVIES.

SERIOUS POSITION AT LIVERPOOL.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY.

The men employed by Messrs. Angus and Co. to replace the strikers have been so far interfered with that police protection has been sought by the contractors. The local police number only three, and are powerless to control the great body of navvies involved. The navvies on strike are now arriving in Liverpool in large numbers, and there is every prospect of a complete stoppage of the duplication work until the hands of the contractors and Government officials are strengthened.

It is certain that a large number of skilled workmen, notably the bricklayers, are very dissatisfied with the action of the strikers, and are quite prepared to continue their duties. The bricklayers have been compelled to cease work because of want of labourers.

It is supposed that the local police force will be augmented.

LATER.

It was expected that the whole of the men engaged on the railway between Liverpool and Campbelltown, the majority of whom are on strike, would be paid off this afternoon, the contractor, Mr. W. Monie, having publicly stated that the men would be paid off as soon as possible, and that the duplication work would be abandoned for the present. There are no end of rumours of meetings of strikers, but up to 8 p.m. no meeting had been held. There are 100 strikers about the town, but there is no demonstration whatever so far beyond loud talk from a few excited individuals, and trifling disturbances, which were promptly quelled by the local police. It is now said by the contractor that the men will be paid at 11 o'clock to-morrow. The delay in payment is locally regarded as a wise precautionary measure. Had the men been paid to-day, there is little doubt that serious disturbances would have followed to-night, for the tone of the men on strike is aggressive generally, and the prompt action taken in the cessation of work has caused an apparently combined feeling of consternation and bitterness. It is extremely probable that if opportunity be given to the men to resume work a large majority will embrace the opportunity eagerly, and there would be little difficulty in finding substitutes for the others. In any case beyond infractions of the law, which might be expected from an excessive number of idle people in town, there seems to be little danger.

Contrary to expectations, a large number of strikers assembled at Mrs. Marsden's hotel about 8.30 p.m., and the number swelled until fully 400 appeared. Speeches were delivered from the verandah of the hotel by the representatives of the strikers, the principal argument being that eight hours' labour was equivalent to 8s pay. Up to the present no promise of a concession has been given by the Department.

CAMPBELLTOWN, FRIDAY.

The strike of men employed on the duplication between Liverpool and Campbelltown still continues, but is expected to terminate early next week. Platelayers continue to work. The bricklayers are perfectly satisfied with the contractors' wages, but work cannot proceed whilst the labourers are out. Delegates from Sydney here to-day were ignored by the majority.

THE NAVIGATION OF THE HAWKESBURY.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

WINDSOR, FRIDAY.

Last night a meeting of the Hawkesbury Navigation Committee was held at the Oddfellows' Hall, when the Mayor (Mr. W. Gosper) occupied the chair, and there was a good attendance. Mr. Piddington made a lengthy explanation of what had been done in connection with the matter during the past 12 months, and pointed out that the committee could not have been more active than it had been. The survey had to be completed and reported and plans prepared before anything definite could be done. The committee had the assurance of the Hon. Bruce Smith that he would visit the district at the earliest convenience and see the river for himself. He proposed that this committee meet the council next Tuesday and discuss the question. Mr. B. Conlon seconded the motion. The Hon. W. Walker said he had no doubt that the work would be done, and that when the matter come before Parliament a unanimous vote in its favour would be given by both sides of the House. The initiatory steps, however, rested with the Minister, and he thought the suggestion regarding a big petition largely signed was a good one, also that another deputation wait on the Minister for Works. Several other gentlemen spoke. It was stated during the meeting that a movement was afoot having for its object the construction of a tramline on the Pitt Town side of the river through Pitt Town to Mulgrave, and that a large landholder in the vicinity was working in connection with it. The chances of the Sackville tramway, which is to be 2ft. 6in. gauge was discussed, but in the face of antagonistic reports from Messrs. Angus, Kirkcaldie, and others, it was unanimously declared utterly hopeless and impossible. The river is undoubtedly the scheme which will effect the desired object—that of opening up easy means of communication between Windsor and the river settlement. It will be a cheap roadway for the carriage of produce, and this is what the river folk require. If the river is opened the Hawkesbury Navigation Company will be prepared to run a regular service between Windsor and the Ferry. The meeting throughout was very enthusiastic.

THE IRON DEPOSITS OF ILLAWARRA.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

WOLLONGONG, FRIDAY.

Mr. Labiff, manager of the Mount Pleasant Colliery, referring to the report recently published emanating from the Government Geologist on the iron deposits of the Western and portion of the Southern districts of the colony, says that one would infer from the report that the places named in the Western district are the most suitable for the manufacture of iron and steel. Such may be the opinion of theory, but practice has proved to the contrary. About 25 years ago a company was formed to make iron at Fitzroy, and the expectations of the promoters and the colony were very sanguine in the belief that a new industry was about to be established. Articles appeared in the leading papers of the time praising the undertaking and the quality of the ores. Shares were quickly bought up, but as time passed difficulties arose, and the want of limestone and suitable coal for smelting ultimately proved fatal to profitable speculation. About this time Mr. Labiff wrote to Mr. Lawson, the manager of the Fitzroy works, and induced him to procure small coal from Illawarra for coking. The result proved satisfactory, good iron being manufactured without difficulty. The Bulli Coal Company sent large quantities of coal to Fitzroy, but these were found to be too expensive and had to be discontinued. The iron company closed, after having lost a lot of money in the venture. Another company was formed to manufacture iron in the Lithgow Valley, and were sanguine of success, but found, as at Fitzroy, that their coal was not suitable for smelting, and consequently the venture was abandoned, the promoters having incurred heavy loss. It is well known that good coke cannot be made from Western coal. Trials out of number have been made to test this at Lithgow, Pipers Flat, Cullen Bullen, and other places, but nothing suitable for smelting purposes has been produced. In further proof of this, all the coke required at Sunny Corner has to be brought from a distance, and if the coke could be produced locally there is an unlimited market for it. The question of good coke is all important in manufacturing iron. This is particularly noticeable in the case of Tasmania. There expensive plant was erected for smelting iron from ores, but here the coal has to be imported from Bulli at a cost of 20s per ton. If iron is to be made in this colony, the locality where it must be carried on is where cheap and suitable coal is available, and near the seaboard or within a short distance by rail of the shipping place. On a future occasion he promises to show that the Illawarra district possesses all that is necessary for the profitable manufacture of iron, notwithstanding the meagre report of the Government Geologist on the Illawarra mineral deposits.

SUDDEN DEATH NEAR OBERON.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LITHGOW, FRIDAY.

A very sudden death from heart disease is reported from Swatchfield, near Oberon. The deceased, John Foley, was a well-known and respected farmer, and was returning with his family from a church bazaar a few nights ago when he dropped dead off his horse. A magisterial inquiry ensued, and the finding was that the deceased probably owed his death to heart disease.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT LISMORE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LISMORE, FRIDAY.

A young man named Clarence Davis met with a fatal accident yesterday while going home with a dray. The reins became entangled in his legs, and he fell in front of the wheel, which passed over him, crushing his ribs. He died very shortly afterwards.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

SINGLETON, FRIDAY.

A promising child of Mr. Thomas Ball's, proprietor of the Railway Hotel, was drowned this evening whilst bathing. The river was running very strong, and the little fellow was carried out of his depth, and swept down before assistance came. His body has not yet been recovered, although every means possible have been tried. His age is about 11 years.

PROGRESS OF BRIDGES AND OTHER WORKS.

QUARTERLY REPORTS.

Some time ago the Minister for Public Works gave instructions to the heads of each branch in his Department to send in periodically statements showing the progress of the public works in their respective branches. This has been done with a view of giving publicity to the information obtained, and at the same time to enable the Minister to apply the necessary stimulus when contracts are not being carried out according to stipulation. In accordance with this regulation Mr. Bruce Smith has received a report showing the progress made, and being made, in the bridge and other works of that branch from November 1, 1890, to January 1, 1891. The latest application of electricity to the uses of daily life has been invented and perfected by a New York physician. He has completed telephonic connections between the wards of the City Hospital and the reception-rooms, so that patients suffering from infectious maladies may safely communicate with their visitors. A board in the reception-room contains the names of the patients, and an attendant has only to put the plug into the hole beneath any name when any friend desires to speak with the occupant of a cot upstairs. This has been found to work with great success, and the plan is to be adopted by the other hospitals.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

Though the V. R. C. Autumn Meeting has attracted a large number of leading turfmen across the border the bill of fare to be decided at Warwick Farm this afternoon promises such interesting sport that a large gathering may be anticipated as the result of Mr. Geo. W. S. Rowe's invitation. Ample provision has been made for the transit of metropolitan visitors to and from the rendezvous on the bank of George's River, for special trains will start as under from Redfern:—10.50 a.m. (horses), 12 noon (second-class), 12.40 and 12.50 p.m. (first-class), and 1.18 p.m. (mixed), the trains timed for 12 noon and 12.40 p.m. stopping at Strathfield for the convenience of visitors from the North. The opening event is timed for 2 p.m., when the horses engaged in the Hurdle Race will be despatched on their mission, and the prospects of Maud, Stimulant, and Redheart seem to be the most inviting. Tridentine, even with the top impost of 9st 7lb, should give a good account of herself if started for the Flying Stakes; but should she be reserved for the leading handicap, the places may go to Splendora, Anthony, and Zama. Manola, Benant, and Strephon may fight out the battle for places in the Auction Stakes. Tridentine's recent performance shows that she has returned to her best form, and will be particularly hard to beat in the Sherwood Handicap if reserved for that event, and in her absence the winner may come from Warrego, Odo, and Komisch. The Pace Welter promises to bring about an interesting race, in which Splendora, Strephon, and Shamrock may furnish the winner. The programme is published elsewhere in this issue.

The final act in the V. R. C. drama will be played out at Flemington this afternoon, and the programme for the occasion is brimful of interest. The All-aged Stakes will be the first to engage attention, and in view of the form shown by Marvel on Thursday he should, if started, run the champion Carbine very close for the prize. The candidates for the Unplaced Two-year-old Stakes are as yet unknown to fame, but the most likely to furnish the winner may be The Magistrate, Tai Hau, and Persimmon. The Place Handicap should bring about an interesting race, and the situations may be filled by Clonard, Enue, and Megaphone, with Crown Jewel as the most dangerous of the others. With Sir Wilfred and Orangeman, Mr. Miller has a very dangerous pair in the Steeplechase, as they are both weight carriers and good performers over timber, and whichever be deputed to act should just about win, while Shanks and Blister may be the best of the others. The Loch Plate seems to be a good thing for Carbine, whose most dangerous opponent should be Marvel, who will likely fight out the battle for places with Megaphone. Marvel has been made to pay the penalty for his good deeds in the Autumn Handicap by receiving the top weight (10st 1lb) for the Farewell Handicap, and that should be sufficient to steady the son of Marvellous. Highborn has also been taken care of when in receipt of 9lb, and Tarcoola has also received his full share. With such a lengthy list of candidates it is difficult to indicate a starter, much less the winner, but it may be that Teksum, Bendigo, Fernando, Pygmalion, Crown Jewel, and Conceit may have a place-getter or two among them. The programme appears in another part of this paper.

The support accorded to the pony and galloway meeting to be held at Moorefield on Thursday next, cannot be otherwise than satisfactory to the management, for the entrants for the half-dozen items on the card totalled 106, of which the Flying Handicap was responsible for 28, Blakehurst Handicap 13, Welter Handicap 26, Tempe Handicap 13, Tiny Handicap 10, and Galloway Handicap 16. The lists appear in another part of this issue.

The following scratchings in connection with the Warwick Farm March Meeting were posted at the office of the club yesterday:—All engagements: Pet Girl. Flying Stakes: Manxman.

The regular weekly pony racing and trotting meeting takes place at the Lillie Bridge grounds this evening, when a five-event programme will be played out. The opening event is timed for 8 p.m., and the final race should be over by 10 o'clock. Special trams will run between the city and the grounds as usual.

In this issue Mr. T. S. Clibborn announces the liberal programme framed by the A.J.C. committee for the autumn meeting, which has been fixed for March 28 and 30, and April 2 and 4. The liberal response made by owners and trainers in the way of nominations for the leading events—the Doncaster Handicap and Sydney Cup—augur well for the support which the other items on the card should receive on the day of general entry, Monday, March 16, when the following events demand attention:—First Day: Hurdle Race, a handicap sweepstakes of 5 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 200 sovs. added; second horse 50 sovs. from the prize; about 2½ miles. Autumn Stakes, a sweepstakes of 10 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 500 sovs. added; for three years old and upwards; second horse 100 sovs. from the prize; 1½ mile. Mutual Selling Plate of 400 sovs.; weights—3 years, 9st; 4 years and upwards, 9st 5lb; the winner to be sold for 200 sovs.; selling allowances down to 50 sovs., the surplus of selling price to be divided between the owner of the second horse and the club, one mile. Second Day: Flying Handicap, a handicap sweepstakes of 5 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 200 sovs. added, second horse 50 sovs. from the prize; 6 furlongs. Maiden Stakes, a sweepstakes of 5 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 200 sovs. added, for maiden horses; weights, 2 years 7st, 3 years 8st 2lb, 4 years and upwards 8st 7lb; second horse 50 sovs. from the prize, 1¼ mile. Selling Plate of 200 sovs.; weights, 3 years 9st, 4 years and upwards 9st 5lb; the winner to be sold for 200 sovs., selling allowances down to 50 sovs., the surplus on selling price to be divided between the owner of the second horse and the club, 6 furlongs. And First Nursery Handicap, a sweepstakes of 5 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 300 sovs. added, second horse 50 sovs. from the prize, for two-year-olds, 5 furlongs. Third day: Two Years Old Plate of 200 sovs., for two years old, colts 9st, fillies 8st 12lb, the winner to be sold for £150, selling allowances down to £25, surplus on selling price to be divided between the owner of the second horse and the club, 5 furlongs. All-aged Stakes, a sweepstakes of 10 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 500 sovs. added, second horse 100 sovs. from the prize; 1 mile. Welter Handicap, a sweepstakes of 5 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 200 sovs. added, for three-year-olds and upwards, second horse 50 sovs. from the prize, lowest weight 7st; 1¼ mile. Cumberland Stakes, a sweepstakes of 10 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 500 sovs. added; for three-years-old and upwards, second horse 100 sovs. from the prize; 2 miles. The City Handicap, a sweepstakes of 5 sovs. each, one forfeit, with 500 sovs. added, for three years old and upwards; second horse 100 sovs. from the prize; 1½ mile. Fourth Day: Rous Handicap, a sweepstake of 5 sovs. each, one forfeit, with 200 sovs. added, for three years old; second horse to receive 50 sovs. from the prize; 1 mile 3 furlongs. Place Handicap, a free handicap sweepstake of 10 sovs. each for starters, with 500 sovs. added, for horses that have run first, second, or third in any race of the value of 100 sovs. or upwards, in which not less than six horses have started, after the Autumn Meeting of 1890; the second horse to receive 100, and the third 50 sovs. from the prize; 1½ mile. Steeplechase, a handicap sweepstakes of 10 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 400 sovs. added; second horse 100 sovs. from the prize; about 3 miles. Second Nursery Handicap, a handicap sweepstakes of 5 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 300 sovs. added; second horse 50 sovs. from the prize; for two-years-old; 6 furlongs. A. J. C. Plate, a sweepstakes of 10 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 650 sovs. added; for three-years-old and upwards; second horse 150, and third 100 sovs. from the prize; 3 miles. and Final Handicap, a handicap sweepstakes of 5 sovs. each, 1 ft., with 200 sovs. added; second horse 50 sovs. from the prize; 1¼ mile. Victorian sportsmen can transact business at the office of the V.R.C. up to 4 p.m. on the date aforementioned, and the entrance fee of 1 sov. must accompany each nomination.

A programme of five events, including races of ponies from 12.2 to 13.3, also a trot for ponies 14 hands and under, has been issued by the Lillie Bridge proprietary for next Friday evening, entries for which close on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The March reunion of the Canterbury Park Race Club has been fixed for the 14th and 17th instant, and the management have issued an attractive programme for the meeting. There are half a dozen items on the card for each day, as under:—First day: Flying Handicap of 60 sovs., 6 furlongs 50 yards; Park Stakes, a handicap of 50 sovs., for all horses that have never won an advertised prize of the value of 45 sovs. at the time of running, 7½ furlongs; Stewards' Mile, a welter handicap of 60 sovs., lowest weight 7st 7lb, 1 mile; March Handicap of 100 sovs., 1½ mile; Selling Race of 75 sovs., for three-year-olds and upwards, w.f.a., winner to be sold for 100 sovs., selling allowances, 6 furlongs; Welter Handicap of 60 sovs., lowest weight 8st 7lb, 6 furlongs 50 yards. Second day: Hurdle Race, a handicap of 75 sovs., 2 miles; Shorts Handicap of 60 sovs., 6 furlongs 50 yards; Canterbury Stakes, a handicap of 50 sovs., for all horses that have never won an advertised prize of the value of 45 sovs. at the time of running, once round, about 7 furlongs; Saint Patrick's Handicap of 100 sovs., 1¼ mile; Exchange Plate of 75 sovs., for three-year-olds and upwards, winner to be sold for 75 sovs., selling allowances, 7 furlongs; and Railway Handicap of 60 sovs., lowest weight 8st 7lb, 1 mile. Nominations for the aforementioned events close with the secretary, Mr. M. Seals, on Monday, 9th instant; the weights are promised on the 12th instant, and the usual entrance fee of one sov. covers all liability for each event.

The bill of fare to be discussed at the fourth Botany pony racing and trotting reunion on the 11th instant, appears in our advertising sheets, and contains half a dozen items, including races for ponies 12.2, 13.0, 13.1, 13.2, and 13.3, and a handicap horse trot, 1½ mile. Nominations close at the Burrangong Hotel, Haymarket, on Monday evening at 9 o'clock, and must be accompanied by the usual entrance fee of 10s for each event.

Advices from Melbourne state that the A. J. C. Derby winner, Gibraltar, who broke down on Tuesday while taking part in the contest for the Australian Cup, will not be able to race again, as his injuries include a breakage of the suspensory ligament of the off fore leg. The colt, who is at present under the care of Mr. W. Allen, has been rather unfortunate in his racing career, for when he seemed to have the V. R. C. Derby at his mercy he met with an accident that debarred him from going to the post.

CRICKET.

The annual match between the Sydney sheepskin buyers and kangaroo skin buyers took place on Wednesday, and it was associated with a picnic. The buyers, together with their guests, were conveyed in a launch to Clontarf, where a photograph of the company was taken. The match then commenced. The sheepskin buyers, going in first, were disposed of just before lunch for 38 runs, towards which Messrs. M'Grath, Vicars, and Austin were the chief contributors. An excellent dinner was spread in the small pavilion, at which Mr. Watson presided in the unavoidable absence of Consul Griffin, who had promised to be present. A few speeches were made, and the game was resumed, the kangaroo skin buyers going in. Great excitement was occasioned as the Kangaroos gradually drew up to their opponents, but thanks to the good trundling of Mr. Vicars they were disposed of when within 5 runs of victory, Messrs. Radford and Kron being the chief contributors. During the day a tug-of-war was pulled, and Mr. Kelly's side, with the aid of Mr. Crawley, proved to be too much for Mr. Vicars's side. On the way back to town songs were indulged in, and a very enjoyable and successful outing terminated at 6.30 p.m.

A match was played on Rushcutter Bay Oval on Wednesday, between the Sydney Grammar School and King's school, resulting in an easy win for the Grammar school by five wickets and 130 runs. The following were the scores:—

The annual Intercolonial match between the Victorian and New South Wales Electric Telegraph Departments will take place on the Association Ground on Wednesday and Thursday next. The New South Wales team will be selected from the following:—Messrs. Bryant, Cleland, P. Howe, W. Howe, Hincby, M'Grath, Nash, Newell, Parker, W. Varley, J. Varley, and Watts. The Victorians are expected to arrive on Monday next by the s.s. Arrawatta, and will be represented by the following:—Messrs. Costello, Dunne, Greene, Heggie, Hickey, Matthews, Moloney, Mardling, Oldrieve, Truman, and Webster.

EASTERN SUBURBS A. A. CLUB.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Suburbs Amateur Athletic Club was held at Rainford's Cambridge Club Hotel, Paddington, last night, being presided over by Mr. M'Neilly. The attendance was fair. The ninth annual report, which was adopted, showed that, on the whole, the club had been very successful throughout the year, notwithstanding the adverse circumstances which it had to contend with. The financial position of the club was sound, with a credit balance of £12 7s 4d, but there has been a falling off from the members' roll, the number of members being 61 as against 82 last year. Two sports meetings were held during the year, but each resulted in a financial loss, the first on account of the wet weather, and the second by reason of a counter attraction on the same day. In connection with the visit of the athletic team to New Zealand, three first prizes were gained for New South Wales by Messrs. W. T. Macpherson and E. Ryrie. Mr. Macpherson had also won 220 and 440 yards' championship at the local sports meetings. Prizes had been won by other members of the club during the year. The committee tendered their thanks to all the gentlemen who assisted the club during the season, and also the press for the interest shown in the welfare of the club, and trusted that the feeling would continue. The election of officers for the year resulted as follows, and it was decided to request his Excellency the Governor to accept the office of patron to the club:—President, Hon. W. J. Trickett, M.L.C.; vice-presidents, Mr. James Marks, Alderman Burdekin (Mayor of Sydney), Mr. James Fletcher, M.L.A., Mr. B. R. Wise, Mr. H. M. Faithful, Mr. R. Richards, Alderman A. J. Riley; hon. treasurer, Mr. W. H. Bros; hon. secretary, Mr. T. W. Henderson; committee, Messrs. Schwartzkoff, Maddocks, Macpherson, Lusk, Rooney, M'Neilly, and Campbell; auditors, Messrs. Evers and Brierley. A vote of thanks to the retiring officers was carried. Mr. Schwartzkoff moved that the rule relating to the entrance fee to the club be altered, and that the fee be 10s per year only.

A meeting of the Sydney Bicycle Club was held at Winthrop's Hotel last night, the president, Mr. W. R. George, presiding over a good attendance. The secretary's report of the proceedings of the season was satisfactory, showing that the attendances at the meetings had been good, and the moonlight runs had been very enjoyable. The rules had been revised, and the committee had introduced a uniform set of regulations. Touring had also been indulged in to a considerable extent. Eighteen meetings had been held, with an average attendance of nine.

PEDESTRIANISM.

The Sir Joseph Banks 275 Yards Handicap of 45 sovs. will be run on the 16th instant. Nominations close on Tuesday night.

A 100 yards youths' race will be run at Lillie Bridge this afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock.

Entries close to-night for the Lillie Bridge 250 Yards Professional Handicap, to be run on Wednesday night.

The usual weekly handicap will be run at Marrickville this afternoon at 3 p.m.

CARRINGTON HANDICAP.

The Carrington 10th Nursery Handicap was commenced last night, when the first round was run through. A large number of competitors were disqualified, as their running was not considered satisfactory by the committee. The following competitors won their heats:—

A. Morrison 27 yards, F. Lumford 30, J. Merritt 28½, W. Algie 27½, W. Redhead 27, J. Brown 27, C. Wakefield 29, A. Dent 30, T. Amos 27, A. Hargreaves 29½, J. Collier 25, R. Lewis 27, B. Healey 26½, R. W. Lees 27½, W. Moloney 28, J. Adams 29½, A. H. Martin 28, J. W. Phillips 28½, J. M'Farlane 27½, P. Moran 29, W. Masterson 28, G. Bingham 29, C. A. Martineer 27, W. Robinson 29, W. Evans 30, E. Ellis 30, T. Watson 30, W. Davis 30, A. Harris 27, W. Parsons 27½, J. Wilson 28½, E. Huxley 27½, H. Knight 29½, W. Brown 27½, J. Thornburn 26, walk over.

AQUATICS.

It will be remembered that an ocean race between the yachts Miranda, Volunteer, and Thelma was sailed on November 29, 1890, for a sweepstake of £25 per boat, over a course extending from Fort Macquarie to Bird Island and back, and won by the Volunteer. A protest, however, was entered by the Thelma against the winner for fouling at the start. This was duly considered by the committee of R. S. Y. S., and the Volunteer was disqualified, the stakes being awarded to the Thelma; but the owner of the latter yacht would not accept the stakes, and suggested a re-sail over a shorter course. This being agreed upon, the race was set down for to-day, over the following course, about 40 miles:—A flying start at 10 a.m. from line between starter's boat and Orlando buoy, down to and round a steamer or marked boat about two miles to the eastward of Barrenjoey Head, and back to flagboat off Fort Macquarie. The ratings, &c., of the several yachts are: Miranda, 27 rating, J. H. Want, M.L.A., scratch; Volunteer, 23 rating, W. P. Smairl, 4 min. 4 sec.; and Thelma, 11 rating, J. F. Hoare, 24 min. 25 sec. The conditions of the race are—To be sailed under the Royal Sydney Yacht Squadron's rules. Each yacht to be rigged and sail as a yawl, and carry the following sails only:—mainsail or trysail, mizzen-topsail, with or without a yard on the foot, and foresail, working or balloon, any jib (not jib-topsail), booming out balloon foresail allowed. No restriction as to crew, except that the helmsman shall be an amateur. The steamer Invincible will follow the race, leaving Prince Stairs at 9.45 a.m. sharp, tickets for which may be had from the hon. secretary. Mr. J. W. Ferguson will officiate as commodore of the race.

The third race under the auspices of the Port Jackson Sailing Club for the Mark Foy medals will be sailed this afternoon, over the usual club course, the club adding a first prize of £4, second £3, third £2, and fourth £1. The points already scored are as follow:—Violet 4, Our Tom 4, Imogene 3, Iverna 3, Isadore 3, and Atalanta 3, and to-day's race will decide the winner. The entries and handicaps are:—Matura, 24ft., scratch; Isadore, 24ft., and Atalanta, 22ft., 3 minutes; Idothea, 24ft., 4 minutes; Our Tom 24ft., and Violet, 22ft., 4½ minutes; Esmeralda, 22ft., 5 minutes; Massilia, 24ft., 6 minutes; The Ghost 24ft., 8 minutes; Iverna, 22ft., Imogene, 22ft., WildWave, 22ft., and Our May, 24ft., 9 minutes. The steamer Admiral will follow the race.

The Neutral Bay Amateur Sailing Club's boats will sail the third and final heat for Major Rennie's prize this afternoon, the conditions being any sails and limited crews. The entries and handicaps are:—Varuna, scratch; Leone, 8m.; Mulgoa, 8m.; Xanthe, 9m.; Sea Breeze, 9m.; Whaler, 11m.; Phryne 16m.; Ethel, 16m.; Lorelei, 20m.; Happy Thought, 23m.; Darien, 30m. The course is as follows:—A flying start at 3.15 p.m. from an imaginary line between P. J. S. S. Company's buoy and flag moored to the westward, thence round the Pile Light (off Watson's Bay), leaving Clarke and Shark Islands on port hand, thence back round Orient Company's buoy, thence round Clarke and Shark Islands, finishing over starting line; leaving all marks on the port hand.

A meeting of the Neutral Bay Amateur Sailing Club was held on Tuesday evening at Aarons' Exchange, when it was decided to alter the dates of the next three races to March 21, April 11, and April 18 respectively. Dr. Baldwin and Messrs. Armitage, Evans, and Geddes were elected members of the club, and Mr. A. Bennett's Xarifa, 24ft., was entered on the club's register.

The Balmain Sailing Club has decided to alter the date of the third race for the commodore's trophy from March 28 (Easter Saturday) to April 4.

The Johnston's Bay Sailing Club has a race for 16-footers this afternoon, the first prize being a trophy presented by Mrs. A. F. Mundy, the club adding a second prize of £1. The dingeys entered are as follow:—Sophia (F. Doran), Our Own (W. Adison), Our Boys (G. Fletcher), and Sophie (T. Leach). The course is a flying start at 3.15 from the starter's boat in Johnstone's Bay, round Fort Denison, thence round the hulk Golden South and Fort Denison, and back to the flagboat. Mr. H. Ellis will act as starter and umpire.

The Balmain Sailing Club has a race this afternoon for all boats 20ft. and over, best and best, handicapped. The boats entered are as follow:—Adelphi, 4ft., M. A. H. Fitzhardinge, scratch; Acme, 22ft., B Lee, 4 minutes; and Phyllis, 20ft., R. Yeend, 4 minutes. The course is a flying start at 3 p.m. from line between the starter's boat and White Horse Point, down to and round Goat Island, and back round the starter's boat, thence round Goat Island, and back to the flagboat at White Horse Point. There being one prize only, given by the club, Messrs. G. Trouton and G. Ellis will carry out the duties of starter and umpire respectively.

The sixth annual regatta of the East Sydney Rowing Club will be held upon the waters of Woolloomooloo Bay on March 21. The programme contains six events, including Maiden Double Sculls, open to all clubs. The entries for the different events, with the exception of this race, will close to-night at 119 King-street. The entries for the Maiden Double Sculls close at the same address on the 14th instant. Mr. Tho. Keary has presented several trophies, and others will be forthcoming from Messrs. Myers, R. W. Senior, and S. Ackman. Mr. Neville Griffiths has also sent in a donation.

Entries for the handicap skiff race to be decided next Saturday, in connection with the Mercantile Rowing Club, close this afternoon. The prize is an outrigger, presented by the captain.

The members of the North Shore Rowing Club row off their handicap skiff race this afternoon over a one-mile course, and some good racing should be witnessed. The following are the separate heats and times for starting:—No. 1, start at 2.45: A. Berkelman, 3 seconds; A. M'Donald, 6 seconds; A. Thomson, 10 seconds; G. Crawley, 15 seconds. No. 2, start at 3.15: J. F. Connolly, scratch; C. Thompson, 3 seconds; D. Fell, 13 seconds; T. Abbott, 20 seconds. No. 3, start at 3.45: L. Quist, 3 seconds; F. Moor, 8 seconds; W. Woods, 10 seconds; R. Johnson, 20 seconds. No. 4, start at 4.15: John Thompson, scratch; F. Binney, 6 seconds; C. Coggins, 13 seconds; J. Elliott, 25 seconds. Final heat will be rowed at 5.15. Between the fourth and the final there will be an outrigger race, when some of the rising outrigger rowers will meet for the first time.

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION between HARTLEY VALE and MOUNT VICTORIA.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LITHGOW, FRIDAY.

Much irritation prevails in Hartley Vale at the action of the postal authorities in demanding stringent guarantees before establishing telegraphic communication between there and Mount Victoria. A bond is demanded indemnifying the department from loss in respect to the operators' salary, interest on the cost of the line, the cost of repairs, office, and premises, and this the residents consider unjust, pointing out that the township is an important revenue-producing source, and is also growing in population. So the matter stands at present.

THE LISMORE-TWEED RAILWAY.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

LISMORE, FRIDAY.

The Railway Demonstration Committee to-night appointed a sub-committee to prepare a programme and an estimate, to be submitted on Tuesday evening. They have asked the senior member, with the members of the Ministry and other members of Parliament to attend.

Men who have come to the district expecting sub-contracts on the railway are leaving on finding that the contractors do not intend sub-letting the work. Some plant was landed by the Tomki to-day.

STRIKE OF LABOURERS AT BOWRAL.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BOWRAL, FRIDAY.

Some discontent existed among the labourers at the Government quarry here yesterday, and a number went out on strike for increased pay. The manager wired to headquarters, and received instructions to pay off all the men who did not go to work this morning, and the pay clerk arrived last night. However, all but eight returned to work, and the eight in question were paid off and went their way. It was conceded by the local manager that a slight increase in pay could be made to some men who are worthy of it.

THE ABSCONDING BANK CLERK DRUCE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

GOULBURN, FRIDAY.

John M. Druce, alias Morgan, the absconding bank clerk, was brought before the police court this morning and remanded to Sydney, after the evidence of the arresting constable had been taken. The accused seemed to feel his position, especially when arrested. He said, "I was afraid it would have been better for me to face it out at first. Nobody knows what I have suffered. I had no intention of taking the money. Nobody knows what it is until they are in the same position. I will tell all the truth about it."

THE BOWRAL CEMETERY QUESTION.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BOWRAL, FRIDAY.

The cemetery question is still unsettled. Although Carter's land has been resumed. Nothing has been heard as to when it will be fenced, cleared, apportioned, and handed over to the people of the town.

ATTEMPT to BURN DOWN a MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]
(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

GUNDAGAI, FRIDAY.

A most rascally attempt was made at Jugiong on Monday night to burn down the Mechanics' Institute there. The door was soaked with kerosene, and wood piled against it and set alight.

The maregraph installed at the Marine Observatory, Marseilles, which calculates the mean level of the sea automatically, cost 40,000 francs. M. Charles Lallemand, a French mining engineer, has invented a much simpler device, called the médimarémètre, or mean sea measurer, which can be had for 200 to 300 francs. It is based (says the Globe) on the principle that when a liquid wave traverses a capillary tube or a porous partition, its amplitude diminishes and it is retarded in its phases, without the mean level of the wave changing. It consists of a glass tube which can be fixed vertically up the face of the sea-wall. The lower end of it communicates by a smaller flexible pipe with a plunger that is lowered beneath the water at its lowest level. The plunger is divided into an upper and an inner compartment by a diaphragm of porous earthenware. The lower cell is filled with sand and open to the sea. The result is that the column of water in the tube rises and falls very little with the tides, and the mean sea level can be read off a graduated scale.

A letter has been received by the Sydney Chamber of Commerce from the Colonial Secretary, enclosing a letter from the London Chamber of Commerce and a reply thereto from Sir Saul Samuel, the Agent-General. The letter of the London Chamber of Commerce is to the effect that that body had decided to hold a second congress of Chambers of Commerce during autumn of the present year, and asking Sir Saul Samuel the date at which he thought the congress would be most likely to be attended by representatives from New South Wales, and, second, as to what assistance would, in his opinion, be probably given by the Government in making the congress known, and aiding in making it successful and securing a representative attendance. In view of the expiration of a number of commercial treaties in Europe, and also of recent economic legislation in America, the London Chamber of Commerce believed that next autumn would give special and practical value to the conference. Sir Saul Samuel, in reply, said that he thought October or November would be a favourable time for a congress, but he was of opinion that the Government would not consider it within their province to assist in the manner indicated. It appeared to him that the Sydney Chamber of Commerce was the proper body to apply to. The Agent-General, however, forwarded the correspondence to the Colonial Secretary, from whom it has been received by the Chamber of Commerce. The committee of the chamber will deal with it at its next meeting.

Although it is said that there is an uneasy feeling on the London money market, it would appear that the market rate for three months' bills fell from 3 per cent. on Monday to 2⅞ per cent. yesterday. The Bank of England reserve has declined from £16,148,000 to £15,370,000 ; and the percentage of reserves to liabilities from 39⅞ to 36·80. Goschen's Consols are quoted at 96, ex div., being about 1s below last week's quotation. New South Wales 4's and 3½'s, 1918, are each 5s lower, while New South Wales 3½'s, 1924, now quoted at 102, ex div., are 5s higher. Victorian 3½'s have recovered 10s, and are now quoted as firm at £99 15s. South Australian 4's are 10s higher. Queensland 3½'s and Western Australian 4's are each 5s lower. The price of tin is unaltered on the week, but Chili copper has declined 20s per ton, being quoted at £52 5s.

Respecting the state of business in Adelaide, Mr. F. Wright, under date March 3, reports as follows :—

> General business is dull, and transactions are limited to immediate requirements. One reason for this is without doubt the quickness and facility with which orders are completed throughout the country district by means of our improved communication by rail or water, thus doing away with the necessity for keeping large stocks in the farming areas. The still unsettled state of the labour market is also checking confidence and any speculative tendency.

In the Import markets to-day a general improvement in business was reported, most of the distributing houses also being fairly busy with town and country orders. The position of the flour market is a firm one in view of the strong markets in the South and in Europe. Our London cable messages report a further advance. The range of quotations for roller brands of flour is from £9 7s 6d to £9 15s, some millers quoting to £10. Stone makes, £8 15s to £9 5s. Wheat is firm at 3s 10d. Very little business in tea has come under notice since the auction sale on Wednesday. The market remains firm. Bonded stocks compared with the figures of last year are as follow:—

—	Chests.	Half-chests.	Boxes.	Packages.
March 7, 1890	1,667	70,438	21,020	2,598
March 6, 1891	8,210	56,295	6,026	11,330

Lea and Perrins' sauce, scarce both on the spot and to arrive, with sale to arrive at 11s 6d. In dried fruit we note sales of currants at 4½d to 4¾d : half-cases to land sold at the latter figure. Elemes, 6½d to 6¾d; for shipments to arrive, 6¼d accepted. Sultanas sold at 8¼d. The bonded stock of dried fruit amounts to 1,467,265lb., against 1,908,729lb. at the corresponding period of last year. Good sales of sugar have been made : off whites at from £23 to £23 10s; fair to good white, £24 to £24 10s; fine white, £25 ; yellows, from £19 to £22. The receipts from the Rivers during the week have amounted to 180 bags and 1650 mats ; and the quantity received into bond amounted to 166 tons. The deliveries from bond had amounted to 735 tons, of which 219 tons were exported. The present bonded stock amounts to 10,313 tons, as compared with 10,882 tons last week, and 6250 tons a year back. The Brisbane Courier reports a fair movement in sugar, and sales of good dry whites for delivery during the month had taken place. Fine table rice is offered at £18, the lower qualities are moving at from £13 to £13 10s, stocks being ample. Sago and tapioca, 3d. Pepper is cheaper, white being quoted at 8¼d, and black at 5½d. Blackhorse coarse salt, 85s ; Liverpool, 72s 6d to 75s; rock salt, 75s for red. There is not much doing in candles, D. R. Jenner, 6d to 6¼d, according to quantity. A quantity of fluted paraffin quitted at 7d. The demand for fish is very restricted. Half-mediums are selling at from 5s 9d; quarters, from 3s 3d. Tinned salmon of best brands is held for 7s ; inferior fish, from 6s, and even less. Ling cannot be quoted over 4¼d. Fresh herrings, 4s 6d to 5s; kippered, 7s to 7s 6d; red, 18s to 19s, one dozen in tin. Milk, 6s 9d to 7s; sales of Nestlé's quoted at 6s 6d. Pickles and salad oils are selling at late rates. Oxford blue, 6½d to 6¾d. Keen's half-lb. mustard very scarce, market firm at 8s; quarter-lbs. also scarce at 4s 6d. Morton's castor oil, 7s half-pints and 4s pints. There was more inquiry for liquids ; and we note sales of M'Ewan's, Patterson and Hibbert's, and Monk brand at current rates. A parcel of Jeffrey's bulk ale was sold at £4 15s. Dagger and Beaver stout noticed. The inquiry for Hennessy's brandy is less active, 47s and 36s for single and three star respectively are current rates. Bacot brandy, 7s with sales. Sales of Red Heart rum at 22s 6d. Usher's and Robertson's whisky moved off at agents' quotations ; 44 quarters sherry and 20 quarters port sold at from 4s to 14s. Pommery's champagne in request, with sales at 105s and 110s, quarts and pints respectively. Galvanised iron £21 to £22. Our London message shows that Glasgow warrants, No. 1 pig iron has declined from 47s to 46s 3d. Sheet lead, £17 10s to £17 12s 6d. Fencing wire, No. 8, £10 10s to £10 15s ; No. 10, £12 10s to £12 15s. Wire nails 12s 9d to 13s. Tinplates are still dearer ; sales of I.C. Coke made at 28s 6d, both on the spot and to arrive, and up to 25s is quoted. A cable message received by a private firm gives the London price as 20s. Muntz metal, 7½d. There was more inquiry for cornsacks to-day ; 5s 4d is asked for parcels for immediate delivery ; bran bags 4s 6d to 4s 7d. Woolpacks dull of sale at 1s 10d. Kerosene oil from 9d for low test and from 9¾d for high are current rates. Raw and boiled oil, 3s 4d to 3s 7d in drum, according to brand. Castor is procurable at 2s 11d to 3s, and for China 3s 11d was paid; colza, 4s. American turps, 2s 8½d. Soda crystals have become very scarce, and £6 10s is readily procurable. Carbonate of soda is lower since stocks have been replenished, and over £11 cannot be quoted. Cream of tartar, 12½d ; tartaric acid, 1s 4½d. Bluestone sold at £24 to £25.

Messrs. J. Barre Johnston and Co., we learn, are the successful tenderers, in Melbourne for the reticulation pipes and accessories for the Broken Hill Water Supply, Limited, for which the "Acme" joint has been accepted ; the engineer for the undertaking being highly satisfied as to its economy and efficiency.

PRODUCE MARKET.—FRIDAY.

This morning fair consignments of firewood and 40 trucks of forage were submitted at the Darling Harbour railway terminus. The auctions were only moderately attended by the trade. The demand for forage was chiefly restricted to hay, especially good qualities of oaten descriptions, which realised firm rates. Chaff continues to be purchased sparingly. Tolerably active competition prevailed throughout the wood auctions. At the wharfs the balance of previous supplies was replenished by shipments from the various northern rivers, the southern coastal ports, and the adjacent colonies. Business was exclusively confined to commodities for actual requirements. The maize market was firmer. Bright heavy feed oats were in limited supply. Bran and pollard maintained yesterday's figures. Prices of potatoes were irregular. The onion market ruled fairly firm. Butter commanded moderately strong attention. Good well-cured bacon sells readily. Cheese was in moderate request. Rather light stocks of eggs were available. Only poultry suitable for table use were saleable. Particulars of the business transacted at the Darling Harbour auction sales were as follows :—

Wood.—Fair supplies. Billet ranges from 9s to 12s 6d per ton; bundle, 10s to 15s; foot, 9s 6d to 13s; bakers', 9s to 13s.

Hay.—Nineteen trucks were available. Best oaten, in bundles, was competed for steadily at 4s 6d per cwt., other qualities 3s to 4s 1d; loose sheaves, 3s; lucerne, in truss, from Windsor 2s 6d, Mulgrave 2s 9d; bales, from Perth 3s 4d, Tamworth 3s 1d to 3s 5d; lucerne in truss and oaten and wheaten sheaves, 3s 4d.

Straw.—Four trucks came to hand. Clean wheaten, in bundles, sold at 2s to 2s 1d per cwt.; sheaves, 2s.

Chaff.—Seventeen trucks were submitted. Good oaten and wheaten, in bags, 4s per cwt. Competition for other sorts lacked animation at 2s 9d to 3s 10d. Straw, in bags, 2s 6d.

At the wharfs the wholesale quotations were :—

Wheat.—The ruling rate for prime-conditioned milling lots was 3s 10d per bushel; fowls food, 3s to 3s 4d.

Flour.—Stone-made flour ranges from £8 17s 6d to £9 5s per ton; roller makes, £9 7s 6d to £9 15s; some holders to £10.

Bran.—Quotations given were 7½d to 7¾d per bushel.

Pollard.—Again worth 8½d to 8¾d per bushel.

Maize.—Best old sound sorts, free from weevil, were scarce, and quoted to 3s 6d per bushel; good dry new maize was in better request at 2s 9d to 3s.

Oats.—Ample supplies of medium and discoloured lots of feed samples. Quoted from 1s 9d per bushel. Bright clean, heavy parcels, from 2s to 2s 1d.

Hay.—Further consignments of Hunter River lucerne hay were received this morning. Good, well-saved, dry, green leafy sorts saleable, £3 to £3 5s per ton; choice kinds to £3 10s; other descriptions, including brown hay, £1 to £1 10s.

Chaff.—Additional shipments from the neighbouring colonies yesterday afternoon. Unaltered, £3 10s to £3 15s per ton; good well-known brands, £4.

Onions.—The improved tone for this commodity was fully maintained; £3 5s per ton.

Potatoes.—This market fully supplied, and remains unsettled. Prime Warrnambool varieties, £2 10s to £2 15s per ton; faulty lots from £2.

Butter.—Prices unaltered. Best Illawarra dairy-made, 5d to 6d per lb.; factory makes, 6d to 7d.

Cheese.—7928 were received during the week from the Southern ports. Loaf cheese, 4d to 5d per lb.; ordinary descriptions, 2½d to 3½d.

Bacon.—Good, well-cured sides were in demand. Machine-cured Southern, 5d to 6½d per lb.; hand-cured, 7d to 7½d; special makes, to 8d; flitches, 6d; middle, to 9d. Both colonial and intercolonial hams were in very limited request.

Lard.—Finely-rendered, in bladders, quoted at 5d to 4½d per lb.; bulk, from 3d.

Eggs.—Supplies have decreased. Colonial lots saleable from 1s 2d to 1s 4d per dozen.

Poultry.—Ordinary kinds difficult to dispose of. Fowls, 2s 6d to 3s 3d per pair; ducks 2s 9d to 3s 6d; extra good, higher; geese, 3s 9d to 4s 3d; turkeys, 8s to 15s.

Meat.—The Riverstone Meat Company reports having sold 65 bodies of beef at 1½d to 2d per lb; fore quarters 1½d to 1¾d; hind quarters, 2¼d to 2½d; 600 bodies mutton, 1½d to 1¾d; lambs, in carcase, 5s to 8s.

Fruit.—At George-street Markets yesterday there were fairly good supplies of seasonable fruit, which came chiefly from our various country districts, Queensland, and Tasmania. A quantity of Fijian and Samoan fruits was also on hand. Business was steady. Quotations: Colonial apples, including eating and baking, 3s to 5s per case; Hobart apples, 4s; Queensland pineapples, 3s to 8s; bananas, 1s 6d to 5s per bunch; Samoan oranges, 5s to 7s; lemons, 5s to 8s; pears, 4s to 12s; peaches, 2s to 7s; plums, 2s 6d to 4s; passion fruit, 5s to 6s; quinces, 1s 6d to 3s; figs, 2s; grapes ranged from 1d to 4d per lb.; water melons, 2s to 4s per dozen; cocoanuts, 6s to 8s per bag.

STOCK, STATION, AND PRODUCE SALES.

Tallow.—Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, J. H. Geddes and Co. (the Pastoralists' Association, Limited), J. Bridge and Co., Brunker and Wolfe, F. L. Barker, Winchcombe, Carson, and Co., Hill, Clark, and Co., and Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, report holding sales yesterday. 432 packages were offered, and 420 sold publicly. The market at opening sales was very active, and prices ruled, say, 2s 6d to 5s per ton higher than at previous sales; and all through the market there was a buoyant tone. Quotations: Best mixed (mutton and beef), £19 1s to £20 per ton; medium, £19 7s 6d to £19 12s 6d; best beef, £19 10s to £19 15s; medium, £18 to £19 7s 6d.

Hides.—Yesterday's catalogues numbered 5447, of which 5415 were disposed of. A brisk general tone pervaded the sales, and values of all descriptions were well maintained up to the late ruling levels. Prime extra heavy weights were very keenly competed for, and occasionally reached extreme prices. Quotations: Extra heavy and very prime, 3½d to 3⅝d per lb.; really superior to 4½d; good heavies, 2½d to 3d; ordinary and sloppers heavies, 2¼d to 2¾d; medium weights, 2½d to 2¾d; best light weights, 2¼d to 2½d; ordinary, 2½d to 2¾d; dry station, 3d to 5d.

Hair.—Only limited supplies continue to be available and prices at late sales ruled very firm. Horsehair 14d to 15½d per lb.; cow off stumps, 8½d to 13d; stumps, 6d to 7½d.

Horns and Bones.—Again in good request. Largest horns, 22s 6d to 35s per 100; medium, 15s to 21s; small, including tips, 2s to 11s; best shank bones, £5 to £5 10s per ton; ordinary descriptions, £4 10s to £4 15s; common bones, £3 to £3 5s.

Wattle Bark.—Messrs. J. H. Geddes and Co. (the Pastoralists' Association, Limited), J. Bridge and Co., Winchcombe, Carson, and Co., Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, Goldsbrough, Mort and Co., Limited, and F. L. Barker report that at yesterday's sales the quantity of bark offered was far in excess of the demand. A few lots changed hands at fair prices. Prices to £8 17s 6d per ton.

Store Stock.—The demand for store cattle in the North-west districts was firm. Good three to five year old bullocks, delivered in South Queensland, 57s 6d to 60s; New South Wales border, 62s 6d; Hunter River, 65s to 67s 6d. Store Sheep: Wethers, two-tooth, worth 6s; six and eight tooth, 6s 6d to 7s; mixed weaners, very dull of sale.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

The value of Barrier scrip decreased again yesterday, and closing sales showed a disposition to still further weaken. Block 10 brought £13 16s, £13 17s. Central dropped from 91s 6d to 90s 3d, and South from 93s to 90s 6d. Sunny Corners changed hands at 46s 6d. In gold the only transactions recorded were in Victory, at 52s to 52s 6d, and in Bear Hill at 16s, and in Peak Hill at 6s 9d.

MELBOURNE, FRIDAY.

Among gold companies Eastern Plateau, Hustler's Reef, and Specimen Hill had a limited sale at full late prices. Star of the East, South Star, Russell's Reef, and North Johnson's sold lower. Bear Hill opened with a sale over yesterday's closing prices, but eased afterwards to 16s. Silver shares had a moderate business this morning, and higher prices were paid for Balstrup's, Comet, and Junction ; but in the afternoon there were free sellers of all both Broken Hill and Tasmanian Company, and lower prices were accepted, especially for Central Broken. Sales:—Broken Hill, £10 16s, £10 15s ; Block 10, £13 14s, £13 15s ; Junction, 36s 6d, 37s 6d, 35s 6d ; South, paid, 92s 6d ; Block 5, 16s ; British, 57s ; Broken Extended, 13s 6d ; Central, paid, 92s 6d, 94s, 89s 6d ; Pinnacle Amalgamated, 4s ; Round Hill, 71s, 70s ; Victoria Cross, 2s ; Austral, 4s 9d, 4s 6d ; Balstrup's, 8s 4½d, 7s 9d ; Central Dundas, 4s 1d ; Comet, 18s 3d, 17s, 17s 3d ; Success, 3s 6d, 3s 4d.

A telegram from Hillgrove states that the country passed through in No. 1 tunnel is full of pyrites. The tunnel is in 410ft. The lode in the face shows fine gold, but not yet through the lode, which bears south-west.

ADELAIDE, FRIDAY.

ARMIDALE, FRIDAY.

There is a good deal of excitement in Armidale over supposed rich silver discoveries on Rockvale. Companies are being floated to work the reefs.

BROKEN HILL, FRIDAY.

The rich vein of ore at the 280ft. level Australian Broken Hill Consols mine is looking better than ever. A number of visitors went down the mine to-day, and were much struck with the size and richness of this remarkable deposit. During the past fortnight 4 tons of this ore have been raised, consisting of sulphide of silver and native silver, and containing 32,933oz. silver. This parcel is now being boxed up ready for shipment to London. The vein has been followed 20ft. on the incline drive below main level, and looks well. The enclosing country here is very hard, and machine drills driven by compressed air are now being set up so as to forward the extension of the level. On the 180ft. level rich canary ore has again been met with. The main engine shaft is sunk 525ft. The lode at the bottom is 10 ft. wide, composed of calcspar and galena, presenting a most favourable appearance. An improvement has occurred in the 340ft. level of Block 10 mine, where the east crosscut off the north drive has entered good-grade carbonate lead ore, apparently a continuation of Block 11 lode. During the week the output of ore to Dry Creek was about 450 tons. Prospecting work is going ahead, and the stopes generally are looking first-class. At the Argus mine a small vein of rich ore is being followed along the surface. Two tons of ore, sent away in February, averaged 160oz. silver to the ton. Another consignment will be sent next week. The vein is about one inch thick.

CARCOAR, FRIDAY.

Mining in the district is on the eve of looking up. The Homeward Bound at Gally Swamp struck another rich vein at a depth of about 210ft. At Belmore things are looking prosperous. The Blue Jacket and adjoining claims are likely to be amalgamated and floated into a large concern on the London market.

GUNDAGAI, FRIDAY.

Brummy's Hill alluvial mine is now in full swing. The managing director, P. Hoeg, of Sydney, was here on Tuesday last, and took away with him some nuggets from the mine. The company is merely stripping the side of the hill, and is satisfied with the results, but expect to meet with richer deposits on the river flat. Lindley's Lead Alluvial Gold-mining Company is now sinking. On the opposite side of the river to this company's, and about 300 yards west of Lindley's working, good gold was struck this week by boring on the river bank, with 8ft. of wash, sinking being 117ft. In a few weeks' time mining on the river flat should be lively.

HERBERTON, FRIDAY.

At the last exchange Muldivas sold, paid up, at 12s 6d, contributing 9s 1d ; Pioneers, tin, 5s ; New North Australian, tin and copper, 4s 2d. A good lode has been struck in the Pioneer. Copper ore sent from the New North Australian gave 70s clear profit per ton. Robertson and Garraway's provisional prospecting claim, six miles from Muldiva, has been formed into a syndicate of 100 shares at £15 each. Shares are now at a premium. Latest assays give 40 per cent. of lead and up to 170oz. of silver per ton. Sydney speculators hold an interest in this mine. The lode where opened is very large. Native silver is found in small quantities at Nowelton, 10 miles from Herberton. Over 30 leases were applied for during the month of February in different localities in the Walsh and Tinaroo district.

CRUSHING AND SMELTING RETURNS.

Proprietary Mine, Broken Hill.—Week's run—13 furnaces.—Ore treated, 5088 tons, producing 358 tons of bullion, containing 176,794oz. silver.

Block 10.—Week's yield, 3.1 tons ore, 28 tons bullion, containing 28,355oz. silver. 1273 tons in course of transit and sampling. The low quality sampled this week is due to the delay in transit.

Block 14.—Week's yield, 1276 tons ore, 255 tons bullion, containing 28,883oz. silver.

Ethel May Gold-mining Company, No Liability (by wire).—Crushed 300 tons of stone for 150 ounces retorted gold.

Quadie's Proprietary Gold-mining Company (by telegraph), March 5.—Commence crushing 200 tons at Haselhurst's battery last night ; will wire again to-morrow.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

Ethel May Gold-mining Company, No Liability.—No. 4 drive has been extended 11ft., total 61ft. Have stoped and crushed 70 tons for week, and taken 68oz. amalgam off plates, and intend finishing up on Tuesday next.

Royal Standard Gold-mining Company, No Liability.—Contractors have driven 7ft. for week, making a total of 688ft. ; rock of same character.

Rising Sun, February 21.—400ft. level : Contractors making fair progress with crosscut west, considering the ground ; total in, 7ft. 300ft. level : Crosscut west in 16ft. ; ground not so hard as in level below.

THE RED HILL PROPRIETARY GOLD-MINING COMPANY, GULGONG.—Shares in this Company are being applied for at the rate of one thousand per day. Prompt application is necessary to secure an interest. Prospectuses and Forms of Application from Borchardt and Read, 12 P.O.-chambers, Pitt-st., who have also specimens of rich ore from the property. A ton of ore is being bagged and sent to Sydney for treatment. J. S. READ, sec. pro tem.—[ADVT.]

WAS IT PROVIDENCE OR ACCIDENT?

Did the finding of that article save the man's life? That is the question. Is there a divinity that shapes our ends? or are events but a mere series of accidents, which may happen to one person as well as another? Are the experiences that compose our lives links in a chain, or loose grains of sand? As you answer these questions, as you take the one side or the other, so is your faith ; you are a materialist or a believer in Providence. We now propose to relate a story in illustration of this problem, which may have some effect in arousing those who have always thought themselves the subjects of blind chance. The following facts are fully vouched for, and resemble occurrences in the lives of multitudes.

Several years ago Griffith Jones was a policeman at Holyhead, Wales. He had a family consisting of a wife and five young children to take care of. Holyhead is on St. George's (or the Irish) Channel, and is open to the terrific gales that so often gather on those dangerous waters and beat with violence upon the coast. Jones' "post" or "beat" extended back into the country, over bleak wind-swept hills. He had to walk through this region in all weathers, day or night. He was often out in winter nights, in cold and darkness, exposed to the storms that drive in from the sea. At such times the wife listened to the rattling windows, and prayed that the husband and father might take no harm in the wild tempest. This was hard lines, but in the family (though they were poor enough) there was still health and comparative comfort. But in a bad storm the policeman caught a heavy cold. Home remedies failed to cure it, and the officer sent to his old physician at Aberffraw for medicine. It did no good. Jones's right side grew "queer" and painful. The doctor said it was the liver, and he was right; but correct opinions don't cure disease. His head troubled him, too, and he was often so giddy he could hardly walk. "I am so tired and weary," he would say. "I don't know what makes me. I try to rest and sleep, but get up just as dead tired as when I go to bed."

Then worse came. He sat down to his table but revolted from his food; appetite was gone. There was a curious feeling at the stomach ; it was cold, dull, and miserable, like a furnace which contains nothing but ashes and cinders. A nasty and nauseous kind of gas or wind came up into his throat, like the effluvia from a tomb. His wife called his attention to the ghastly yellow colour of his eyes and skin, and once in a while he would have a spell of palpitation of the heart that made him afraid of falling dead—perhaps in some lonely place.

In spite of it all, however, Policeman Jones kept on duty as much as ever he could. Of course, so would any honest, plucky man. But he slept fitfully, with bad dreams. He cried out sometimes with the terror of them, and the frightened children said, "Is papa going to die?" He was, and is one of the most patient and loving of men, yet now he was cross and surly to his family. Then something new developed. There came a pain under his left shoulder blade ; his wrists and knees grew swollen and painful ; this was rheumatism, caused, the doctor said, by the undigested and fermented food having poisoned the blood. Kidney and bladder complaint followed—for they also are merely symptoms of indigestion and dyspepsia. The policeman now felt that he must give up, and, if he did, then what? He could foresee nothing but destitution.

Now we come to the event which suggested the question with which this short history begins : Was it an accident or was it a link in a saving chain. Entering the Holyhead station-house one day ill, depressed, weak, and miserable, he saw a little pamphlet upon the table. He picked it up and began to read it. In a few moments his mind was riveted upon its pages. In clear, plain language he found his own case fully described, just as though the book had been written for him and for him alone. It named a cure for all his ailments, a medicine called Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup. The plain honesty of the statements won his confidence. He procured half a dozen bottles through Mr. Henry Wilson, of the Drug Hall, Holyhead. Taking it he began to improve, and all his aches and pains vanished in a few weeks. This was August, 1879. Ten years have passed, but not a sign or symptom of his ailment has returned. Mr. Jones entered upon a more lucrative business, and wherever he goes he spreads the fame of Seigel's Syrup, and insists that the glimpse of the book on the table settled the point as to whether he should go under the sod or be the strong new man he has been ever since.

WAVERLEY LAND SALE, SATURDAY, March 21st, Garrard and Hamilton, 76 Pitt-street.

A WONDERFUL MEDICINE.

BEECHAM'S PILLS
BEECHAM'S PILLS
BEECHAM'S PILLS

are universally admitted to be worth a Guinea a Box for Bilious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushings of Heat, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Costiveness, Scurvy and Blotches on the Skin, Disturbed Sleep, Frightful Dreams, and all Nervous and Trembling Sensations, &c. The first dose will give relief in 20 minutes. This is no fiction, for they have done it in countless cases.

Every Sufferer is earnestly invited to try One Box of these Pills, and they will be acknowledged to be WORTH A GUINEA A BOX
WORTH A GUINEA A BOX
WORTH A GUINEA A BOX.

For females of all ages they are invaluable. No female should be without them. There is not a medicine to be found equal to them for removing any obstruction or irregularity of the system. If taken according to the directions given with each box they will soon restore females of all ages to sound and robust health. This has been proved by thousands who have tried them and found the benefits which are ensured by their use.

BEECHAM'S PILLS
BEECHAM'S PILLS
BEECHAM'S PILLS.

For a weak stomach, impaired digestion, and all disorders of the liver, they act like magic, and a few doses will be found to work wonders on the most important organs in the human machine. They strengthen the whole muscular system, restore the long-lost complexion, bring back the keen edge of appetite, and arouse into action with the rosebud of health the whole physical energy of the human frame. These are facts testified continually by members of all classes of society, and one of the best guarantees to the nervous and debilitated is, BEECHAM'S PILLS HAVE the LARGEST SALE of any patent medicine in the world.

BEECHAM'S MAGIC COUGH PILLS
BEECHAM'S MAGIC COUGH PILLS
BEECHAM'S MAGIC COUGH PILLS.

As a remedy for Coughs in general, Asthma, Bronchial Affections, Hoarseness, Shortness of Breath, Tightness and Oppression of the Chest, &c., these Pills stand unrivalled. They are the best ever offered to the public and will speedily remove that sense of oppression and difficulty of breathing which nightly deprives the patient of rest. Let any person give BEECHAM'S COUGH PILLS a trial, and the most violent cough will in a short time be removed.

Prepared only, and sold wholesale and retail, by the proprietor, THOMAS BEECHAM, St. Helens, Lancashire, England, and by all Druggists and Patent Medicine Vendors everywhere.

In Boxes, 1s 1½d and 2s 9d each.
Full directions are given with each box.

ARGYLE SCHOOL, ARTHURLEIGH,
166-168, ALBION-STREET, SURRY HILLS.
Conducted by Miss E. C. BAXTER.
Established 1874.
Assisted by competent Teachers and Professors.

The method of instruction adopted is a combination of the Public and Private School systems, and the aim is to secure a thorough high-class English Education.

The results obtained by the pupils of the school at the University Examinations may be taken as a proof of the success of the system adopted.

Besides the numerous pupils who have passed the Civil Service, Junior, Senior, and Matriculation Examinations, in 1876, 1877, 1880, 1881, 1884, and 1886, the Fairfax Junior Prize, in 1882 the Medal for Geography, in 1884 p. acc. for the Medals for German and Arithmetic, in 1885 p. acc. for the Medal for Geology, in 1886 the Junior Prize and Medal for French, in 1883 the Senior Prize, in 1887 p. acc. for the Senior Prize, and in 1889 the Senior Prize, were gained by this school.

The school buildings, specially erected for the purpose, are large, lofty, well ventilated, completely furnished, and in a healthy position.

In the adjoining residences there is ample accommodation for House Pupils, who are under the continual supervision of Resident Governesses, all the domestic arrangements being under the immediate personal superintendence of the Misses Baxter. Circulars forwarded on application.

THE AUTUMN SEASON.
CLOSE OF THE SUMMER.
FUTURE PROSPECTS.
PRESENT OUTLOOK.
OUR ENORMOUS TRADE.
WHY IT INCREASES.
WHY IT WILL INCREASE.
For
THE AUTUMN SEASON
THE AUTUMN SEASON,

We have already opened large quantities of goods, all of which will recommend themselves to the public on account of their absolute freshness and cheapness; for while our practice of paying CASH DOWN for all we buy, of taking credit from no man, enables us to secure untold advantages, it is one of our guiding principles, from which we never depart, to give those who patronise us the full benefit of our position of vantage in marking goods for sale. That is why our prices are always lower than our neighbours' and contemporaries'; for supposing A to represent our house in the market and B another house or houses, and both or all to be buying some standard line, or indeed anything, A, through the largeness of his order, and from the fact of his offering ready money in exchange for the goods purchased, will get lower prices than B, who takes THREE MONTHS' CREDIT, because, although B has no difficulty, being a man of integrity and probity, in arranging a date for future settlement, his lack of HARD CASH compels him to postpone payment until after he has sold the goods. It is plain to the meanest capacity that, all other things being equal, A must win, for CREDIT stands no chance against CASH DOWN, and that is why we win, in laying out our ready money we do not forget those who so liberally patronise us, and do not fail to let them share in the advantages of our position, do such an ENORMOUS TRADE
ENORMOUS TRADE.

It is why our trade is always on the increase, and it is why it will go on increasing until the universe is cleared for the running of the
MILLENNIUM STAKES
and there are no more people to buy. That may be in the far, far away future, into which the eye of man cannot see, nor the telescopic vision of philosophy penetrate.

Meanwhile the duties and responsibilities of the present are with us, and we can no more afford to lose ourselves in a dream of the future than we can to neglect the business that is to do.

We, i.e.,
ANTHONY HORDERN and SONS,
PALACE EMPORIUM,
HAYMARKET
(only),
propose, therefore, to go on buying and selling, buying wherever there is anything good to be got, and selling to all who are kind enough to favour us with custom.

WHAT WE CAN DO.
WHAT WE CAN DO.

We sell everything, and can supply every want. Our programme goes on widening as years roll by, and in the future, as in the past, we shall do our level best to supply goods of undeniable quality and character. We bring to the task an almost perfect knowledge of the wants of the people of Australia, not only of the dwellers in town, but also of country residents. Whether we
FURNISH YOUR HOUSE,
FURNISH YOUR HOUSE,
provide you with a PIANO, fill in your weekly order for GROCERIES, or rig you out in a Sunday-going SUIT, depend upon it one and all will be first chop, and you will be will be able to say you have saved considerably by buying from us. In matters of Fashion we are supreme; there is no one can touch us; our buyers are ever on the alert; they are in Paris one day, in Berlin the next, in London the day after—they go everywhere; and the result of their never-ceasing watchfulness is seen in the goods that reach us by every steamer, and by the increased appreciation of our customers. Our contention is that people not rolling in riches have just as much right to nice things to wear as their luckier brethren, and so we, having the entry of every manufactory and warehouse in the world, are enabled to offer to all who are willing to trade for SPOT CASH a choice of everything produced in the World of Fashion. We enable people to combine to dress well at a small expenditure, to practise those rules of economy that commend themselves to sensible folks, and at the same time to be well and fashionably dressed. There is something in this, and we are happy to be able to say the people quite agree with us, and act accordingly. And we prove ourselves useful in a thousand ways by supplying at low prices a thousand different things absolutely necessary for daily and comfortably carrying on the business of life.
GUMPTION WITH GUSH
GUMPTION WITH GUSH,

UNIVERSAL PROVIDERS
UNIVERSAL PROVIDERS.
That's what they call us, because we sell everything. Diamond Rings and Dumb-bells, Slop-pails and Silk Dresses, School Books, Shovels and Shaving Brushes, Tools of all Trades, Theatrical Tights and Travelling Bags, Varnishes and Velvets, Steak Beaters and Step Ladders. Everything you can think of, name, or dream about. If you are in town call and see, if in the country write. Give us a trial and we are content, for the best man must win, and we are sure to get your next order.

TO HOTELKEEPERS, BREWERS, SPECULATORS, CATERERS FOR PUBLIC AMUSEMENT, AND THE SPORTING PUBLIC.

FOR POSITIVE SALE.

That magnificent and extensive property known as THE SIR JOSEPH BANKS HOTEL PICNIC and PLEASURE GROUNDS, SITUATE AT BOTANY, comprising an area of about 20 acres in a compact block; only six miles from the CITY, and approached by a good road. The GROUNDS are surrounded on three sides by roads, and bounded on the other side by the SANDY BEACH of BOTANY BAY.

The TRAMWAY communication with Sydney passes the gates, and is regular and constant, there being 39 trips to and from the city each day.

The grounds, gardens, and shrubberies are beautifully laid out, and almost every kind of improvement and accommodation has been provided for the enjoyment of the thousands who flock to this favourite spot on holidays and other occasions.

The following may be mentioned as the most important improvements:—

THE SIR JOSEPH BANKS HOTEL, substantially built of brick (cemented) on stone foundation, wide verandahs and balconies (tiled), wide entrance hall, dining-room, drawing-room, 4 public rooms, sitting-room, 4 parlours, 14 bedrooms, bathrooms, 2 pantries, and storeroom, also large and extensive kitchens and laundry, servants' rooms, &c.; connected with the main building by covered way is the OLD HOTEL, containing bars, billiard-room, dining-room, and 9 other rooms.

THE GRAND STAND attached to the new hotel is a fine structure, and is capable of seating 800 people; underneath are bars, dressing-rooms, bathrooms, &c.; it overlooks a splendid oval-shaped bicycle and running track ⅓-mile in circumference, with large area for spectators, the whole being enclosed by 8ft. corrugated iron fence.

THE LAWN and GARDENS between the hotel and beach have for upwards of 40 years enjoyed the reputation of being without exception the most tastefully laid out place of recreation in the colony. On the Lawn are the noted RUNNING TRACKS used for the SHEFFIELD HANDICAPS, a commodious stand a PONY RACING TRACK and STAND, and all the necessary adjuncts.

LARGE DANCING PAVILION, having wide verandahs, with kitchens, &c., attached. Beyond the PAVILION is the BOWLING CLUB and grounds, two SKITTLE ALLEYS, and a Cottage of 8 rooms, in the midst of a pretty garden.

THE STABLING, which is LARGE, well arranged, and commodious, contains 4 loose boxes, and standing room for a great number of horses, as well as carriage and buggy accommodation, men's rooms, &c.

BEAUTIFUL POSITION.

ATTRACTIVE COMFORTABLE RESIDENCE, ROSELLE, well built for an owner's home property.

JOHNSTON-STREET, ANNANDALE.

Truly a very pretty spot; it is nestled among VERY SUPERIOR and COSTLY HOUSES erected and owned by John Young, Esq., J.P.

The situation is fronting a well-made wide road, in a quiet cheerful neighbourhood, easy of access to and from the city by steamer; wharf is only a few hundred yards from the house; and tramway is projected at once, quite close to property.

ROSELLE is placed on high ground, and is exceptionally well and tastefully built of brick (cemented) on stone foundation, slate roof, having verandah and balcony, eight rooms, handsome bathroom (fitted), pantry, kitchen, and laundry. At rear is stabling premises of wood, &c., fronting lane at the rear. The approach to the house is by a capital flight of stone steps, and altogether the property is a most enjoyable residence, and being for positive sale, those seeking a DELIGHTFUL SITUATION and COMFORT should inspect Roselle. Open for inspection.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH, Limited, will sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 3rd April, at 11 o'clock,

The above residence, Johnston-street, Annandale. (1628)

KENSINGTON.

A name most familiar to the Public, commended by our City Press, and HIGHLY APPRECIATED ELSEWHERE.

NOW

It is in the Market for Sale

A FIRST SUBDIVISION

fronting

BUNNERONG-ROAD

and VARIOUS AVENUES and STREETS.

A splendid Avenue is opened from Randwick-road, near the Racecourse, DIRECT TO THE ESTATE.

Allotments are of a practical and convenient size for the erection of TASTEFULLY DESIGNED HOMES.

The Vendors are now inviting competitive designs for types of architecture and estimates to show cost of erecting the same, in order to guide proposing buyers in their choice.

It is intended that this vast and highly attractive Estate, over 1000 acres in extent, shall on completion of the development be

THE MODEL SUBURB AND THE FASHIONABLE AND HEALTHIEST PORTION OF SYDNEY, in fact there will be nothing to equal it in

THE WHOLE OF AUSTRALASIA.

There is a Block of over 30 acres of exceptionally improved Building Land on the east side of Bunnerong-road, between it and the Racecourse and this is to serve as the INTRODUCTION by this Auction Sale to the large area owned by the Corporation.

The carriage ways of these streets have been formed and metalled, and the footways kerbed, asphalted, and channelled. Trees will be planted during the next season.

The restrictions here will not be vexatious, and only such as will, equally in the interests of the buyers as of the vendors,

CONSERVE THEIR PROPERTY and ENHANCE ITS VALUE.

The Terms will be Unusually Favourable.

Can a Spot be More Beautiful or

Access thereto from the City be More Charming!

Consider the Easy Distance from the City, that the ESTATE IS IN THE MIDST OF THE PARKS, and the number and extent of them.

It is immediately opposite the

CENTENNIAL PARK,

which is fast developing into one of the finest in the world;

MOORE PARK,

of large proportions with its eminences Mounts Rennie and Steel;

RECREATION GROUNDS,

for various delights enjoyed by countless thousands;

Also the Zoological Gardens, Association Cricket Ground, And Agricultural Society Grounds;

RANDWICK RACECOURSE,

an extensive open sward, which may be said to be a permanent park observed from this property, and virtually a private park adjoining this SUBDIVISION OF KENSINGTON.

The Route from the City by STEAM TRAMWAY

Is certainly the prettiest and most enjoyable of all the tram lines; first past HYDE PARK, CITY, animating OXFORD-STREET, BOTANY-STREET,

and

ever gladsome with or without its living crowds of human form on ordinary or extraordinary days.

The ride or drive is picturesque and stimulating.

Then it is in a central situation, from which to radiate to other RESORTS of an interesting kind, viz.:—

COOGEE BAY, the BEACH,

and

RECREATION RESERVE,

LONG BAY-ROAD,

MAROUBRA BAY,

LA PEROUSE MONUMENT,

and that engaging expansive water,

BOTANY BAY.

It is anticipated that a circular line of railway or tramway will be constructed before very long around the last-named directions, thus providing cheap and pleasant means of locomotion, if riding be preferred to the healthy exercise of walking to or from Kensington.

Pamphlets will be prepared and distributed to intending purchasers, and

Plans will be exhibited at the

ROOMS OF THE AUCTIONEERS, indicating the

STRIKING FEATURES

which the Directors desire to see accomplished on

KENSINGTON KENSINGTON

in relation to the very large area to be made available by gradual stages

TO FARMERS, GRAZIERS, AND LAND SPECULATORS, &c.

MAGNIFICENT FARMING, ORCHARD, AND GRAZING LAND,

Nine miles from Wagga Wagga, on the G.S.R. line, close to the Sandy Creek Station, with an available siding.

GRIFFITHS and WEAVER (in conjunction with HEATH and IRVINE, Wagga Wagga) have received instructions from the Mortgagees to offer for positive sale by public auction, at the Criterion Hotel, Wagga Wagga, on SATURDAY, 11th APRIL, 1891, at 12 o'clock,

THE WELL-KNOWN

CONNORTON ESTATE,

Comprising 5793 acres of Freehold and C.P. Land, a large portion unsurpassed for vineyards, orchards, farming, and grazing purposes; 200 acres under crop, average yield about 20 bushels per acre.

The property is fenced and subdivided into numerous paddocks, all of which are permanently watered by either dams, tanks, creeks, or running springs; the average rainfall being 22 inches per annum.

There is a very comfortable and complete homestead, with all necessary outbuildings, good garden, and vineyard, all in full bearing, and in fact the whole property is a going concern and in working order.

The attention of farmers, graziers, land speculators, and others, is specially drawn to this sale, and to the fact that land in the neighbourhood of Albury and extending upwards from there, is daily increasing in value, as the farming population is rapidly spreading towards Wagga.

The auctioneers can confidently recommend this property as a first-class investment.

TERMS, LIBERAL.

For lithographic plans and orders to inspect, apply to GRIFFITHS and WEAVER, Sydney; or HEATH and IRVINE, Wagga Wagga.

GREAT SUBDIVISION SALE of the famous

TUPPAL ESTATE.

FISKEN, VALENTINE, and CO. (conjointly with Dalgety and Co., Limited) have been instructed by the Trustees, Executors, and Agency Company, Limited (executors of the Will of the late Thomas Brown, Esq.), and by A. Macfarlan, Esq., to SELL by PUBLIC AUCTION, at Dalgety's Rooms, Bourke-street, Melbourne, on THURSDAY, March 19, at 3 o'clock p.m.,

That magnificent property known as subdivided into five lots, with the stock now depasturing thereon as follows:—

BOORABOONILLY,

consisting of about

10,430 acres of freehold land
5,045 ditto of C. P. ditto

Total 15,475 acres.

With about 12,300 wethers, 1, 2, and 3 years old.

Booraboonilly is subdivided into six paddocks, with good six-wire fencing, and is watered by 72 tanks, ranging in size from 2000 cubic feet upwards; also by two good wells with a never-failing supply of water. There are three sets of drafting yards on this block, so situated that sheep do not require to be moved from their own paddocks.

SOUTH TUPPAL,

consisting of about

7094 acres of freehold land
946 ditto C.P. ditto

Total 8040 acres.

Together with the following stock:—

About 5000 wethers, 1, 2, and 3 years old
500 cattle, mixed ages.

South Tuppal is subdivided into six paddocks, with six-wire fencing, and is watered by the main Tuppal and Narangie Tuppal Creek, besides nine tanks. There are also two sets of drafting yards on this block.

WESTISCOMBE,

consisting of about

42,480 acres of freehold land
5,610 ditto C.P. ditto

Total 48,090 acres.

Together with the following stock:—

About
11,000 mixed weaners
5,000 ewes, one year old
14,700 ditto, one, two, three, and four years old, in lamb
200 rams
9,000 wethers, one, two, and three years old.

The improvements on this block consist of 17 paddocks, fenced with six-wire fencing, with the exception of about six miles chock and log; there are also nine sets of good drafting yards, and three huts that would accommodate boundary riders. Westiscombe is watered by a frontage to Tuppal Creek of about seven miles, besides 60 tanks and two wells.

STRANGER'S RETREAT,

consisting of about

25,188 acres of freehold land
9,164 ditto C.P. ditto

Total 34,352 acres.

POSITIVE and ABSOLUTE SALE.

COMBOGOLONG and WARRAGUN STATIONS, on the Castlereagh River, near Coonamble, N.S.W.

WARDEN HARRY GRAVES, Sydney (in conjunction with the N.Z. Loan and M.A. Co., Ltd., Sydney, has been instructed by the owner, James Peacock, Esq., on account of ill-health, to sell by public auction, at the Exchange, Sydney, on FRIDAY, March 20, 1891, at 2.30 p.m. sharp,

The COMBOGOLONG and WARRAGUN STATIONS, situated in the Bligh district, Central Division, N.S.W., about 30 miles from Coonamble, and adjoining Wingadee, Goongam, Yarraha, and Pollybrewan stations.

The country consists of principally Myall Plains, with open box forests, and the grass is the very choicest and of splendid woolgrowing and fattening quality, and is the very cream of that excellent and favourite pastoral locality.

The area is as follows:—

About 580 acres freehold
" 1380 acres certificated C.P.
" 2560 acres C.P. land, not yet certificated
" 9600 acres conditional lease, which, with the leasehold and resumed area, make up a total of about 80,000 acres.

Fenced into 22 paddocks, and watered by frontage to the Castlereagh River, Neagar Creek, Bungle Gully Creek, Moulma Creek, and several dams and tanks.

With the Station will be sold,

About 15,000 first-class sheep of good ages and descriptions
35 horses and 70 dairy cattle
Station plant, &c.

The improvements consist of a first-class homestead, with large fruit and vegetable garden, kitchen, store, stabling, coachhouse, laundry, blacksmith's forge, and other outbuildings; shearing shed for 30 shearers, shearers' huts, and branding and drafting yards in different parts of the run, in fact the improvements are absolutely complete. There is also for the convenience of travellers an excellent hotel, with store, stabling, and other outbuildings.

The Auctioneers beg to draw special attention to the sale of this magnificent property; its fattening properties being clearly demonstrated by the very large numbers of fat stock annually sent off, and which uniformly fetch the highest rates, one draft of 10,000 being sold for 14s, while the wool also realises good rates.

The owner is only desirous of selling on account of ill-health, and thus a chance occurs for securing a splendid property, second to none in the district.

Terms,

Cash, or at purchaser's option, one-third cash; balance, 1, 2, 3, and 4 years, at 6 per cent.

ACADEMY OF DRESSCUTTING MAKING, DRAPING, and DESIGNING.
The ABILITY to tastefully and perfectly COMPLETE GARMENTS, everywhere and always ensures a perpetual income, equal to the profits of a handsome capital invested in any standard legitimate business. Ladies can secure a thorough THEORETICAL and PRACTICAL knowledge of this STAPLE, USEFUL, and most PROFITABLE ART by learning MADAME FELS' LADY TAILOR SYSTEM, well known by reputation for its simplicity, style, beauty, ease, grace and comfort. The principal object of this system is to instruct ladies how to make GRACEFUL, COMFORTABLE, and perfect-fitting Garments without the necessity of alterations. The numerous ladies who are instructed in this school make their own and their friends' dresses at the Establishment after a FEW WEEKS' TRAINING. Hence a great number of garments, after the LATEST and most COMPLICATED STYLES, are designed and finished at the School weekly, under the personal supervision of Madame Fels, thus enabling pupils to obtain a thorough PRACTICAL training in a very short time, and thereby gaining CONFIDENCE in themselves to establish a first-class business or to obtain a lucrative position. EVERY LADY should avail herself of this opportunity. In the event of adverse circumstances arising she will have the means of establishing a highly remunerative business, or of obtaining a first-class position.

THE CALIGRAPH WRITING MACHINE.
One of the many proofs that typewriting is making great strides in every department of life is to be found in the new rule which has been made this week by their Honors the Judges of the Supreme Court providing that all issues filed in causes set down for trial shall be fairly typewritten.
The attention of the public is directed by the Agent for the CALIGRAPH to the fact that work is turned out by other machines which cannot be reasonably regarded as fairly typewritten. No other typewriter than the CALIGRAPH is used in the offices of the Master in Equity, Prothonotary, Registrar in Bankruptcy, Registrar-General, and Curator of Intestate Estates, and that machine may be regarded as having set the standard of excellence in typewriting in these offices as in other Government Departments.
The special features of the CALIGRAPH, which give it pre-eminence in legal work as well as in business correspondence, are its controllable alignment and full impression of every character.
More brief Caligraphs have been sold during the last month than in any other similar period since the establishment of the Australian Agency. These machines will manifold six copies on thick brief paper, and twelve on strong linen sheets.
THE CALIGRAPH is used by the reporters of several of the intercolonial newspapers which have representatives attending the Federation Convention. The reporters of the Melbourne Argus at present in Sydney are using No. 2 Caligraphs, specially supplied from the local agency. It may be mentioned that the Argus staff have seven of these admirable machines in constant use.
The No. 1 Caligraph is specially adapted for the requirements of clergymen and journalists. This is the cheapest unquestionable typewriter in the market.

Official Shorthand Writer and Caligraph Agent,
